Washington, D. C., March 10.—[Special.]—Government extravagance in this time of depression is the necessity that compels the passage of a tax bill to raise an additional billion dollars, Representative C. R. Crisp [Dem., Ga.], acting chairman of the ways and means committee, told a crowded house of representatives today as the new revenue measure started on its controversial way.

REPRESENTATIVE C. R. CRISP. [Harris & Ewing.]

"I believe it is absolutely indefensible that the budget in peace times should aggregate 4 billion 100 million dollars," Mr. Crisp declared. "It is unjustifiable. It is crushing. It is destructive of love of government. The budget must be reduced. It should be reduced at least 500 million dollars or one billion dollars.

"A 3 billion dollar budget for the United States in peace time is burdensome enough.

Other Taxes Total More.

"And federal taxes are inconsequential compared to the state, county, and city taxes. Only 2 million of 120 million people pay income taxes, and they pay on net incomes.

"In this emergency many of the states, counties and cities have reduced their pay rolls. Industry has cut salaries. The salaries of preachers and bank presidents and teachers and everybody else in this emergency have been reduced.

"Why should those who are fortunate enough to be on the United States pay roll be immune from some reduction? In this dire necessity, with a billion dollars additional taxes levied on the people, there should be a reduction in the expenses of the United States government, including salaries from the highest to the lowest."

Would Abolish Bureaus.

The farm board and many other boards and bureaus should be abolished, said the Georgia congressman, who has been the guiding influence in the tax bill's preparation.

"Think well," he warned his colleagues, "before you vote extravagant appropriations.

"The masses of the people have been long suffering. The inarticulate voice of the masses has not yet been heard. When that inarticulate voice is heard it will roll as thunder, and it will sweep all before it, just as a cyclone drives the chaff before it. I know not but what that hour has arrived."

House Applauds Him.

As he finished the members of the house rose to their feet and applauded, just as an hour and a half earlier they had risen and applauded when Mr. Crisp began his appeal for the tax bill's approval with a statement that the budget at all costs must be balanced by the end of 1933.

"In common with all citizens of the United States," he said, "I regret the necessity for this burdensome tax bill—the most burdensome tax bill that has ever been brought before the house in peace time. But there is no way to escape it."

No individual, corporation or government, he declared, can continue to maintain its credit from year to year, spending more than its receipts.

"The United States government may get by for one or two years," Mr. Crisp went on, "but if congress does not face this responsibility and balance the budget for 1933 the financial world, the entire world, will become frightened as to the stability of the United States' credit.

"Bonds will further depreciate and when United States bonds depreciate, all industrial stocks and bonds and

DEAR TEACHER: HOWARD WILL BE IN SCHOOL TODAY!

A hurry-up message was sent to the Albany Park police by telephone last night.

"Come quick," said an agitated voice, "there's a crazy man in a basement flat at 4100 Addison street."

"With a gun?" queried the alert operator.

The answer to that one was indistinct so the desk was informed that a crazy man with a gun was hiding in the basement flat and threatening neighbors. Capt. Joseph Goldberg sent two squads to the scene.

Arriving first were Policemen John Donlon and Thomas Carroll. Loud yells came from the basement. With their weapons in hand, Donlon and Carroll pushed into the flat.

There they found William Boyd, 55 years old, and his grandson, Howard, 15 years old. Grandpa had gone Victorian. The yells were Howard's. The noises like pistol shots were made by a paddle on the seat of his trousers.

"He plays hooky from school," said the grandfather. "I called the police, but I don't need you now. Howard's going back to school; hey, Howard?"

"Yes," said Howard, "I am going back."

The police went away.

MRS. VALENTINE, PACKER'S WIDOW, CRITICALLY ILL

Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine of 209 Lake Shore drive, society leader and mother of Philip D. Armour III. and Lester Armour, was reported to be in a critical condition at the Passavant Memorial hospital last night. She is suffering from an intestinal disorder.

A blood transfusion was resorted to yesterday, alleviating her condition. Later, however, it was decided to perform an operation at midnight. Dr. James Murray Washburn is Mrs. Valentine's physician. Members of the family gathered at the hospital last night. It was said that while Mrs. Valentine's condition was critical, she had a chance for recovery.

Mrs. Valentine is the widow of Philip D. Armour Jr. After his death she was married to Patrick A. Valentine, for years an important associate in the Armour organization. One son, Pat Valentine, was born of this marriage. Mr. Valentine died in 1916.

Australia $13,030,000 in the Red First 8 Months

CANBERRA, Australia, March 10.—(AP)—Commonwealth expenditures during the eight months ended Feb. 29 exceeded revenues by £3,500,000 (currently about $13,030,000), figures issued today revealed. Revenue amounted to £41,234,000 and expenditures to £44,794,000. A factor was the failure of the state of New South Wales to meet interest payments on its overseas debts, [illegible] payments being made by the commonwealth.

Virginia Hotel with Its Old Glamour to Go

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

The Virginia hotel, an aristocrat to the end, is to be demolished next month. The little colony of Chicagoans to whom the Virginia has been home first and hotel afterward received notes last night requesting that they vacate the premises by April 15, and the notes were unmitigated tragedy.

The end came suddenly to the ten story brick structure at Rush and Ohio streets that towered so impressively in the community of forty years ago. Where once Sir Henry Irving and Nat Goodwin strode at the height of their careers, where Otis Skinner and Henry W. Savage and a score of others were fêted, where Dame Ellen Terry and the Divine Sarah stopped, will be wafted upward the fumes of gasoline and the chuggings of a fleet of motors, taking advantage of another central parking place.

To be Parking Space.

For the gasoline pumps and the oil cans are fated to follow the Virginia. Albert H. Wetten & Co., agents for the Virginia Building corporation, owned by the estates of Silas J. Llewellyn and John T. Llewellyn, announced yesterday that they had leased the site of the hotel to R. G. Lydy for an open air parking station for a period of ten years. A clause in the lease, it was added, provides for cancellation in the event of a sale of the land for any purpose.

So the familiar surroundings of many years took on a poignancy last night for many men and women who called the Virginia home. Former Postmaster and Mrs. W. B. Carlile are rounding out a quarter century of association. Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Blair have been there more than a decade. Senator James Hamilton Lewis resided at the hotel for many years. Many others whose names figure in Chicago events of years past were guests at the Virginia.

Hotel Built in 1891.

Built in 1891 by the late Leander J. McCormick, at a cost of $600,000, the Virginia was from the first a center for fashionable life of this metropolis. Up to the present it has remained as well serviced and immaculately kept as in the days of its glory, and boasts some of the art treasures of Chicago.

Every visitor entering at the main door, for instance, comes face to face with the sculptured image of Nydia, the blind girl of Pompeii, fleeing the wrath of Vesuvius. The statue, guarded by a brass rail, is the original of a work done in Rome in 1860 by Randolph Rogers, of which a replica is in the Art institute. Two exceptionally fine statuettes, one of Franklin and another of Washington, and a few rare paintings are also in the lobby.

A magnificent and enormous sideboard in the main dining room bears the numerals, 1546, carved into the intricate design. The piece is of the Barfield Park oak, from Sussex, England, that was famous for use by the joiners of that era. Biblical scenes in the carving include one of the crucifixion.

Discover "Spite Fence."

When in 1925 surveyors began operations in preparation for the erection of the McCormick hotel just north they discovered that a "spite fence" put up by the owners of the adjoining property as a protest against the erection of the now ancient hotel, had actually been on the hotel property all the time.

The McCormick hotel, now the Croydon, rising higher than its older neighbor, shut off light and air from many of the best suites, making them almost impossible to rent. The demoded architecture of the Virginia did the rest—the owners finding it impractical in these days of depression to remodel a hotel that had only one bath to each suite of four or five rooms. So passes the Virginia. Wreckers will start work April 16.

Woman Kin of Booth, Stage Celebrity, Dies in Poverty

New York, March 10.—[Special.]—Mrs. Marie Booth Douglas, 75, a former actress who claimed relationship with the stage family of Edwin Thomas Booth, was found dead today, alone, in a squalid apartment in First avenue. Her three cats, sole companions of a six year seclusion, stood vigil beside her body.

UNITE AS IN WAR! GERMANS URGED BY HINDENBURG

President in Only Plea to Voters.

BERLIN, March 10.—(AP)—Memories of the stirring days of 1914 and the dark days of 1918 were awakened today by President Paul von Hindenburg in his first and only election campaign address—an address in which he asked for a mandate to give his "last remaining strength" to hold the fatherland together in the face of burdensome problems abroad and the threat of civil war at home.

The 84 year old president, now the embodiment of fatherly kindness to the German people, was the old field marshal once again when he went on the air to ask reëlection. His gruff voice was brusque and military.

Appeals to All Germany.

His appeal was to the entire German electorate and not to any particular party.

"To be the candidate of the German nation on a nonparty basis and as such to oppose those who merely stand for party interests, that I conceive to be my duty to the fatherland," he said.

Not once during his talk did he mention the name of Adolf Hitler, the leader of the National Socialists [Fascists], who is his principal opponent in the voting next Sunday. But he answered two criticisms that have been leveled at him by Hitler's Nazis.

To the accusation that he was unfaithful to the "national front" in signing the Young plan, the president said he was "convinced of the necessity of that step to gain our national liberty."

Replies to Criticism.

And to criticism directed against him because he signed the emergency decrees which placed a heavy burden on German business and German citizens of all walks of life, he replied:

"Last summer we faced the question whether to buy financial relief at the cost of political surrender abroad, or to stand our ground as a nation alone and submit to heavy sacrifices. Without hesitation I chose the latter course."

The old field marshal asserted that whatever his critics might say none of them could deny that he had been motivated by fervent love of country.

Appeals for Unity.

"Our great goal can be attained only if we unite in one true national community," he said. "I cannot believe that Germany will go under in internal strife and civil war when the supreme task is the struggle for liberty and the standing of the German nation."

He appealed for a rebirth of the feeling of union that swept the country in 1914 and declared that he was impelled to fight for Germany by "the responsibility that made me hold out in the war until I brought my troops home."

Shortly after the president had completed delivering his address from his study, 20,000 communists massed in the Sportspalast at a campaign meeting for Ernst Thaelmann, their candidate for the presidency.

Police Raid Hitler's Offices.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 10.—Berlin police authorities are worried about the activities of Adolf Hitler's storm troops as a result of information that the latter have received secret orders to be ready late Sunday afternoon "to march out of Berlin in order to avoid clashes with opponents in the hours of excitement when the election results become known."

Republican leaders, who learned of the orders, expressed fear that this means that the Nazis are mobilizing their forces to strike should President Paul von Hindenburg be reëlected. Hitler tonight announced that the secret orders were issued only to avoid "unnecessary loss of life in possible conflicts with communists and republican Reichsbannermen."

Police today raided Hitler's Berlin headquarters after discovering that a police lieutenant, a sergeant, and a girl typist had been giving secret information to the Nazis. The raid, the police said, revealed that the Nazis possessed all details of police plans for election day movements. The three police plotters were arrested and have confessed.

Panic Hits Jerusalem as Beirut Bank Closes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

JERUSALEM, March 10.—As a result of the failure of Kyriacos Zouhir, a private bank at Beirut, a financial panic occurred here. The population frantically proceeded to withdraw all funds from every Syrian bank and business was at a standstill owing to the general uncertainity.

Workers Jeer Assessor as He Fires 401

J. L. Jacobs, newly appointed assessor of Cook county, late yesterday afternoon faced 491 employés hired under the patronage system of the deposed board of assessors and discharged 401 of the jobholders. A storm of hoots, hisses and Bronx cheers greeted the announcement and it appeared for a brief moment that some harm might be done to Jacobs.

Only 90 employés were notified to return to work today. These employés were selected by Jacobs and his chief assistant, Harry S. Cutmore, after a survey had been made of their work by a corps of experts. The ninety will carry on the work of the office until a complete reorganization is effected and then additional employés will be hired to complete the 1931 reassessment, it was announced.

Notified to Appear.

The employés were notified to assemble in the large workroom of the assessors' office on the third floor of the county building at 4:30 p. m. yesterday. At that hour Jacobs appeared, accompanied by Cutmore and County Attorney Hayden N. Bell. These three faced the crowd which hemmed them in on every side.

"I have decided that only a few employés are needed to carry on the work for the present," said Jacobs. "I am happy to say that those who are to be dismissed will immediately be paid in full. The county treasurer has arranged to do this."

Reads Ninety Names.

There was some perfunctory applause at this statement and the crowd waited breathless as Cutmore began reading the names of those who are to return to work today. When he had read ninety names and announced "That is all," there was a moment's silence. Then the chorus of jeers followed.

Four hundred and thirty-one county employés also were dismissed as a result of the county's passage of a 1932 budget which saved $5,500,000 in operating expenses. These employés will also be paid in full at once, it was announced. Other county employés have not been paid since Nov. 15, and the prospect is remote for an early pay day, it was said.

Cutmore Sworn In.

Cutmore was sworn into office yesterday morning. His salary is to be $10,000 a year. Jacobs' salary has been fixed at $15,000 by the county board. Cutmore replaced Charles E. Fox, director of appraisals, who was also dismissed.

The former assessors gathered with Jacobs yesterday afternoon to complete the formal delivery of books and records to the new incumbent.

BANDITS SEIZE $2,200 CASH AT LOOP THEATER

Two armed men stepped up to the ticket seller's window of the Palace theater at 159 West Randolph street at 10 o'clock last night and, thrusting their pistols at Miss Florence Luthardt in the cage, compelled her to surrender $2,200 to them.

Detectives P. J. Murphy and John J. Geary of the central station learned from Miss Luthardt that she first handed the men the money that was in sight. One of the pair then told her she would be killed unless she gave them the remainder, which she was hiding. She then obeyed their commands.

The robbers crowded close to the window and no one in the lobby noticed them. They escaped on foot.

The bandits selected an opportune moment for their crime, for just before they approached the cashier Policeman Michael Bennett, on duty at the theater, was called away from his post to placate two taxicab drivers a half block away who were disputing over a parking place.

NURSE'S SUITOR HELD AS ALIEN LAW VIOLATOR

Lindbergh Ladder Is Linked to Church.

BULLETIN.

Hopewell, N. J., March 11 (Friday).(AP)—A material increase in the ransom demanded by the kidnapers of Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr. was advanced early today as one explanation of the delay in the return of the child.

It was reported the original sum sought, $50,000, was jumped in subsequent communications received by Col. Lindbergh from the child stealers, who have been keeping their identity and hiding place a close secret.

While the famous flyer was represented as willing to meet the new demands, it was learned in a reliable quarter the abductors had informed him they did not feel the time safe yet to conclude negotiations.

BULLETIN.

New York, March 10.—(Special.)—An important new development in the search for the Lindbergh kidnapers came late today when Reginald J. Brown, an official of the New England Organ company of 110 State street, Boston, identified the kidnap ladder as one which was used in pipe organ repairs. As a result, police immediately began a widespread checkup of organ lofts in church and theaters which have organs.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 10.—[Special.]—The search for the Lindbergh baby will move into its tenth day tomorrow and still no authentic word has been received from the kidnapers, so far as the public knows. The long vigil was said to be wearing the nerves of both Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife, the former Anne Morrow, to the breaking point. In some quarters it was reported that it was feared a cold which Col. Lindbergh had contracted might develop into pneumonia.

It became known tonight that Henry [Red] Johnson had been charged with violating the immigration laws. The warrant on which he was held was dated March 6, two days after he was picked up for questioning by Hartford, Conn., authorities.

Hunt Becomes World-Wide.

Meanwhile the hunt for the abductors became international in its scope, fingerprints of both Betty Gow, the Lindbergh nurse and Johnson, her sailor suitor having been rushed to Scotland Yard for a check up of any possible European criminal record either might have.

"So far we have not been able to fix any definite responsibility for the kidnaping upon Henry Johnson or Betty Gow," said Col. Norman Schwartzkopf of the New Jersey state police, just before midnight. "But because of international investigations with reference to their previous lives abroad we are not in a position to vindicate them."

Johnson's Story Checks.

The New Jersey official explained that Johnson had been investigated because "most of his activities have been centered in north New Jersey." He said every companion of Johnson was being questioned and "so far his story has checked satisfactorily.

"A communication," said Col. Schwartzkopf, "has been received from State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn of Hartford, Conn., to the effect that one Betty Gow, a chorus girl, served six months for illegal entry into the United States and was deported to Europe in 1927 and returned to the United States in 1929. The verification of the fingerprints of Betty Gow, who is employed by the Lindbergh family, by the United States bureau of investigators department of justice, show no criminal records in the United States and this would tend to disprove the fact that the two are one and the same."

Capone Wants to Help.

Alphonse Capone, from his cell in the county jail in Chicago, served notice that he would like to get out on bond so that he might join other underworld characters in hunting the kidnapers of Col. Lindbergh's 20 month old son.

Capone admitted he believes in the old adage, "set a thief to catch a thief," and indicated that he believed that the underworld could find the kidnapers. While he would neither admit nor deny that his attorneys had gone to Washington, D. C., to ask his temporary release to seek the Lindbergh baby, this was asserted to be a fact in other quarters.

"I know I could help," Capone said. "I'd post a bond of $200,000 if the government would let me out. I could reach the people in the east who could do more than all the detectives in the country to find the Lindbergh boy."

The gang chief suggested that Thomas Callaghan, head of the federal secret service in Chicago, accompany him. Al also offered to leave his young brother in his cell as a hostage.

Capone is under a sentence of 11 years in the federal penitentiary for income tax dodging. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed his conviction and a motion for a rehearing is now pending. The court denied bail for the gang chieftain.

House News Scarce.

There was no definite information concerning the physical condition of Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh forthcoming during the night. Reporters who watched the house from a distance saw neither of them outside during the day and it was assumed they had remained indoors.

Reports that Mrs. Lindbergh was confined to bed and under a physician's care were neither affirmed nor denied. Col. Lindbergh was said to be suffering from a heavy cold.

There were reports that a new figure from the underworld was playing an important part in Col. Lindbergh's personal attempts to obtain the return of his baby. The man was said to be Morris Rosner or Rossner. New Jersey authorities said they knew nothing of this angle and Police Commissioner Mulrooney declined to comment. A man named Rossner, the commissioner said, is under indictment for larceny here in a stock fraud case.

Reports that Rosner had taken up residence in the Lindbergh home was not denied by the New Jersey troopers stationed about the estate. They contented themselves with replying, "We do not know."

The New York police, it was learned, are investigating a gang of professional kidnapers. The gang has been preying on rich men in Massachusetts and Rhode Island and is said to be composed of remnants of the Frankie Yale mob in Brooklyn and the "Bugs" Moran gang of Chicago.

Lindy Runs Gantlet.

Col. Lindbergh was reported to have made several secret automobile trips away from his estate, running the gantlet of reporters by garbing himself in a trooper's uniform and putting on glasses. Whether he went to keep rendezvous with the abductors or their agent could only be conjectured in the absence of any word of confirmation from the family.

Col. Lindbergh's mysterious automobile trips, according to watchers at Hopewell, were made on Monday, Tuesday, and early Wednesday morning. The trooper's coat which he wore to disguise his identity was the cause of the secret cropping out. One of the troopers had left his coat hanging near his quarters in the garage. Monday he missed it and reported the loss to his superior officer, who in turn advised Capt. J. J. Lamb. The trooper was told to "say no more of it."

A Slim Young Trooper.

At first not even the police knew that Col. Lindbergh had been using the uniform coat. Other guards noticed the new slim, young "trooper" and began asking their associates who he was.

The day's developments included a statement from R. B. Hullfish, who superintended the building of the Lindbergh home, that the now famous ladder used by the kidnapers might have been made of timber used in the Lindbergh home.

There was also a growing belief—one that the family refuses to accept—that the kidnaping of the baby had been done by an insane person. This theory, many believed, offered the only lucid explanation to the queerly tangled maze in which the case is now cobwebbed.

Ships were being searched today for the kidnaped baby as New Jersey police authorities ceased to report "progress" in their activities.

The search of ships was principally confined to ocean liners which sailed soon after the kidnaping took place. The search, however, will be extended to coastwise boats.

Clew on Atlantic Liner.

Particular attention is being paid to the Norwegian-American liner Bergensfjord, on which a man carrying a small, blond, curly haired baby is supposed to have embarked just before the liner sailed from Brooklyn the day after the kidnaping.

The Bergensfjord is due in Bergen, Norway, tomorrow afternoon. A radio message has been dispatched to Capt. Ole Bull, in command of the vessel, to make a thorough search of his vessel at once.

When the Ile de France touched at Plymouth today, authorities went aboard. They found nine babies, but none resembling the Lindbergh infant. The President Roosevelt is due in Plymouth early tomorrow.

Story All Hearsay.

The story of the man and baby boarding the Norwegian liner was related to ship news reporters today by a customs inspector who asked that his name be withheld. He says the man, carrying a baby, went aboard at the last minute. The customs inspector was told about the circumstance by longshoremen at work on the pier. He said he knew the men and had confidence in their veracity.

The New York office of the Norwegian-American line said they knew of no man and a small baby aboard their ship and that a man would have a difficult time boarding or getting off the Bergensfjord without a passport that included the baby.

New Guards Installed.

This morning there was a shakeup in the personnel guarding the estate. Troopers from the rank of sergeant down were recalled and a new lot of police installed in their place. There was no official explanation of the shift, although some attributed it to the fear that friendships would be formed between the guards and newspaper men if the same men were permitted to work together over a long period.

"Salvy" Spitale, Col. Lindbergh's representative designated several days ago to act as a go-between with the underworld, today placed a guard over his own children. Spitale, it was revealed by Mrs. Spitale, has received three letters threatening the abduction of the two Spitale children.

"Even if the letters are not from gangsters," said Mrs. Spitale, "the children are in danger of being carried off by cranks."

Meanwhile, for a time, it appeared that Spitale himself might have to appear in federal court as a defendant in a liquor care. Two men appeared at the Brooklyn federal building. Persos who knew Spitale and Irving Bitz, his gun bearer, said it was either the two Lindbergh aids or their doubles. Both denied such identity and their attorney only smiled.

If Spitale and Bitz are implicated in the liquor case they will have little time for gangland contacts in the search for the Lindbergh baby as the case has been set for hearing tomorrow.

Description Is Misleading.

The official description of the kidnaped baby was altered in an important particular this afternoon after Mrs. Erna Scholtz, owner of an Englewood beauty parlor, revealed that the child did not have the long, golden curls shown in the pictures released.

A few days, possibly a week, before the abduction, Mrs. Scholtz said she cut the boy's hair. It was his first haircut and the work was done in the home of the baby's grandmother, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow.

Reporters massed at North station, Philadelphia, this morning waiting for a train due there at 6:54. On that train, it was said, emissaries of Al Capone were coming from Chicago with the baby.

The train rolled in a few minutes late, just after newspaper men had learned from Harrisburg, Pa., that two men resembling Salvy Spitale and Irving Bitz, Col. Lindbergh's emissaries to the underworld, were on it. The train was searched without success.

A second detachment of reporters and policemen met the train again two hours later at Pennsylvania station here. Again it was searched, but nothing whatever was found to lend a shadow of confirmation to the Capone story.

Search Begins Anew.

A tedious, detailed "recheck" of the Hopewell area was being made today by troopers, the mountains searched, abandoned houses visited again.

Over in Skillman detectives were running down the possiblity that the ladder came from the construction work done there three to four months ago on the state home for epileptics, but they admitted that no definite progress has been made.

All known mental defectives of the neighborhood now have been investigated, according to the state police.

Out of the mountain of letters and telegrams that have come to Col. Lindbergh five have been laid aside for further personal investigation, it was said this afternoon. These communications all purport to come from the kidnapers. One is the ransom note left on the windowsill. The other four are on the same kind of paper. Three are written in the same hand as the original ransom note and the fourth is typewritten. All are signed with the same peculiar design that was on the ransom note and all contain demands for money and that instruction for its delivery will be forwarded at a proper and safe time.

Whether or not these four notes actually were written by the person who wrote the ransom note, whether their receipt is an actual, established fact and whether Col. Lindbergh places any confidence in them has not been definitely confirmed. All information concerning the notes is second hand. The police repeatedly have denied any knowledge of the later notes and have cast doubt over the receipt of an original ransom demand.

Dodge Questions on Gang.

A question as to whether the police have any information tending to prove that an organized gang stole the baby was not answered at the press interview in Trenton.

The police would not confirm the report that the kidnapers have informed Col. Lindbergh they will get in closer touch with him when they feel safer. In fact, they said in an interview during the night, given out from the Lindbergh house, that if Col. Lindbergh has been in touch with the kidnapers and has been told the baby is well, but that the time is not favorable for its return, they have no knowledge of it.

That of course has been the customary answer of the police to all matters concerned with Col. Lindbergh's personal negotiations—officially the police have no knowledge of his progress.

New Crop of Rumors.

The ninth day of the hunt produced a crop of rumors equally as large as those of any other twenty-four hours. One concerned the finding of the Lindbergh child in Connecticut. Sheriff Thomas F. Reilly of Bridgeport was reported speeding to Trenton with the baby. He was said to have a man, a woman, and the child in the automobile with him.

Sheriff Reilly's office reported he had gone to New York. Gov. A. Harry Moore's office reported no one there knew of any impending visit from the Bridgeport sheriff. It was all a misunderstanding, according to the night reports. The sheriff had nabbed a traffic violator and he happened to have a wife and baby. Nevertheless, the traffic offender could not be produced and reporters insisted Sheriff Reilly was en route to Trenton to see Gov. Moore.

Six thousand gypsies joined the hunt after a conference of their tribe leaders held in Washington. Word was sent to all gypsy camps to be on the lookout for the Lindbergh baby.

Tony Meale, the New Haven, Conn., man who was overheard talking about how much the Lindbergh baby would be worth to kidnapers several weeks ago, was sentenced to two nights in the county jail.

SIGNAL FOR FINDING OF BABY FIRE SIREN; THEN THERE'S A FIRE

Hopewell, N. J., March 10.—[Special.]—The small army of newspaper men covering the kidnaping story at Hopewell was eating, resting, or sleeping at the Hotel Gebhart today when the shrill whistle of a fire siren rent the air.

As one man the correspondents leaped from their chairs; others came racing down the stairway, pulling on clothes as they came; cameramen grabbed their cameras and all raced out the door.

Sounding of the siren meant one thing to them—the baby had been found.

The Hopewell Herald, the local weekly, had announced it would signal the baby's recovery by blasting the country air with the siren. And now it was shrilly sounding the joyous news.

Leading the mad rush was the local police force—Charley Williamson, who is also chief of the volunteer fire department. At the fire house a bewildered native mildly informed the excited throng that there was a fire at Skillman, a few miles away. And even that turned out to be nothing more than a brush fire started by sparks from a railroad engine.

VIRGINIA DRY ACT CURB GOES TO GOVERNOR

Bill Would Sidetrack Prohibition Law.

Norfolk, Va., March 10.—[Special.]—The lower house of the Virginia legislature today passed the bill introduced by Delegate Vivian Page of Norfolk which takes virtually all the teeth out of prohibition in this state. The bill eliminates jail sentences for persons convicted of having less than a quart of intoxicants in their possession. It also repeals the law giving state's attorneys an extra fee for conviction of offenders accused of violating the prohibition law.

The bill practically sidetracks the Layman act, a state prohibition measure which provides for fines and jail sentences on violators found with any quantity of beer or whisky in their possession.

Fees Are Limited.

The Page bill provides that prosecuting attorneys shall receive no fee for convictions in prohibition cases that would be in excess of the fees collected for violations of any other state law. It also provides that persons having more than a pint of intoxicants or less than a quart shall not be construed guilty of violating the state law.

This is the most drastic anti-prohibition legislation enacted by the lawmakers of Virginia since the state voted dry in 1916.

Awaits Governor's Action.

The measure passed the house by an overwhelming majority, the solid Norfolk delegation voting for it. Norfolk elected a 100 per cent "wet" delegation to both houses of the legislature last November. The measure was passed by the senate last week and would become law as soon as signed by Gov. John Garland Pollard. In the event the governor vetoes the measure it is claimed a two-thirds majority can be obtained to override the veto.

COUPLE AND BABY IN AUTO AROUSE WEST SUBURBS

Chicago and county highway police were on the lookout early this morning for a Franklin sedan containing a woman, a man, and a baby. The actions of the couple prompted police to radio a message to halt them on the possibility the child was the kidnaped Lindbergh infant.

The couple first appeared at the road stand of Walter Miley in South Washington street, Naperville. The woman alighted from the car, carrying a bottle of milk. She asked Mrs. Miley if she would warm it for her. Meanwhile she stood at the window, nervously watching the parked car. The lights of the machine were out, and it is not known whether the machine bore a foreign license. Before the milk could be warmed the man stepped from the machine and opened the door of the lunchroom.

"Come on, we can't wait," he commanded. Both left, leaving the bottle of milk behind. Twenty-five minutes later the same couple stopped at Dale McQuiston's stand at Western Springs and procured a bottle of hot water. They then headed for Chicago. Sergts. Oscar Stringborn and Alfred Wickert of the Naperville police were notified and flashed Chicago police. The woman was described as 30 years old and cross-eyed.

CHINA EXECUTES FOUR KIDNAPERS BY FIRING SQUAD

SHANGHAI, March 10.—(AP)—Four Chinese kidnapers faced a firing squad today at Tsao Ho-king prison in Shanghai. Two of the men were convicted of kidnaping a compradore (native commission merchant) of the British-American Tobacco company in March, 1929, and the others were convicted of kidnaping a compradore of a British company in 1930.

Demand Ransom for Yank.

PEIPING, March 10.—(AP)—Bandits who have been holding Capt. Charles Baker of California since they captured him off his river boat on the upper Yangtze on Jan. 16 have made a new demand for 40,000 silver dollars ransom, it was reported here today by a Chinese naval vessel, which said it was in touch with the bandits. The ransom money must be paid before two weeks, the bandits said.

ROOMING HOUSE KEEPER SLAYS FIGHTING TENANT

John H. Thompson, 29 years old, 348 West 63d street, a brakeman, was shot and killed late last night when he went on a rampage in a rooming house at 6352 Maryland avenue. His slayer was Louis Deaky, 58 years old, manager of the rooming house. He claimed self-defense, and both he and his wife exhibited blackened eyes and bruised faces in corroboration. Another victim of Thompson's rampage was Miss Joyce Monroe, 24 years old, who lives at the rooming house, and whom Thompson had escorted home. Thompson was beating Miss Monroe when Deaky appeared and remonstrated.

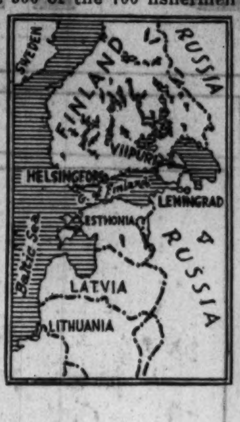
Thompson turned on Deaky and struck him several times. Mrs. Alice Deaky ran to her husband's assistance and was also beaten. In the interim Deaky procured a gun and returned to the room, where Thompson still was striking his wife. Deaky fired one shot, killing Thompson almost instantly. Miss Monroe fled, but later gave herself up to the Woodlawn police. She said Thompson began beating her when she resisted his attempt to attack her.

Thompson's wife, Helen, to whom he was married a year ago, told the police she would attend the inquest today.

BOATMEN RESCUE 300 AS ICE FLOES DRIFT AND BREAK

400 Finnish Fishermen Still Stranded.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, March 10.—(AP)—About 300 of the 700 fishermen stranded on breaking ice floes in the Gulf of Finland yesterday during a storm were saved by courageous boatmen who braved the heavy seas. One fisherman died of heart disease and overexertion.



Two airplanes took off from Viipuri with food for the other 400, who could be seen from Suursaari island, which is midway between Helsingfors and Leningrad. Most of them were huddled together on two huge floes.

An ice breaker which put out from Helsingfors last night reached the neighborhood of Suursaari island and the rescuers aboard planned to continue their operations all night.

About 100 men were reported on one large floe near this island. Another floe, carrying 30 men, had broken up into several small sections.

In addition to the 300 men the rescuers saved 30 of the 100 horses marooned with the party, which had been fishing for two days along the coast.

The cold has been intense during the last twenty-four hours and it is feared that the fishermen are suffering greatly from exposure. The horses, too, are in a bad way in the absence of fodder. The wind was still high today, but the storm had broken.

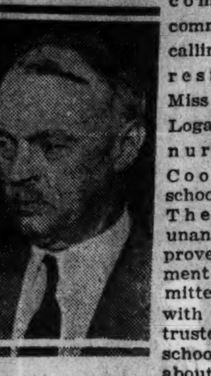
ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

DOCTORS DEMAND COUNTY DISMISS DEAN OF NURSES

Assail Miss Logan for 'Lack of Co-operation.'

Sixty physicians, members of the staff of the county hospital, last night commended a committee report calling for the resignation of Miss Laura R. Logan, dean of nurses at the Cook county school of nursing. The doctors unanimously approved appointment of a committee to confer with the board of trustees of the school to bring about the dismissal.



DR. D. S. HILLIS. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Miss Logan's conduct of the nursing school was first brought to public attention several weeks ago when County Commissioner Charles H. Weber demanded an investigation of her purchases with county funds of high priced furniture for her living quarters. Love seats, twin beds, rich draperies, and other items were itemized as purchases made by Miss Logan.

Doctors Assail Miss Logan.

While several physicians at the regular monthly meeting of the county hospital staff last night at first counseled a delay in asking Miss Logan's resignation, others were outspoken in their criticism of her attitude.

A number declared that Miss Logan had refused to coöperate with staff physicians and had discharged experienced nurses on short notice. The committee report, read by Dr. Roger T. Vaughan, declared that Miss Logan had "destroyed her usefulness" by a refusal to coöperate with the hospital staff.

Since Miss Logan's appointment as dean, she has been constantly at war with the doctors, they declared, refusing to consider their suggestions for betterment of nursing conditions and adopting an autocratic attitude which they said has resulted in harm to the nursing service. Many of the physicians recounted their experiences with the dean, declaring that she usually sought refuge in tears when pressed for a reason for her refusal to coöperate with the staff physicians.

Doctors' Committee Named.

"She has shown an obstinacy in regard to suggestions that has made it impossible for the staff to coöperate with the school," asserted Dr. David S. Hillis, who was appointed chairman of the committee which will confer with the board of trustees. Other members of the committee are Dr. Vaughan, Dr. Philip H. Kreuscher, Dr. Don C. Sutton, Dr. Maurice L. Blatt and Dr. Karl Meyer.

"It is impossible to reason with her," said Dr. Frederick Tice, who presided at the meeting. "She apparently believes herself supreme in authority and her judgement infallible."

The committee headed by Dr. Hillis was instructed to arrange for a meeting with the board of trustees of the school through Dr. Franklin C. McLean, who has acted as spokesman of the trustees at county board meetings. Dr. Tice said that Dr. McLean had promised the coöperation of the trustees to the extent of dismissing Miss Logan if that were found necessary.

SUSPECT SEIZED FOR ROBBERY OF WISCONSIN BANK

Earl Willis, formerly of Libertyville, was arrested last night in Rochester, N. Y., by operatives of the William J. Burns detective agency on a charge of robbing the Citizens' National bank of Delavan, Wis., on Feb. 8. The lone bandit in the holdup obtained $6,000 after shooting and wounding a depositor.

According to representatives of the agency, Willis returned to his Libertyville home. He is an ex-convict and suspicion was directed at him when he seemed to have a great deal of money. It was said he mentioned the bank robbery while drinking.

Two weeks ago Willis left Libertyville. The detectives traced him to Rochester, where his brother, Richard, lives. Authorities at Elkhorn, Wis., already had a warrant out for his arrest.

Dr. W. C. Judd Granted Another Delay in Trial

Los Angeles, Cal., March 10.—[Special.]—Dr. William C. Judd, husband of Winnie Ruth Judd, convicted Arizona murderess, today was granted another delay in his trial on charges of practicing medicine without a license. Municipal Judge Clement Nye set his hearing over to April 8. The continuance was granted when Attorney Paul Schenck, who defended Mrs. Judd in Arizona, submitted an affidavit that Dr. Judd is under medical treatment in the Veterans' hospital at Phoenix, Ariz.

Woman Dies in Plunge from 4th Floor Window

Mrs. Edward Harder, 36 years old, was killed yesterday when she fell or jumped from a window of her home on the fourth floor of the Green Briar apartment hotel at 6220 Greenwood avenue. About a half hour before her plunge she had been visited by her physician, Dr. J. T. U. Renaud, 7742 Cornell avenue, who had been treating her for a stomach ailment. Her husband, a radio salesman, was in another part of the flat when she went out the window.

FORECAST ONLY 53% COLLECTION OF 1930 TAXES

Estimate Is Based on Drop for 1929.

Collection of the 1929 taxes started more than a year ago, but only 68 per cent of these taxes have been collected for the seven major local governments. This was shown yesterday in statistics prepared for the citizens' tax warrant sales committee headed by D. F. Kelly. The figures were compiled by Assistant County Controller Michael J. O'Connor and County Auditor Lee J. Howard.

M. J. O'CONNOR. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

These statistics, according to the officials, are a strong indication that the 1930 tax collection will be even smaller in view of economic conditions. It was pointed out that so far the aggregate of 1930 collections is only $13,237,934, although practically all of the tax bills have been mailed out.

Show School Budget Futile.

The figures also show the futility of the hope of collecting taxes to meet the $90,000,000 school budget for 1932, tax experts said. For 1929, for school purposes, a total of $75,367,775 in taxes was extended, but only $51,946,924 has been collected thus far. Even for 1928, there are still 20 per cent of the taxes for school purposes which remain uncollected, the figures show.

A table showing the 1929 tax extensions with the percentages of collections for the seven major local governments follows:

	Extension.	Collected.	Pct.collected.
Schools ...	$75,367,775	$51,946,924	68.92
City	73,520,527	50,992,067	68.36
Sanitary ...	24,446,998	17,097,007	69.88
County	19,825,175	13,737,601	69.29
Lincoln Pk.	2,794,145	1,672,138	59.84
South Park.	11,025,235	7,910,814	71.75
West Park..	3,684,828	2,607,937	69.29

The statistics regarding the collection of 1928 taxes show that for the seven governments an average of 83 per cent have been collected. The drop to an average of 68 per cent in the following year may well be taken as indicative of the drop which is probable in the collection of 1930 taxes, it was declared. One official who studied the figures pointed out that a similar reduction for 1930 taxes would mean that only 53 per cent of them would be collected.

A table showing the figures for collection of 1928 taxes follows:

	Extension.	Collection.	Pct. coll'd.
Schools ...	$55,844,989	$45,645,033	81.74
City	63,875,608	52,388,762	82.02
Sanitary ...	19,447,179	16,373,546	84.19
County ...	19,963,315	16,948,600	84.90
South park.	9,786,136	8,361,117	85.44
Lincoln pk.	2,805,810	2,232,277	79.56
West park..	4,292,702	3,634,200	84.55

The figures are as of Dec. 1, 1931, but there has been practically no change since then, the county auditor said.

29 Get Diplomas

A class of 29 men and women were given their eighth grade diplomas last night from an evening school which they themselves maintained after the school board withdrew its support the first of the year. The exercises were held in the Douglas branch library at 13th street and Homan avenue, where the class was conducted by Miss Margaret Walsh after the school board closed the regular evening session at the Lawson school.

FORMER CHICAGO MAN KILLS SELF IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., March 10.—Special.]—Despondent over a cronic illness, Guy Woodin, 62 year old sportsman and horse fancier of Benedict Canyon drive, ended his life today in his private offices at 210 Beaumont building, Beverly Hills. According to Police Chief Charles Blair, Woodin committed suicide by firing a bullet through his head.

Occupants of the building heard the shot and rushed to Woodin's office, but found the door closed and notified police. On the office door, according to Blair, was a note which briefly stated: "Do not open this door."

Woodin, who conducted the Woodin Farm stables at Golf, Chicago suburb, for many years, came to Los Angeles about eight years ago and has been living in Beverly Hills since. He is survived by a widow, Nell Woodin, and two daughters, Jane and Martha.

EVANSTON SUES EX-TREASURER FOR $20,000 FEES

The city of Evanston yesterday brought suit against Edward H. Payne who was city treasurer and town collector in Evanston in 1927 for $20,000 in fees for tax collection. That sum is the excess over the $10,000 which Payne was allowed by law to retain for his services as local collector.

Payne has withheld payment, placing the money in trust, because of a dispute between the Evanston city government and the school boards of the suburb as to who is to get it. The school authorities are expected to file an intervening claim in the city's suit. Corporation Counsel William Lister, who started the suit, said that he would file similar actions against C. Andrew Rogers and the estate of the late Roland R. Kline, former collectors, who also placed their excess fees in trust pending settlement of the dispute between the city and school boards. Their excess fees total $79,000.

FIRE DESTROYS SUMMER HOME OF J. P. BOWLES

The fourteen room summer home at Lake Marie, owned by J. P. Bowles, Chicago commission merchant, was burned to the ground early this morning by a fire of mysterious origin. The loss was estimated at $25,000. Fire Chief James Stearns of Antioch hurried to the scene, two and one-half miles southwest. By the time apparatus arrived, however, the fire was beyond control and the blaze was allowed to burn itself out.

Chief Stearns said that footprints and automobile tracks indicated some one had been near the house earlier. The home has been vacant during the winter. Mr. Bowles, it is said, has not used it for the last two summers, renting it to other people.

CHILD BURNED TO DEATH.

Peru, Ind., March 10.—[Special.]—Betty Silvey, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Silvey, was burned to death here today in a fire which destroyed the family home. The child was alone in the house.

SCHOOL BUDGET BALKS TEACHERS' PAY, MAYOR SAYS

Declares Bankers Refuse to Advance Money.

Mayor Cermak yesterday paid his respects to the board of education, referring to it as the "squanderbund." The board's adoption of a $90,180,000 budget caused Chicago banks to refuse to advance money for teachers' pay rolls, although they were willing to make advances so that city employés might be paid, the mayor disclosed.

ALD. J. S. CLARK.

"I see that the board is getting cold feet and that Mr. Savage is getting savage," Mayor Cermak said. He referred to the board meeting of Wednesday, at which trustees indicated some desire to reconsider their budget, and to Trustee Joseph P. Savage's attack on the citizens' committee headed by D. F. Kelly. The Savage attack occurred when the committee informed the board that because of the high school budget the committee could sell no more school tax warrants.

"I have refused to accept help for city employés unless the school teachers are included," Mayor Cermak continued. "Those who are advancing money for salaries want taxing bodies to live within their means. The banks don't want school warrants. The city takes them and ties up its funds in them. The banks are willing to help the police and firemen now, but I say no unless they include the teachers."

"The school teachers want their pay and not speeches," Mayor Cermak said in explaining why he thought a meeting of teachers in the council chambers would do more harm than good.

Seeks Revenue Estimates.

Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the council finance committee, called a meeting of the committee for Tuesday to consider the amendment to the economy ordinance offered by Mayor Cermak at Wednesday's council meeting. The amendment would give the mayor blanket authority to dismiss city employés as an economy measure.

"It is essential that the committee have as accurate an estimate as possible of our 1932 revenue before acting either on the amendment or on the ordinance to abolish 2,479 city jobs," said Ald. Clark. "The two most important factors in arriving at such an estimate are how much personal property is to be placed on the assessment rolls and how much the loss and cost in collection of taxes will be."

Committee to Hear Teachers.

The committee will also hear representatives of teachers' organizations on the pay question. While the next regular meeting of the council is on March 23, Ald. James B. Bowler [25th] explained yesterday that it will be an easy matter to summon a special session before then if the finance committee reaches a decision. Meanwhile Mayor Cermak is working with his department heads on a list of nonessential employés and those whose services may be dispensed with in emergency.

WOMAN HELD AS SALOONKEEPER.

Mrs. Angeline Cordidina, reputed operator of a saloon at 1400 South 50th avenue, Cicero, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $1,000 by United States Commissioner Walker yesterday.

CHINESE REBELS END CIVIL WAR TO FIGHT JAPAN

Reds Agree on Truce; May Send Armies to Front.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

KASHING [Headquarters of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek's forces, southwest of Shanghai], March 11 [Friday].—The possibility of a compromise being reached between Chinese government troops and the Chinese communist armies in Kiangsi province constituted the most significant development yesterday in the Sino-Japanese situation on this front.

CHIANG KAI-SHEK.
[Acme Photo.]

Military officers who have just arrived here from Kiangsi, having marched overland with troops since the beginning of the conflict with Japan, announced that a truce already has been reached and that negotiations are proceeding for the amalgamation of the Red armies into the national government forces for use against the Japanese invaders.

Agree on Chief Points.

It is claimed that the chief points of the compromise and merger already are agreed upon. The only point yet undecided is whether the Red forces shall be commanded by Kuomintang officers or by communist commanders. The communists are insisting on their own commanders. Hence there is a possibility that the two outstanding Red leaders, Chu Teh and Mao Chi-tung, will shortly join the general staff being organized by Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, virtual dictator of China, for the purpose of facilitating speedy and further resistance to the Japanese invasion.

It is stated that Chu Teh and Mao Chi-tung already have organized three regiments which are being sent from southern Kiangsi to the Chinese sector along the Shanghai-Hangchow railway. The supreme commander along this area is likely to be Gen. Lu Ti-ping, who was previously head of Marshal Chiang's troops in the anti-communist war in Kiangsi but who is now at the head of the Chekiang provincial government.

The decision to deal with the Reds and incorporate them with the government forces is said to be largely due to the impossibility of transferring large bodies of troops across the Yangtze river from the north, due to the vigilance of 30 Japanese gunboats patrolling the river between Nanking and Shanghai.

Prepare for New Onslaught.

Preparations to renew the conflict with Japan are proceeding energetically. None of the Chinese officials has any faith in the successful outcome of the peace discussions at Shanghai. Although few Japanese reconnoitering parties have been south of Soochow creek, Chinese officers are confident that the Japanese intend to extend their campaign along the Shanghai-Hangchow railway.

It was reported in Kashing this morning that the Chinese had cut the railway a short distance south of Lunghua junction, a few miles out of Shanghai. They fear that the Japanese are ready to launch an offensive toward Hangchow.

Japanese scouting planes are making daily patrols along the line. The flyers follow all trains from Shanghai as far as this city and thence fly northwest to Soochow before returning to Shanghai.

War Refugees Arrive.

Thousands of civilian refugees are arriving here by boats from Soochow. Some go on to Shanghai, while others proceed to Hangchow and other points in the interior. The Hangchow trains, going and coming, are packed with terrified Chinese, some fleeing from Shanghai, while others are fleeing toward the port.

Japs Seize Customs Stations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, March 10.—The inauguration of Henry Pu-yi, former Manchu boy emperor of China, as "dictator" head of Manchoukuo, the new Manchurian state, was immediately followed today by the reception of telegrams here that the Japanese have taken control of the Chinese government customs offices at Antung, Yingkow, Dairen, and elsewhere throughout Manchuria.

The customs station at Antung controls the trade between Manchuria and Corea and will in the future be staffed with Japanese, supposedly employed by the new state of Manchoukuo, according to notification sent by the Japanese consul general at Antung to R. M. Talbot, the American citizen serving as the Chinese government's customs superintendent at that city.

Threaten to "End Farce."

Talbot today telegraphed T. V. Soong, Chinese finance minister, for instructions. Mr. Soong said that the new state is a puppet of Japan and has no international standing. It is the Chinese government's intention, he said, to send an army north of the great wall and "end the farce."

The finance minister also ordered Talbot and other customs officials not to allow any interference with Chinese government customs stations and to continue sending remittances to the central bank here as in the past. He said that Manchurian customs vitally affect the interest of other powers since the customs revenue of the entire country constitute the security for Chinese foreign loans and indemnities held abroad. Foreign ownership of Chinese domestic bonds is also secured by customs revenues.

F. M. Dewet, newspaper editor of Batavia, Java, Dutch East Indies, has been arrested and imprisoned by Dutch authorities on a charge of trying to sell plans of Dutch East Indian fortifications to the Japanese army, according to a report brought here today by Dutch newspaper men.

Gen. Chiang Kwang-nak telegraphed headquarters of the 19th route army here last night stating that the Japanese are constructing an aviation field in the vicinity of Liuho and that large scale preparations are being made in the Liuho district for a general offensive against the Chinese forces. It is alleged that the Japanese now have 6,000 troops in the town of Fouchiao, northwest of Liuho.

China Repeats Demands.

SHANGHAI, March 10.—(AP)—The Chinese government, replying to the latest Japanese peace proposals, today reiterated its demand for unconditional evacuation of Japanese troops as a prerequisite to truce negotiations.

The peace proposals had come from Marmoru Shigemitsu, Japanese minister to China, who informed Chinese authorities that civil and military officials of the Tokio government were ready to start negotiations in accordance with the league of nations assembly resolution adopted March 4.

Although the pre-negotiation maneuvering still goes on, improvement in the situation was reflected by the departure of five United States destroyers. The Parry, the John D. Ford, and the Borie left for Manila, the Edsall went on to Amoy, and the Truxtun to Nanking.

Japanese officials announced that their losses from the beginning of hostilities on the night of Jan. 28 to March 5 totaled 532 dead and 2,072 wounded. These figures included army, navy, and civilian casualties.

Manchuria to Ask Loan.

TOKIO, March 11 [Friday].—(AP)—A dispatch to the newspaper Asahi from Mukden, Manchuria, today, said one of the first acts of the new Manchurian cabinet was a decision to ask Japan for a loan of 20,000,000 yen [about $6,300,000], to meet the first few months' expenses until its financial organization was working.

Hsieh Kai-shih, foreign minister at Changchun, the new capital, telegraphed to the governments signatory to the nine power treaty, including China, and to Germany, soviet Russia, and the league of nations, notifying them of the establishment of the new government.

He pledged recognition and fulfillment of all foreign treaty rights.

Japan Decides to Oppose League's Plan to End War

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, March 11 (Friday).—(AP)—The Japanese government decided today to instruct its Geneva delegation to refrain from voting on the league of nations assembly's proposed new resolutions for a settlement of the conflict with China and to oppose to the utmost application of Article XV. of the league covenant in Manchuria. Article XV. is the one under which the dispute between China and Japan was submitted to a special assembly of the league. Japan's decision means that it would oppose submission of the Manchurian problem to the assembly. Japan has taken the position that the Manchurian and Shanghai situations are separate problems.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, March 10.—The Chinese and Japanese here both expressed dissatisfaction tonight with the draft resolution on the Sino-Japanese conflict prepared for the league of nations assembly.

The drafting committee will carry its resolution through a general debate tomorrow and through a plenary session of the assembly whenever that meets.

The third section of the resolution gives more strength to the league's stand to settle the conflict. It provides that a subcommittee of nineteen members which the assembly will set up will be given certain powers. It will be able to propose "any urgent measure which may appear necessary and submit its first report to the assembly as soon as possible and by May 1 at the latest."

Will Not Shelve Conflict.

The dispute in the orient is not to be shelved until the September assembly at all. This extraordinary assembly remains in session and can be convened whenever it is deemed necessary. This means that if Japan proves recalcitrant any powers interested in so doing can demand that procedure according to the covenant, which is far from exhausted as yet, be continued.

The first part of the resolution made it very emphatic that the assembly considers the covenant applicable to the conflict.

The Japanese found this acceptable, as they are more or less bound by such principles as long as they keep up a pretense of membership in the league, but when their eyes scanned the second part they were not so happy.

It reads:

"The assembly affirms that it is contrary to the spirit of the covenant that a settlement of the Sino-Japanese dispute should be sought under the stress of military pressure on the part of either party."

Will Oppose Stand.

The Japanese naturally look on this as implying that evacuation of Shanghai and Manchuria must precede a round table conference and consideration of the case second. They forecast reservations to this as well as to the statement to the effect that both Shanghai and Manchuria are within the assembly's competence, a point which the Japanese have disputed from the start.

It is rumored tonight that the Japanese tomorrow will promise evacuation of their hard won territory at Shanghai. The story is that Sato and Matsudaira have been assuring Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japanese foreign minister, that it is economic and political suicide to get the entire world down on them and that Yoshizawa spread the alarm to his father-in-law, Premier Tsuyoshi Inukai, who went to Prince Saionjii, last elder statesman, who talked the mikado into a change of policy.

Anyway, until they get new orders, the Japanese here assume that they will only accept the resolution with two reservations.

Bemoan Lack of Pressure.

Dr. W. W. Yen, Chinese delegate, probably will not go so far as a reservation, but he feels the clause on military pressure is weak and that the assembly committee instead of being instructed to "follow" evacuation measures should "enforce" them.

Generally, the Chinese and the smaller powers find the resolution better than they expected. League members argue that it is the best that could be expected in the face of the aversion of the big powers to action and the resultant assumption that mediation must be continued for the time being.

How's This?
Corns Lift Out
With Fingers---No Pain!

Thanks to a discovery made from an imported product your foot troubles may be quickly ended.

Ice-Mint as this preparation is called is said to shrivel up hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes so that they can be lifted out easily with the fingers. It's wonderful. Think of it: only a touch or two of Ice-Mint and real foot-joy is yours.

There is not one bit of pain or soreness when applying it or afterwards and it doesn't even irritate the skin.

If your feet are inclined to swell or puff, or if you have cracked or bleeding toes, it will draw the inflammation right out and quickly heal the sore and tender places. It is the real secret of fine, healthy feet and is greatly appreciated by women who wear high heel shoes and by men who have to stand all day. Try it. Just ask in any Drug store for Ice-Mint and learn for yourself what solid foot comfort really is. There is nothing better.

MAYOR ANSWERS CAMPAIGN FOES' CRY OF 'DICTATOR'

Champions Tactics Used to Pick Horner.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Mayor Cermak last night championed the political processes which brought about the slating of Judge Henry Horner as the regular Democratic candidate for the nomination for governor. He said that if his judgment played any part in making up the organization slate he was proud of it.

That was his reply to charges of Michael L. Igoe, and Bruce A. Campbell, also candidates for the nomination, that he, Cermak had played the part of dictator in the selection of the state candidates by the state committee. He delivered his answer at a meeting of 800 at the Chicago Beach hotel sponsored by the south side branch of the "Volunteer Workers for Henry Horner and Associates."

Sees Boost for Cause.

Earlier County Clerk Sweitzer had said he hoped the anti-organization candidates would continue to direct their fight at Mayor Cermak.

"Let's have Mayor Cermak the issue by all means," he said. "Then all the taxpayers will be with us. Victory will be more certain than ever."

The mayor started out by jesting about the charge of dictatorship.

"I came here tonight," he said, "to show you that I have no horns, that I'm not a candidate for Mussolini's job."

Then he became serious and related how, four years ago, he was an active candidate for the governorship before the organization decided that place on the slate should go to downstate and how, after Floyd E. Thompson was selected, be backed the organization choice all the way.

For a Balanced Ticket.

"Was that the action of a man who would become a dictator?" he asked. "And I want to tell you that I had no more to do with the makeup of our state ticket than many other of our party leaders, the leaders chosen by the party for that very purpose.

"Of course, the party wants to present the strongest ticket possible in November—a ticket that will win, a ticket upon which are represented the various schools of thought, the many nationalistic groups, that is balanced geographically. Just suppose that one nationalistic group succeeded in nominating all the candidates. What chance would that ticket have?"

Mayor Cermak said that Chicago's return to good standing among the cities of the country had been established by the fact that, although in 1930 it fell to seventh place as a convention city, it regained first place in 1931.

Brundage Challenges Custer.

In a talk to a meeting of his neighbors at 3520 Sheridan road Edward J. Brundage, Republican candidate for the governorship, challenged one of his opponents, Omer N. Custer, to say whether he would sign a bill passed by the assembly for the repeal of the state prohibition laws. He charged that the answer was to be found in the action of Custer's sponsor, Gov. Emmerson, in vetoing the Weber-O'Grady bill.

As in past campaigns, rivalry for the support of service men of prominence is developing, and competing announcements were issued yesterday by the headquarters of Mr. Custer and Attorney General Carlstrom, another Republican entrant for the governorship.

Col. Howard P. Savage, former national commander of the American Legion, made the announcement of the formation of a service men's committee for Carlstrom. The list included the names of three past commanders of the Illinois department of the Legion, Edward Hayes, Arthur Poorman, and Ferre C. Watkins, and several former state commanders of the Spanish War Veterans and the Disabled American Veterans. They included William Orthman, Charles G. Essig, George Berry, Howard F. O'Brien, and Walter Jasper.

Custer headquarters made public a statement by David L. Shillinglaw, past commander of the Illinois American Legion, indorsing its candidate.

John E. Northup, Republican candidate for attorney general, has opened his own headquarters in the Brevoort hotel. He has been indorsed by the Deneen gorup.

ROBERT E. NEELY IS OUSTED FROM REVENUE OFFICE

Robert E. Neely, chief deputy in charge of field agents in the office of the collector of internal revenue, has received his walking papers. His "resignation" is to be announced today.

Through political channels it was learned yesterday that his dismissal was dictated for political reasons by the recently appointed collector, Gregory T. Van Meter, and his political sponsor, George F. Harding. The notice served on Neely was that he would be off the active list on March 15 and would be taken off the pay roll a week later.

Since receiving that notice Neely has filed as a candidate for Republican ward committeeman of the 16th ward against the incumbent, Dr. William H. Reid, a Harding follower.

DRY SUPPORTER ASKS POLICE AID; FEARS BOMBING

Expressing fear of a possible bombing, Mrs. Grace R. Gregory, Du Page county dry supporter, requested police protection last night for her home in Bridge street, near Liberty drive, Wheaton. She refused to give any detailed explanation of her fears.

On Wednesday stories told of a suit filed in Wheaton against Mrs. Gregory, her husband, Albert, and his brother, Thomas, demanding the return of $5,000. The plaintiff is Mrs. Jessie Erickson, a divorcee of Elmhurst. Particulars of the claim were not divulged except that the money in question was given in June, 1926. Mrs. Gregory was a deputy sheriff at that time.

RESTORE LIBERTY BY DRY REPEAL, HORNER DEMANDS

Annual U.S. Revenue Loss 860 Million, He Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Benton, Ill., March 10.—[Special.]—Judge Henry Horner, Democratic candidate for governor, gave at length tonight his reasons for opposing prohibition.

His speech here was devoted almost entirely to that issue. In his first statement in the campaign he announced that his position on this question was the same as that of the people of Illinois as it was expressed in referendum votes in 1922, 1926, and 1930. Now he expands upon that statement with an analysis of the causes for his attitude.

Tells of Dry Law Failure.

In his opening he said that even if prohibition were the success promised for it by his sponsors he still would oppose it as an interference with personal liberty, but then he went ahead to show it a failure.

"The economic loss to the country," he said, "the loss of life and liberty of thousands of our citizens, and the decaying moral strength of the growing generation are too great a price to pay for the doubtful benefits we receive from prohibition.

"The cost of the futile attempts to enforce these laws and the loss of revenue to the federal government in excise taxes alone almost offset the total revenue derived from the federal tax on individual incomes.

Loss in Federal Revenue.

"The national appropriation for enforcement, deducting some $5,000,000 in fines, is over $40,000,000. The loss annually in federal revenue from beverage taxes is—very conservatively—860 million dollars. These terrific losses, if obviated, would greatly reduce the tax burden upon our industries and this of itself might prove a sufficient stimulant to start them on the road to recovery.

"It is estimated that if we manufactured legally the spirituous beverages consumed by our citizens we could give employment to a million and a half people in the country."

Igoe Hits Horner and Campbell.

Carthage, Ill., March 10.—[Special.]—Michael L. Igoe, candidate for the governorship, classified himself as the only Democratic aspirant for that nomination who is appealing to the entire state for support.

"Bruce Campbell," he said, "is the downstate candidate and Henry Horner is the Cook county candidate. This campaign will be a repetition of the 1912 primary wherein Edward F. Dunne defeated his two rivals because he had support from every section of Illinois."

Campbell Speaks at Champaign.

Champaign, Ill., March 10.—[Special.]—Democrats of Champaign county turned out today to hear Bruce A. Campbell, East St. Louis candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor. Campbell, the only candidate in the gubernatorial race who graduated from the University of Illinois, was accorded a rousing reception when he later addressed a student rally in the university district.

Custer Asks New Tax Laws.

Robinson, Ill., March 10.—[Special.]—Necessity for the revision of the revenue article of the Illinois state constitution was stressed here today by Omer N. Custer, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor.

MRS. MARSHALL FIELD III. INJURED DURING FOX HUNT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 10.—Mrs. Marshall Field III. of Chicago received minor injuries today when she was thrown from her horse during a fox run near Kings Norton, northwest of London.

Mrs. Field was thrown heavily and the horse rolled on her. She was taken home, but attending physicians said she is not seriously hurt.

Regarded as one of the beauties of British society, Mrs. Field, a bride of nineteen months, recently had returned with her husband, grandson of the famous Chicago merchant, from an aerial honeymoon over Africa. The couple had come from Paris this month to ride in the hunts. Mrs. Field is an expert rider. She is a daughter of Mrs. Willie James of London.

Sow Lawn Seed NOW! . . .

WHEN the ground is honeycombed with late frosts, seed will sink in and germinate under most favorable conditions. Sow 1 lb. of Vaughan's Chicago Parks and apply 10 lbs. of Vaughan's Lawn and Garden Fertilizer to each 300 square ft.

New State Law Protects You It requires all lawn seed mixtures to bear labels showing just what they contain. This protects you from unknowingly buying mixtures containing timothy, a coarse hay, and other cheap adulterants. Read the label, and insist on Vaughan's Chicago Parks, which is sold by reliable dealers everywhere and has been for fifty-four years the standard blend of fine lawn grasses best suited to make permanent lawns in this section.

Vaughan's Chicago Parks Lawn Seed contains Kentucky Blue Grass, Red Top and White Clover of the highest quality. Our Columbian mixture is a companion mixture for shady places. All bear labels stating exact analyses. Price, ½ lb., 25c; 1 lb., 50c; 5 lbs., $2.25; 10 lbs., $4.00.

Vaughan's Lawn and Garden Fertilizer This is a rich, quick acting, odorless mineral fertilizer of the formula 5-8-6 (5 parts nitrogen to 8 parts phosphoric and 6 potash). 10 lbs., 90c; 25 lbs., $1.90; 100 lbs., $4.75.

The Most Beautiful Seed Catalog Vaughan's Gardening Illustrated, which is free by mail or at our stores, is the 1932 gardener's year book, containing 200 plates in full color of annuals, perennials, roses, lilies, water lilies and gladioli. It lists 2,111 separate flower seeds and the tender, finely flavored Table Quality Vegetables, giving the vitamin value and mineral content of each. A postcard brings it to you.

SMITH ACCUSES MAYOR CURLEY OF "TRICKERY"

Suggestion He Quit Race Brings Tart Reply.

JAMES M. CURLEY.
[A. P. Photo.]

New York, March 10.—[Special.]—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, in a telegram today to Mayor James M. Curley of Boston—one of Gov. Roosevelt's most active supporters—charged the Boston mayor with being "tricky" and with attempting to put him in a false light with his Massachusetts friends.

The telegram, which makes no bones about expressing the former governor's resentment toward Mayor Curley, the same Mayor Curley who supported him so vigorously four years ago and has now jumped over to Gov. Roosevelt, arises from an exchange of messages initiated by the Boston executive.

How It All Started.

Following Gov. Roosevelt's sweeping primary victory in New Hampshire on Tuesday, Mayor Curley sent Mr. Smith a message suggesting that the former governor withdraw from the Massachusetts primary. Mayor Curley said he made this recommendation "as a Democrat interested in the success of the party."

To this first telegram Mr. Smith replied by stating that his consent to the use of his name in the Bay state was not in any way "out of line" with the statement he issued when he announced he would accept the presidential nomination. The former governor did not withdraw his name and Mr. Smith's associates at the Empire State building assumed the matter to be closed.

Then came, and very promptly, a second message from the Boston mayor to the effect that Mr. Smith's message had been pleasing to the Massachusetts Democracy, because, recalling the former governor's original statement, he would not make a fight for delegates.

In his telegram today to Mayor Curley, Mr. Smith, thoroughly aroused, contends that the Boston mayor has read into his first message something which did not exist and read it into the message with intent to embarrass him and his associates in Massachusetts.

Text of Smith Message.

Today's telegram, which, incidentally, was given out by Mr. Smith's office here in New York, read:

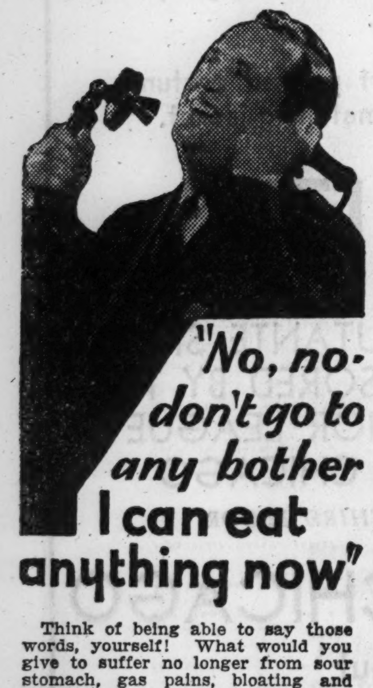
"Dear Mayor: I am in receipt of your second telegram. The printing of our telegraphic correspondence in the newspapers indicates to me that you are trying to put me in a false light with my Massachusetts friends.

"I want you to understand that I welcome their support, that I have the keenest appreciation of their loyalty and devotion to me as well as their complete understanding that I battled hard for the principles they stand for, and I am ready to do so again.

"I am sorry that you seem to feel that you should advise me and, much as I hate to say it, your second telegram seems to me a bit tricky. My case is in the hands of the Democrats of Massachusetts and I have abundant confidence in their judgment."

FALL FATAL TO DUNNING INMATE.

Mrs. Caroline Johnson, 75 years old, 10345 Avenue F, a widow, died in the Chicago State hospital at Dunning yesterday of pneumonia, which set in after a fall in the hospital on Jan. 9.



"No, no—don't go to any bother I can eat anything now"

Think of being able to say those words, yourself! What would you give to suffer no longer from sour stomach, gas pains, bloating and heart-burn after eating? You can, if you will, enjoy your meals . . . eat what you like . . . after years of stubborn indigestion!

FACES SENTENCE

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 10.—[Special.]—Mary Nolan [Imogene Wilson] will be sentenced tomorrow as a result of conviction on eight counts of violating the state labor laws. The maximum jail term she can receive is four years and the maximum fine of $4,000. She was found guilty of not paying employés of a gown shop and house servants. Her husband, Wallace Macreary, who was her partner, was found guilty on nine counts and faces maximum sentence of four and a half years and $4,500 fine.

To the day's other vicissitudes for Miss Nolan was added a contempt of court citation from another court. Justice of the Peace H. E. Billings in West Hollywood ruled she was in contempt of court when she failed to appear in his court this morning to pay $96 in two additional wage claim cases.

He swore out a bench warrant for her arrest and assigned deputies to bring her in. At a late hour they hadn't found her.

RELIEF CRISIS MET; WARRANTS OVERSUBSCRIBED

Another emergency successfully met was chalked up to Chicago's credit last night when the sale of state tax warrants closed with subscriptions totaling $55,900 over the quota of $12,500,000. Disposal of the remaining $6,250,000 of the entire issue of $18,750,000 will be delayed until July. This move saves the state $156,000 in interest and permits the sales group who donated their time and efforts, to return to their own desks at once.

"Thanks to Philip R. Clarke and his workers," Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, said last night, "the immediate emergency needs have been met. At a time when their businesses demanded their attention, these workers devoted time and energy to the campaign. We feel they are entitled to the heartfelt thanks of the entire state, and particularly of the city of Chicago."

RULE CATHOLIC MARRIAGE IN A PLANE IS INVALID

NAPLES, Italy, March 10.—(AP)—The newspaper Il Mattino published as the opinion of well known churchmen today that a Catholic marriage could not be performed under church law in a moving airplane. The churchmen quoted are Msgr. Enrico Pucci, who often acts as the Vatican's spokesman to the press, and Father Veermesch, Jesuit professor of theology in the pontificial Gregorian university.

The question was put, the newspaper said, in view of the increasing travel by air.

The churchmen cited the canonic law that a religious marriage in order to be valid must take place before a parish priest "of the place where it is performed." They explained that a moving airplane was not likely to remain over the small jurisdiction of one parish during the performance of a marriage.

CHARITY RACKET HEAD IS GUILTY; FACES 15 YEARS

Kept Funds Collected for Infants' Milk.

Jacob Karchmer, charity racketeer, was found guilty of using the mails to defraud by a jury in the court of Federal Judge Charles G. Briggle yesterday. The government charged that through Karchmer's operation of the Chicago Infants' Free Milk depot at 20 East Jackson boulevard, little milk flowed, but a great deal of cash poured into his pockets.

A maximum sentence of five years on each of three counts in the indictment upon which he was convicted faces Karchmer. Judge Briggle set tomorrow morning for hearing a motion for new trial, and the sentencing in the event the motion is overruled.

Girl Gathers Evidence.

Miss Florence Johnson of the Claridge hotel at 1244 North Dearborn parkway, an undercover investigator for the Chicago Association of Commerce, who was employed by Karchmer as a solicitor, testified for the government. Questioned by Assistant United States District Attorney Francis J. Kennedy, she described how Karchmer used a battery of telephones manned by men and girls in his depot. Contributors were told that all the money collected was to be spent for milk for needy children.

The literature issued by Karchmer's organization set forth the need for money to "carry on the work," and was embellished with scriptural and poetical quotations about babyhood.

Co-Defendant Acquitted.

Hal G. Metcalf, co-defendant and a former employé of Karchmer's, was acquitted. His attorney, Joseph E. Green, told the jury that Metcalf was ignorant of the character of his employer's dealings.

Karchmer was arrested several years ago for selling tickets to dances for the benefit of war veterans when, it was charged, that the only beneficiary was himself.

YOUNG BANDITS ROB SOUTH SIDE BANK; GET $7,000

4 Menace Employes, Seize Cash.

Four youthful bandits held up the South Central State bank, 9 East 79th street, yesterday and made off with $7,000. The loss was covered by insurance, bank officials said.

The robbers were all in the early twenties, according to Churchill Barclay, assistant cashier, who was in charge at the time of the holdup. Perhaps for the purpose of confusing later identifications, they all wore blue overcoats and gray felt hats. which were nearly identical.

The leader carried a sawed-off shotgun. His three accomplices had cheap nickel plated revolvers.

The bandits left an automobile parked at the curb outside and entered with the announcement, "This is a stickup. Line up!"

Barclay was in one teller's cage, waiting on Mrs. P. J. Russell, 8108 Perry avenue, a depositor. Miss Margaret Briggs, a teller, was in an adjoining cage. Mrs. Olga Johnson, bookkeeper, was working in the rear of the room. All were forced to line up facing a wall beside the teller's cage.

While two of the gang walked back into the cages and scooped all of the currency and change in sight into satchels the other pair guarded the prisoners.

The leader of the gang demanded of Barclay whether there was any more cash in the vault. He replied that there was only a few hundred dollars in silver. At that moment a passerby hesitated at the door as if to enter. The robbers saw him, fled to their car and drove away.

Since the first of the year the Illinois Bankers' association has offered a standing reward of $1,000 for the capture and conviction of any bank robbers operating in the state, M. A. Graettinger, executive vice president of the association, said yesterday.

Between 65 and 75 per cent of bank robbers are caught and convicted, Mr. Graettinger said.

U. S. NAVAL CRAFT RACE FIRE; SAVE 40 JAPS OFF SHIP

MANILA, March 11 [Friday].—(AP)—Two United States naval planes and six craft of the American Asiatic fleet rescued a crew of 40 or more Japanese from the flaming gasoline laden freighter Kaku Maru in Philippine waters last night.

Wireless messages to the Cavite navy yard, near here, said airplanes spotted the blazing ship 200 miles south of Manila and directed the squadron of American ships in the spectacular rescue.

Outracing her sister ships, the American destroyer Tracy was first to reach the Kaku Maru and take off the crew.

SENTENCED FOR WHITE SLAVERY.

Joseph Locastro, Charles White, and Hazel Brown, who were arrested last June as leaders of a white slave gang, were sentenced by Federal Judge Charles G. Briggle yesterday to serve terms of two years, eighteen months, and six months, respectively, in the penitentiary.

FARMERS SHOW U. S. IS LOSING THEM MILLIONS

Wheat Prices Held Down, Growers Charge.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The Farmers' National Grain corporation and the Grain Stabilization corporation, agencies through which the federal farm board sought to improve business for American grain growers, have done the growers more harm than good, it was charged in Chicago yesterday by the head of an organization of more than 300,000 farmers.

He is Tom R. Cain of Jacksonville, Ill., president of the National Farmers' Grain Dealers' association. Five state associations of this parent organization have just voted to ask congress for a thorough investigation of farm board operations and have protested against what they call "activities of the government that reduce the status of the farmer to that of a ward."

Offer Records as Proof.

Chicago grain merchants yesterday offered their records to substantiate charges that grain farmers are losing millions of dollars because of market price manipulations and other operations of the farm board's agencies. The records disclosed the following situation:

1. Wheat bought with taxpayers' funds has been sold by the farm board agencies at cut prices, serving as a bearish factor on the market.

2. This week's record March freezing temperatures that seriously injured the wheat crop in many areas did not cause a rise in the price because the farm board's reserve stocks were unloaded whenever the prices started upward.

System Called Discriminatory.

3. The Chicago Board of Trade's system of grading wheat, farmers say, discriminates against several varieties. It is alleged by Cain to have cost Illinois farmers alone $1,000,000 last year. The grading system, which has reduced the number of wheat grades from 17 to 9, was put into effect at the combined insistence of Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, the farm board, and the grain futures administration. In response to farmers' demands the Board of Trade is voting today to remove the alleged discrimination against hard yellow wheat.

4. In several country towns where farmers' elevators have refused to join the farm board's sales agencies or affiliates it is charged that a portable type of grain elevator is being used by the federal agencies to influence farmers into joining, or to provide such competition that farmers' elevators will be forced into coöperatives created by state farm bureaus.

Farmers Opposed to Board.

"These farmers' elevators are each owned by 10 to 150 farmers or others to whom they have given or sold the stock," explained Mr. Cain, a farmer himself, who came to Chicago with two cars of cattle yesterday.

"These elevators have been our own property for years, and we have as much pride in them as in our schools, or as you have in your own community property. We don't want to sell out to a system over which we have little or no control, and which has not proved itself more economical than our present marketing system.

"We have more farmer members in our elevators than the entire membership of the American Farm Bureau federation, yet its officers presume to speak for all agriculture. Reports from our membership indicate that seven out of every ten farmers are opposed to the farm board and would like to see its stabilizing activities ended."

A total of 1,450 local farmers' elevators were said by Mr. Cain to be represented in the adoption of the resolutions asking investigation of the farm board. The state associations in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, and North Dakota joined in the petition to congress.

Mr. Cain discussed further the alleged discrimination against hard yellow wheat.

"Illinois farmers," he said, "last year raised some 23 million bushels of this hard yellow wheat that has been discriminated against by the grain exchanges in reducing the number of wheat grades on request of government officials. In the reduction of classifications hard yellow wheat lost its standing as a separate grade. As a result we lost a million dollars last year because our wheat brought several cents a bushel less than the price it obtained under the former grading. Indiana wheat growers also lost heavily."

Through the courtesy of several grain merchants in Chicago a reporter was permitted to look through files of correspondence which showed that grain bought with taxpayers' funds and now held in storage by the farm board agencies had been offered for sale at prices of 1 to 7 cents a bushel under the cost of replacing the wheat.

Collateral Discount Cut.

Several merchants also reported instances in which the discount on grain collateral (usually considered by banks as good as government bonds if the grain is "hedged" or sold for future delivery) had been cut from 10 to 15 cents a bushel. This, they said, was explained to them by the banks as due to the heavy discount established for the federally financed agencies because of present market uncertainties which did not exist before the government entered the grain business.

A study of the Board of Trade records on trading in wheat for May delivery disclosed that most of the trading since last August has been within a price difference of 6 cents a bushel. Since Feb. 16, in spite of crop damage and other bullish influences, the prices have been maintained between 60⅛c and 63c a bushel.

Whenever a spurt of buying orders has come in, the pits have been deluged with stocks of wheat for sale. These stocks, grain merchants declare, come from the wheat reserves of the governmentally financed corporations.

SUES FOR $25,000

MISS GRACE NELSON.

Hearing of a suit for $25,000, brought by Miss Grace Nelson, 21 years old, 6051 North Talman avenue, against John K. Slater, owner of a rug cleaning plant at 4547 Ravenswood avenue, and William Clemons, a truck driver for the concern, started yesterday before Judge A. Clay Williams in the Superior court. Miss Nelson charged that she was struck by a truck driven by Clemons on Dec. 27, 1930, after he had driven past a street car on the left side. She received injuries to her left hand which hindered her studies as a pianist, she said.

LIVE STOCK MEN MAKE ATTACKS ON FARM BOARD

Depressed Prices Blamed on Federal Body.

Washington, D. C., March 10.—(AP)—Charges that the farm board has depressed prices and threatens to drive commission merchants out of business were brought to the house agriculture committee today by spokesmen for the live stock exchanges.

Officials from the Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis, St. Joseph, Omaha, and Denver exchanges gathered to protest the direct marketing activities of the board through its coöperatives.

James C. Stone, chairman of the farm board, denied the charges at Minneapolis. "Direct marketing was developed before the farm board was ever thought of," he said.

Called Disrupting Influence.

Charles Wilson, president of the Chicago exchange, contended the board's agencies "have been a disrupting influence and have produced incalculable damage."

"The board is working hand in hand with packers to depress prices," he added. "Their activities trend towards monopoly. They have adopted bulldozing tactics to get business and have promised the people to manipulate prices.

"The board has used its funds to depress the price of hogs through direct marketing. By their direct marketing program the price on hogs has dropped out of line about $5 a head in the last eight months."

Fred H. Olander of Kansas City, former president of the National Live Stock association, said the government's entry into the live stock business virtually has ruined commission merchants and warned disastrous results would follow attempts to monopolize the market.

"Our system is the best that has ever been found," Olander said. "Direct marketing never has been proved a better method of handling live stock than the exchange."

"All Bunk," Stone Says.

Minneapolis, Minn., March 10.—(AP)—Chairman J. C. Stone today described as "all bunk—absolutely untrue," statements made in Washington by Charles Wilson, Chicago Live Stock exchange president, attacking the federal farm board.

Referring to Wilson's assertion that "the board had used its funds to depress the price of hogs through direct marketing," Stone said:

"Direct marketing was developed before the farm board was ever thought of. The only thing the National Live Stock Marketing association has done is to help sell products for its members at the best possible prices. For that matter, the association is not a farm board body. It is the producers' own setup and we are trying to help it succeed along sound lines as we are instructed to do under the law."

LABORATORY

MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.,
Chicago, Illinois

Gentlemen:

Having ordered from you for many years, from auto jacks to a machine shop, it is no more than right that a few words of praise be sent along with the order enclosed. Not one outfit in the world gives auto tires such rough treatment as the Death Valley Exploration Co. My work takes me from one end of the valley to the other. At times the thermometer in my car is 128 degrees, once up to 132. Every 10 days I drive the round trip from the mines to Barstow loaded with 1,000 to 1,200 lbs. The first 26 miles takes 2 hours to drive. No road for 7 miles up grade over sharp lava rocks. Next 5 miles of boulders and sand wash—here many cars have come to grief. Have made many miles where my car was the first. Another well-known make of tire stood only two trips into the desert. Seventy-five per cent of the time my car is in the blistering sun, yet my full set of Riversides in use more than two years is not even weather-checked like some of the high priced tires I formerly used. Besides this car, we are using three 2-ton trucks Riverside equipped. Also all my men are using Riversides as they have seen the results for themselves.

Sincerely,

Frank J. Buck

THIS STATEMENT WAS NOT PAID FOR

Furthermore, Mr. Buck did not give us this statement in return for advertising. Mr. Buck is not interested in publicity. He has no reason to trade his praise for mention in the newspapers.

DE VALERA OPENS PRISONS FOR 20; CROWDS CHEER

Irish Political Victims Get Warm Welcome.

DUBLIN, March 10.—(AP)— The gates of three Irish prisons opened wide today for twenty Irishmen who were serving long sentences for political offenses under the Cosgrave government. The order for their release was one of the first acts of the new régime of President Eamon de Valera, Fianna Fail leader.

A crowd of many thousands outside Arbour Hill prison, where De Valera himself once was incarcerated, cheered wildly as seventeen of the men appeared at the portals. The released inmates were hoisted to shoulders and carried to waiting automobiles.

The cars, adorned with large tricolors, carried signs reading: "Welcome home, Republican prisoners." There was a parade through the streets of Dublin between rows of excited cheering throngs, and the prisoners were taken to a hotel for a public reception.

Refuses Prison Clothes.

George Gilmore, one of the men released, was sentenced to five years several months ago in the connection with the discovery of a dump of guns. Gilmore bore obvious traces of his ordeal. Throughout his term he refused to wear prison clothes. He had, therefore, to remain in bed and he was very weak.

"Yes, it was tough," he said, "but it was worth it. The republic isn't dead yet."

The crowd cut short his words. Friends, cheering loudly, lifted him to their shoulders and bore him away.

Another of the men released was Frank Ryan, editor of the Republic, who was under sentence for three months for contempt of court.

Others to Be Freed.

Two prisoners were released from Maryboro prison and one from Mountjoy. It was expected that others would be released within a few days and that the public safety act, which authorized the military tribunal by which many political offenders were sentenced, would be repealed by an order in council before the adjournment of the dail for Holy week.

The release of the prisoners took place before De Valera had been in office 24 hours. Apparently it was his first act.

Arbour Hill has been used for political prisoners for more than ten years. De Valera was there in 1923, when an American commission visited him to take evidence. He refused to recognize the commission as long as he was a prisoner and his evidence never was obtained.

GIRL, 3½, SENDS POEM WITH HER GIFT TO PUPILS

Jeanne Camille Gibbs, 6430 North Oakley avenue, 3½ years old, accompanied her $1 contribution to the Hungry School Children's fund yesterday with the following poem:

"Here's one hundred pennies to fill a hungry child's dish.
May she eat and be merry
Is Jeanne Camille's wish."

And from Grace Jaynes, 7 year old pupil at Eugene Field school, came 50 cents with the message: "I want to send some money for the hungry school children. I want to help them go to school."

Other gifts, as follows, brought yesterday's total to $44.07:

$15—Emilie H. Cummings.

$10—A friend.

$5—Chanute Field Scholars of the Post Sunday school, Rantoul, Ill.; Mrs. Abraham Kuh.

$2.40—Leader Store employés, 1537 West Chicago avenue.

$2.17—Contributions made to the Governor's Unemployment Relief fund by employés of the state of Illinois.

$1—G. E. Carlfeldt, Miss D. F. E., Richard Greenebaum.

Total	$ 44.07
Previously acknowledged	39,813.43
Grand total	$39,857.50

Contributors should direct their gifts to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

DRESEL CHOSEN AS COMMANDER OF AIRSHIP AKRON

Washington, D. C., March 10.—(AP)—Assignment changes in two of the most important posts in naval aeronautics were announced tonight by the navy department.

Commander Alger H. Dresel, formerly commanding officer of the airship Los Angeles and now attached to the Lakehurst Air Station was assigned to command of the airship Akron. The ship now is undergoing repairs necessitated by a recent accident at the station.

Dresel will relieve Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl. Rosendahl is due shortly for promotion to the rank of commander and must have sea service before taking the new rank. His duty will be aboard the U. S. S. West Virginia.

MUSCULAR—RHEUMATIC PAINS

DRAW them out with a "counter-irritant." Muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness—generally respond to good old Musterole. Doctors call it a "counter-irritant" because its warming action penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain. It gets action and is not just a salve. But do not stop with one application. Apply this soothing, cooling, healing ointment generously to the affected area once every hour for five hours. Used by millions for over 20 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

NEED OF BILLION BOOST IN TAXES LAID TO WASTE

Burden Is Crushing One, Crisp Declares.

lands, and everything else, depreciate, and the government, of necessity, will be required to pay higher rates of interest, thereby entailing additional burdens upon the taxpayers."

To the advocates of an issue of greenbacks he replied that such unsound methods had been tried before, and the efforts had failed. Sound money, he declared, must come from the taxpayer and not from the printing press. Without a balanced budget, he warned, the emergency measures passed by congress would prove futile.

To those who demand that the wealthy foot the government's bills, Mr. Crisp answered that the proposed bill taxed the rich to the limit, but that such increased revenues were not enough. Many millionaires, he said, had had their incomes reduced even to nothing or less than nothing.

How Rich Would Pay.

As an example of the taxes the new bill would levy on the rich, Mr. Crisp submitted the following figures:

Net income.	Present tax.	Proposed tax.
$ 10,000	$ 129	$ 195
20,000	819	1,072
50,000	5,000	6,772
100,000	16,000	25,000
200,000	41,000	71,000
500,000	116,000	200,000
1,000,000	241,000	433,000
5,000,000	1,241,000	2,279,000

From increased individual and corporate income taxes, from an increased estate tax and a restored gift tax, plus savings in appropriations, plus increased postal revenues, plus income from tightening up the administrative features of the revenue laws, only 418 million dollars can be raised, said Mr. Crisp, leaving 823 millions to be made up from some other source if the expected deficit of one billion 241 million dollars at the end of the fiscal year 1933 is to be met.

In search for a source for this needed sum, said Mr. Crisp, "we could not escape the merit of the contention that it was unjust to pick out some industries because the tax would be easily collected from them."

Sales Tax Held Equitable.

Therefore the committee selected the general manufacturers' sales tax as the most equitable form of excise. It was a choice between the sales tax accompanied by the special excises contained in the tax bill and the special excises which had been recommended by the treasury. These were as follows:

Tobacco, 1-6th increase in present tax	$ 58,000,000
Automobiles, trucks, and parts, 5, 3, and 2½ per cent	100,000,000
Tax on bank checks, 2 cents per check	95,000,000
Gasoline tax, 1 cent a gallon	165,000,000
Postage, first class matter from 2 to 3 cents	150,000,000
Tax on real estate transfers	11,000,000
Tax on radios and phonographs, 5 per cent	11,000,000
Tax on domestic consumption of gas and electricity, 7 per cent	94,000,000
Total	$684,000,000

But Mr. Crisp would give no encouragement to the advocates of a $5 a barrel tax on 2.75 per cent beer, such as had been recommended by three members of the ways and means committee. He said he had been against including a tax on wort, malt sirup, and grape concentrate in the present bill.

But he promised that the advocates of such a tax should have his help in getting their day in court.

Quizzed on Beer Tax.

"Does the gentleman think it is fair to tax indirectly to the extent of $50,000,000 when we could by direct taxation give the public 2.75 per cent beer and get an income of 350 million dollars?" asked Representative Linthicum [Dem., Md.], leader of the Democratic wets.

"We are going to have that discussion and I say frankly now that in my judgment the proposed beer amendment is germane to this bill and will be in order, as much as I deprecate a prohibition discussion," replied Mr. Crisp.

"But to tax beer would mean that this law must amend the Volstead act. To tax these other things you don't have to amend existing law. But I will give you gentlemen a chance to vote and all you will get out of it is a chance to vote."

Sales Tax Is Opposed.

But if Mr. Crisp and the members of the ways and means committee were convinced of the necessity of balancing the budget and of levying a sales tax, there were many congressmen who were convinced of neither course. And there will be more to speak in vehement opposition during the days of debate to come.

Representative Hawley [Rep., Ore.], ranking minority member of the ways and means committee, supported the views of his Democratic colleague. But a half dozen other speakers, four of them Democrats, flouted the leadership of Mr. Crisp and Speaker Garner, who has given the sales tax his approval.

"If the bill with the sales tax in it becomes law, there will be some changes in the membership of the house, including, I fear, a change in the person occupying the speaker's chair," warned Representative Nelson [Dem., Mo.].

Sees Danger for Garner.

The Democratic revolt was described by some observers as approaching proportions which may relegate Mr. Garner definitely to the discard as a presidential possibility.

"The sales tax is a tax on poverty," declared Representative Tarver [Dem., Ga.], and Representative Goldsborough [Dem., Md.] advised waiting to balance the budget until the return of better times and then raising the needed revenues through the income tax's higher brackets.

Over in the senate, too, the sales tax precipitated a party fight among the Democrats, with Senators Dill [Wash.], McKellar [Tenn.], and Walsh [Mont.] condemning it as a burden on the pockets of the poor, and with Senator Robinson [Ark.], minority leader, defending it as seemingly the only way out of present deficit difficulties.

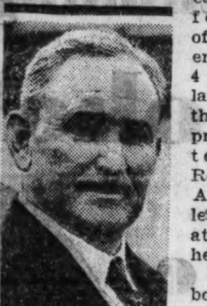
May Be "Necessary."

"Disagreeable as it is," said Senator Robinson in a prophecy that may have particular significance when the bill comes over to the senate, "it may be unavoidable; it may be absolutely necessary to levy a sales tax."

Before the Democratic leader had signified his friendliness to the sales tax, Senator Dill had called it a contradiction of all Democratic principles and had declared that "it would be of small comfort to Democratic leaders that it was suggested by the administration, which we have followed far too long already."

Up jumped Senator Moses [Rep., N. H.] to characterize the "savage and bitter assault on the tax" as, in reality, a savage and bitter attack on Speaker Garner, "who gave it his benediction." Senator Moses maintained that Senators Dill, McKellar and Walsh, whom he called "two of the most vociferous and one of the most intellectual" of the Roosevelt for President campaigners, were trying to "overwhelm the Texas candidate in every possible way."

Robinson Warns Four Billion Annual Tax Is Crushing U. S.



SENATOR J. T. ROBINSON. [A. P. Photo.]

Washington, D. C., March 10.—[Special.]—That the United States can no longer afford the luxury of a federal government costing 4 billions of dollars a year was the conviction expressed by Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], minority leader of the senate, in an address here tonight.

Bureaus, boards, and commissions must be abolished, the senator asserted, to lighten the crushing burden of taxation.

"It is obvious," said the senator, "that no economic system—perhaps no political system—can survive such deficits as have been permitted to occur in our recent fiscal administration. It also goes without saying that none of the recent emergency relief legislation can be completely or even substantially effective in the presence of such deficits.

Conjectures on Revenue.

"Certainly we should not hazard the success of these measures on optimistic conjectures of revenues which, if illusory, will promptly disclose themselves as such and nullify the effect of that legislation before it begins to operate. Be that as it may, earnest consideration and study have been given to the subject of increased federal taxation. The field of additional levies has been materially narrowed by the depression.

"The annual cost of federal, state, and local government is approximately 14 billion dollars—more than one-fourth of current national income. This, with other fixed charges, imposes unbearable burdens. Some estimates of agricultural taxes and other fixed charges run as high as 30 per cent of crop return. The credit of many important local taxing units throughout the United States is badly impaired, if not destroyed, and every field of possible revenue already has been affected by state and local levies.

"These facts serve to emphasize the conclusion, already too long deferred, that this country simply cannot afford a four billion dollar federal government; that every reasonable check and limitation must be imposed on additional authorizations for federal appropriations.

No Effort to Cut Spending.

"Over two years of continued disregard of controlling facts in the fiscal situation and continued four billion dollar budgets coupled with exaggerated estimates of revenue and no effective effort to reduce spending have brought a credit crisis which must be squarely and frankly met by abolishing boards, commissions, and offices, wherever possible, and by limiting future authorizations for appropriations from the federal treasury to the indispensable needs arising from the emergency upon us. Material cuts in appropriations have been made by the Democratic committee on appropriations. Further reductions must be worked out as quickly as practicable.

"While we all hope that what has been undertaken will bring about the recovery every one is earnestly seeking the grave question of unemployment is in the background. This may necessitate appropriations not yet contemplated. In such cases coincident with such appropriations additional revenues should be found to cover, first, interest payments, and second an amount sufficient to amortize the appropriations over a definite period of years. In other words, if it becomes necessary to issue bonds under employment relief measures, additional taxes should be levied to pay interest on the bonds and to provide for their retirement.

Maintain National Credit.

"Public opinion must be led to recognize that the first requirement is that the national credit be maintained by sound proportions between revenues and appropriations."

Senator Robinson said the Democrats in congress have coöperated with the President so far as possible, recognizing that "the measures he advanced or agreed to were palliatives rather than remedies."

"NEEDY" FAMILY LEAVES IN TAXIS AS HELP ARRIVES

A man and a woman, thinly clad, shivered yesterday in the Washington street entrance of the city hall. The woman held a baby, and four other youngsters, the eldest a boy of 7, huddled close to her.

Passersby stopped. Quarters and half dollars clinked on the cold stone at the mother's feet. County and city employés, themselves unpaid for several months, pressed bills into the father's hand.

"Those kids can't stay here in the cold," said one practical sympathizer. "I'm going to get a policeman to take you folks to a warm shelter."

As he left on his quest, the father whispered to the mother. They gathered their brood, hailed two taxicabs, entered them, and were driven away as the sympathetic citizen returned with the policeman.

"They must have got $50," said one onlooker.

"I saw them working on the outer drive," said a second.

"They got $30 the other night in front of the Y. M. C. A." remarked a third.

Hold Up New York Theater and Escape with $1,000

New York, March 10.—(AP)—Three men, two of them pointing revolvers, tonight held up the doorman and manager of the Selwyn theater, in the heart of the midtown theatrical section, and escaped with about $1,000.

LUCKY BALDWIN'S GRANDDAUGHTER IS SUED FOR $68,000

Los Angeles, Cal., March 10.—[Special.]—A suit filed in Superior court today by Charles F. Green, demands $68,466.66 from Mrs. Rosebud Mullender, granddaughter of the late E. J. "Lucky" Baldwin, and millionaire heiress and daughter of the late Mrs. Clara Baldwin Stocker.

Green asserts that Mrss. Mullender in 1919 requested him to act as her intermediary in patching a quarrel between herself and her mother, and promised "a reasonable fee" for his service. Mrs. Mullender desired a reconciliation, Green's complaint says, so she would not jeopardize her inheritance from Mrs. Stocker. Green says he was successful in reconciling them, and bases his claim for the sum demanded on the fact that when Mrs. Stocker died in February, 1929.

WALES DEDICATES WAR MEMORIAL TO 245 PEERS WHO FELL

LONDON, March 10.—(AP)—In the royal gallery of the house of lords, whose walls are scarred by anti-aircraft shell splinters reminiscent of the air raids of the great war, the prince of Wales today unveiled the lords' own memorial to the 245 peers who fell in the struggle. The archbishop of Canterbury conducted the brief ceremony and the prince spoke only a few words as he unveiled the memorial. It shows two bronze figures—a youth at the end of his task offering up his sword to a figure symbolical of his country.

ELMORE'S MEN DROPPED FROM CANAL PAY ROLL

The sanitary district commissioners yesterday discharged all of the employés sponsored on the district rolls by Howard W. Elmore, lone Republican member of the board.

A. W. Komerak, who is a candidate for Republican nomination as a trustee, was displaced as head of the district's real estate department by Neil T. Kelly, Democratic committeeman in the 34th ward. The job pays $400 a month. Attorney O. Bergstrom, on the pay roll of the law department at $750 a month, was replaced by Attorney Frank Derdzinski, who will get $300 a month. Eighteen other Elmore appointees, clerks and laborers, were also dismissed.

William Rothman, attorney for the district, informed the trustees that he had completed his survey of pay rollers who testified at the Crowe graft trial that they accepted salary without performing any services for the district. The list contained 800 names of pay rollers, who got approximately $1,600,000. Letters will be sent to them, asking repayment, and if that method is not successful suits will be filed.

The board voted to pay employés for the first half of December. The pay rolls, aggregating $188,000, will be met out of revenue from rents and power and land sales.

Sawmill Boiler Explodes; 3 Are Killed, 3 Injured

Lawrenceburg, Tenn., March 10.—(AP)—A saw mill boiler five miles west of here exploded today, killing three persons and seriously injuring three others. The boiler, weighing about 2,000 pounds, was blown several hundred feet.

BABY GORILLA DIES IN SPITE OF DOCTOR'S CARE

Washington, D. C., March 10.—[Special.]—N'Gi, the 6 year old gorilla that had been ill of a bronchial pneumonia infection for a month, died today at National Zoölogical park. Despite medical care such as is vouchsafed to few human beings he suffered a relapse last night and his heart stopped beating at 8:15 o'clock this morning.

The whole country has been interested in the stricken baby ape since the day that an oxygen chamber, accompanied by specialists, was rushed from New York to the Washington zoo at the expense of Mrs. Eleanor Patterson, editor of the Washington Herald, to save N'Gi's life. Placed in the chamber N'Gi improved rapidly and a week ago was removed from the tent apparently on the road to recovery.

SENATORS VOTE $15,000 FOR U. S. TOBACCO EXPERT

O. K. Plan to Send Trade Agent to Europe.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 10.—[Special.]—There came to light today an incident throwing a flood of light upon the difficulty of loosening the grip of the federal bureaucracy on Uncle Sam's wallet.

SEN. BINGHAM. [Fotograms.]

Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], at a hearing before the senate appropriations committee in executive session, criticized the paternalistic undertakings of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.] raised the question of the value of the bureau's activities to exporters.

Dr. Klein Wins His Point.

The net result was the assent of Assistant Secretary of Commerce Julius Klein and Frederick M. Feiker, chief of the bureau, to the establishment in Europe of a tobacco specialist as requested by the growers of tobacco, which, as Dr. Klein remarked in the presence of the Connecticut and Tennessee senators, "is produced all the way from Connecticut down to Tennessee."

Then the committee voted to add to the commerce department appropriation bill $15,000 for the salary and expenses of a tobacco commissioner in Europe, although the department previously had rejected the item and it had not been submitted to the budget bureau.

The incident is disclosed in the official report of the appropriations committee hearing.

Seek Sympathy and Help.

"I have long felt," said Senator Bingham, "that we are rapidly becoming more and more paternalistic. A great deal of the money that is spent by the department of commerce goes into things that ought to be done by the chamber of commerce, the manufacturers' associations and other trade organizations; but they lean on the government for it."

Dr. Felker said business concerns come to the bureau for "sympathy, help to increase their morale."

"The very fact that they are now coming to the government for sympathy," Senator Bingham pursued, "shows how paternalistic the government is becoming, because that it what you go to the father for—sympathy when you are in trouble."

Statistics for Utilities.

The senator produced a letter from the vice president of the Hartford Electric Light company inclosing bureau statistics on electric service with the comment that "they are of very little value to us and I should think to the other utility companies to which they apparently are being sent. If a utility company should be interested in any specific location, the same information could be received by them from the National Electric Light association."

The letter also called attention to the duplication of reports by the interior and commerce departments on commercial stocks of coal.

"Another sample of stuff that might be cut down and curtailed without doing anybody any harm," commented Mr. Bingham. Dr. Klein agreed and said the department is now weeding out unnecessary reports.

Ought to Use Private Funds.

The National Electric Light association, Senator Bingham contended, "ought to use their own funds for this kind of work and not expect the taxpayers to do it for them."

Then Dr. Klein recalled that the statistics were collected "by and at the expense of the National Electric Light association, of which the Hartford company is a member. To make the figures complete, the bureau collected the data for municipal plants not members of any association and at the request of the association compiled the combination figures."

Then the discussion shifted to an additional appropriation the bureau wanted for preparation of lists of foreign buyers.

"Mr. Feiker," said Senator McKellar, "let me ask you what were the material results, the business secured from foreign buyers—what advantage is it to the country?"

Tells of $57,000,000 Benefit.

"We returned last year," replied Mr. Feiker, "some $57,000,000 to industry as a result of direct follow-through on inquiries of which this is, of course, a part."

"You think that that amount is an increase over what it would have been if you had not had such an aggregation of buyers or getting information for them?" persisted Mr. McKellar.

"This is a part of the whole system and an essential part in the establishment of that kind of results," replied Mr. Feiker.

A little later Senator McKellar broached the question of establishing a tobacco commissioner in Europe because "the tobacco business, as you know, is, like many others, in a sad condition, and it has been represented to me that such an agent would be of great value to the tobacco industry."

It's a Government Monopoly.

"I know that the industry has been very keen for a service of that type," said Dr. Klein, "because it seems to be troubled especially in its dealings with the governments of Europe. In many instances it is a government monopoly and the industry seems to feel that its trade representatives are not adequate to deal with the authorities of that type."

"May I ask in addition, Dr. Klein," said Senator McKellar, "will you be good enough to look into that matter and see if you can make a recommendation about it before we reach the end of the hearings on this bill?"

Three days later Dr. Klein wrote Chairman Wesley L. Jones [Rep., Wash.] that, while a tobacco commissioner in Europe would be valuable to the industry, the department disliked creating a new job when it was threatened by the cut in appropriations by the house with the necessity of discharging some present job holders. But if the committee thought the additional job justified, said Dr. Klein, it would cost $11,000. The committee thought it justified and allotted $15,000.

Senator McKellar placed in the record a letter from Thomas L. Hughes, representing the southern tobacco growers, who asked the creation of the job and the appropriation of $10,000 therefor.

BUSINESS GROUPS UNITE IN A PLEA FOR U. S. ECONOMY

Resolutions demanding that congress take immediate steps to cut down the expenditures of the federal government, even if this will result in curtailment of many services now rendered, were adopted yesterday at a meeting of representatives of Illinois business associations held in the Union League club.

James L. Donnelly, representing the Illinois Manufacturers' association, declared that governmental bodies in the United States, in spite of depression conditions, were increasing their expenditures $500,000,000 each year. An estimate also was made that 20 per cent of the value of services and production of American citizens was being taken for tax spending.

The resolutions urged that congressmen and senators be informed that they would be supported if they voted to curtail spending, that stockholders of corporations be asked to write legislators pleas for retrenchment, and that employés of corporations be asked to sign petitions protesting against new forms of taxation.

Among the organizations represented were the Illinois Retail Hardware association, Illinois Furniture Warehousemen, National Confectioners' association, Illinois Bankers' association, Illinois Lumber and Material Dealers' association, and Chicago Association of Commerce.

Fail to Identify "Society Bandit" in Templeton Case

Fred Reardon, 40 years old, 4616 North Racine avenue, so-called society robber, who is being held at the detective bureau, was not one of the four men who robbed the home of Stuart Templeton, 1300 North Green Bay road, Lake Forest, a year ago. Two former maids and Lester Shinsky, the Templeton's chauffeur, brought to Chicago yesterday by Sergt. Paul Jensen of the north shore suburb, failed to identify him. Four men, who posed as interior decorators, gained entrance to the Templeton home and fled with jewelry worth $6,000.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

ANOTHER ATTACK UPON FREE PRESS.

It remains to be seen whether the latest judicial effort to suppress press criticism will meet on appeal the fate of a similar proceeding against the Cleveland Press. The scene has shifted to South Dakota, where Circuit Judge J. H. Bottum has held the publisher and the editor of the Aberdeen Morning American and Evening News guilty of contempt for printing and publishing certain articles, notably an editorial, criticizing Circuit Judge Howard Babcock for a light sentence imposed upon Royal A. Hasse, former county auditor, who confessed to forgery.

The editorial on which the contempt was based analyzed the evidence and the reasoning of the opinion by which the court justified leniency. It contrasted the sentence given the politician with others imposed upon other defendants by the judge, as five years in the penitentiary for the same offense, third degree forgery, for which the politician was given a fine of $300 and six months' imprisonment, with the sentence of imprisonment suspended. In two other cases of this offense terms of a year and a year and a half were imposed, and two farmer boys, aged 22 and 17, respectively, were given five and two years for the heinous crime of chicken stealing. The editorial suggested that these sentences indicated no great predisposition to clemency exhibited in the case of the politician, and ended with the remark that "the honorable judge should doff his regal robes, don sackcloth, and sit in ashes until his penitence is complete."

It is significant that the warrant for the arrest of the publisher and editor was signed by a committee of the Brown County Bar association, and they were threatened with a libel suit unless they retracted all stories of official crookedness. It is suggestive in this connection that at the trial of Hasse evidence was introduced purporting to show that Hasse worked in conjunction with an alleged ring composed of a former highway commissioner and a construction company with the purpose of keeping outside contractors from competition.

The background of such prosecution is not unfamiliar. A newspaper is trying to expose corruption in public administration. It earns the enmity of the powers that be in business, in the legal profession which draws its profits from business, in the sordid ranks of practical politics and grafting officialdom. There is the hypocritical pretense of defense of the city from scandal and discredit. There is the threat of libel suits and criminal prosecution. There has been in some cases, notably that of Minnesota, legislation to suppress and penalize publicity and comment, and there is the abuse of power by judges under the pretense of maintaining the dignity and authority of the courts. The reasoning of the South Dakota judge is a model for any judicial Pecksniff who, on behalf of his political allies, wishes to suppress exposure of public evils under pretense of upholding the independence and prestige of the judiciary.

The incident in South Dakota is not yet closed. It remains to be seen whether the reviewing court will enforce the right of free press and protect the people of the state in their right to know what is going on in their government. In Ohio the higher court did so for the people of that commonwealth. In Minnesota the higher court failed to do so, and put its approval upon a gag law which would have permanently suppressed exposure of corruption in office if it had not been brought before the Supreme court of the United States, where it was declared unconstitutional in one of the great opinions of that tribunal. Public opinion in Minnesota was so indifferent to the great issues involved that it had permitted the law to be enacted and made no sufficient protest against the sophistry and complacency of Minnesota's own high court. Are the people of South Dakota in the same condition? Have we in the northwest a population so lacking in political foresight and in knowledge of the lessons of experience from which our principles of freedom sprang as to permit themselves to be robbed of their chief means of protection from misgovernment? We hear a great deal from the political spokesmen of the northwest about the people's rights, but the people will have no rights if they have not political intelligence enough to defend the most essential of all rights, the right to be informed of their own public affairs, the right of free speech and free press.

UP GOES THE INTEREST RATE.

The treasury has announced that it has sold $900,000,000 of its short term certificates dated March 15. In the first six months of this year the government intends to borrow 2½ billion dollars to meet its deficits.

The rate for the government's short term borrowing has been somewhat advanced, which is the measure of the government's approach to the point where it can no longer command credit. The higher rate is the more significant in view of the added attraction of government obligations now that the Glass-Steagall law has been enacted. As government paper may now be used as security for reserve note issues, it is assumed that the reserve banks and member banks as well will be encouraged to buy. And even that does not complete the account of the favorable setting for the new borrowing.

The recent lowering of the rediscount rate of the New York Reserve bank should also encourage loans to the government. If, in spite of the Glass-Steagall act and the lowered rediscount rate, the government has found itself obliged to raise its interest rates, the conclusion that government borrowing has assumed unwholesome proportions is unavoidable.

The remedy is obvious. If government expenditures are slashed, the need for excessive borrowing will disappear. A budget balanced without borrowing is the way, and the only way, to maintain the credit rating of the United States treasury.

LET THE TRUSTEES DO IT.

No better course appears for the administration of the Chicago schools than to permit the trustees who passed the $90,000,000 budget to work it out with such resources as will be available and in such manner as these resources will permit. Any distinction which citizens try to make, for the good of the schools, between the responsibility for appropriations and the responsibility for money to meet them will relieve the intractable trustees of what is entirely their own affair. They have laid down a school program upon estimates of revenue which no tax adviser thinks they can get or even approximate. The most credulous figuring leaves them $20,000,000 short.

Citizens who have advised them and who have tried to raise money for them have had nothing but criticism and abuse in return. The trustees who passed the budget would prefer to spend the money and have some other persons raise it for them. The consequences of such procedure would be even worse than what already has happened to the schools under administration to date.

HOW IT WORKS.

Senator Borah of Idaho caused $27,136 for a market news service to Boise to be restored to the appropriation bill from which it had been trimmed by the house of representatives. Idaho in the fiscal year of 1931 took $2,682,000 in federal subsidies and paid $723,000 in internal revenue.

Senator Walsh of Montana had $25,000 restored for farm management work in his state. Montana received $4,430,000 in federal subsidies and paid $1,793,000 into the treasury.

Senator Stephens of Mississippi had the appropriation increased for the extermination of the buffalo gnat. Mississippi took $400,000 more from the federal treasury than it paid in internal revenue.

Secretary Wilbur, Californian, of the interior department, persuaded the senators to add two million dollars to the Boulder dam (California water) appropriation. California real estate is the principal beneficiary of this federal project—current estimate of expense $165,000,000.

The house of representatives, a house of proportionate representation, did a little, and little enough, to reduce some of the federal subsidies of the mendicant states. The senate, without proportionate representation, is the citadel of the waste lands. It is there that the almshouses get their handouts.

SIR JOHN IS GOOD.

Sir John Simon, the British foreign minister, has been giving at Geneva an almost perfect example of adroit diplomacy. When China appealed from the council of the league of nations to the assembly it seemed inevitable that all the little brothers coming together would break all the eggs even if they did not get an omelet, but the eloquence of Sir John is so beguiling that the little fellows now are utterly confused. They are helped out of their confusion by Sir John's declaration that they certainly should find the occasion for a declaration of principles which, although fighting unhappily continues, will be of incalculable advantage for future reference.

Sir John is not unaware that Gandhi is in the jug for an economic boycott of British goods in India, nor is he unaware that the inferior peoples cannot refuse to buy superior goods without causing a deficit which no moral compensations will balance. One therefore observes the events in and about Shanghai with the detachment of a comprehending philosophy. To be sure, there is much which requires smoothing over, but it can be done by reducing the emphasis here and shifting it there. Sentimentally there may seem to be maladjustments, but in the best of all worlds the best of all arrangements will come to the desired results of peace and contentment. The moralities require only a little patience to be discovered. Sir John extends a helping hand to the little brothers. They will be led to understand.

Editorial of the Day

DOES NOT PROHIBITION CAUSE HOARDING!
[New York Evening Post.]

A correspondent makes the suggestion that a great deal of money is being "hoarded" by bootleggers.

A moment's consideration will convince any one of the probable truth of this statement. Indeed, in the mysterious way in which bootlegging information does get around we have heard it said that two of New York's most extensive bootleggers have declared that the amount of money now being hoarded in their trade is certainly around 500 million dollars.

It may be urged that this vast sum could not be used as an explanation of recent hoarding, because bootlegging hoarding has gone on so long as to make normal and continuing its large withdrawals of currency from circulation. The answer to this argument is plain. It is that bootleggers no longer dare to deposit their money in banks with the freedom which they possessed before the government sent Al Capone to jail—not for destroying the prohibition law, but for violating the income tax law. Bootleggers no longer dare to have bank records of their transactions. Therefore they hoard vaster sums of actual cash in "tin boxes." [We wonder if there isn't some Tammany hoarding, too, by the way.]

We have often expressed our disapproval of using the income tax law to enforce prohibition. We have said that it is wrong in principle and dangerous in practice. It now looks as if some chickens may be coming home to roost. Attorney General Mitchell's misuse of his legal weapons may well be contributing directly to the evil of hoarding.

Wherever it cuts into American life prohibition causes the most absurd contradictions, the most appalling paradoxes. When will the Republican party realize that thousands upon thousands of its voters believe that the 18th amendment is an utterly irrepressible issue wound more and more tightly around and into the paramount issue of hard times?

THE U. S. BUREAU OF DRAMATIC CRITICISM.

Now that congress is going to put the dramatic critics out of business they will probably attend to stage reviewing down in Washington. We look for a new marble palace at least twenty stories high to go up at once, either in Pennsylvania avenue or on the White House lawn, which will be called "U. S. Bureau of Dramatic Criticisms." As there are about seventy-five or a hundred dramatic critics in the country that would mean at least ten thousand clerks to do their work in the new bureau at Washington. It always takes several hundred clerks and bureaucrats when they're working for Uncle Sam to do what one able-bodied individual would do working for a private firm. Plays would be obliged to open at Washington, and the representatives and senators with the heads of all other bureaus would be the only ones admitted. Then the next day the two houses could debate the new plays and, after they had finally sifted the matter thoroughly, they could decide what they thought of it as drama and pass a law about it. There wouldn't be any chance of a Shakespeare revival getting by; down in congress very few of them ever heard of Shakespeare. "I listened to that show last night, 'Romeo and Juliet,' and I don't want to vote on it until we give the author a chance to appear at a committee hearing and explain what it's all about."

"We can't get Shakespeare before a committee," another congressman would explain; "he's not in this country and he's not an American. I don't think we ought to allow plays by foreigners. The drammer market in our glorious United States should protect our own drammer writers against the pauper labor of Europe! Drammer writing is an infant industry in this country and it will never get anywhere unless we do something about it. I move as an amendment to the original motion that we slap a two hundred per cent tariff tax on all foreign plays." [Cries of "Attaboy!" and "Soak 'em again!"]

And the sad tragedy of "Romeo and Juliet" would be unanimously referred to the committee on reclaiming marsh lands in the Potomac river.

BLOOD ON THE GRASS.

No sharper cry disturbs the mellow night
Than this abysmal sight of guilt and shame,
That seals the lips of men with coward's fright.

Each fearing in its heart to find the blame
Of having voiced the first insurgent cry,
Each man would in this hour his deed disclaim.

The moon stares from the clouds in the dark sky,
And sends a shadow swinging on a fence—
Two frightened night birds from a tree trunk fly.

Oh, God, who died in all magnificence
Upon a cross to save mankind from guilt,
Is this the wage of human recompense?

Break through the architrave your Father built,
To coop out of His realm this simmering mass—
Look You with mercy on the blood they spilt!

Through muddy trails and brambled mountain pass,
As wounded hound goes forth with lowered head,
The lynchers scurry through the tall dry grass.

No man shall be accused by man! They fled—
Each gateless conscience has released its soul—
The grass beneath the tree is seared with red.

Dark drops of blood trick down the lynching pole—
The night has snuffed the brightness of its stars—
The diamond of their spark has turned to coal.

The black horizon splits with crimson scars!

FEEDING THE BABY.

Babies are so much safer in these modern times that some experimentation in feeding is permissible. Conditions for them would be ideal if, somehow, mothers knew how to diet themselves for an abundant supply of breast milk, and then would be willing to breast-feed. When physicans recognized that, in spite of all that could be done, many babies were and would continue to be fed on cow's milk, they felt it wise to make mothers stick closely to the best article that could be had. The milk must come from healthy cows, it must be kept clean and cold, it must be pasteurized and used while fresh. Next, it must be properly modified. Finally, almost no food except milk was allowed.

As time passed and the hazards lessened, physicians became more liberal in the foods allowed in addition to milk. First, there was fruit juice. At first it was given only to babies several months old. Now it is allowed to younger babies. Then followed cereal, gravy, soups, and dried, evaporated and other milks. Cod liver oil was presently added. Two later additions are yellow of egg, and bananas.

When eggs disagree with a baby it is generally because of the whites. Some babies thrive when given egg yolk, but get in trouble if the diet is switched to whole egg. Eggs are given as egg soup, raw egg, or hard boiled egg. Raw yellow can be incorporated in the milk. A baby less than two months of age can be given as much as one-half a yolk a day, and older babies tolerate a larger allowance. Egg yolk is rich in iron, vitamins, minerals, fats, calories, and material for growth.

An excellent addition to the diet of a baby is the pulp of a thoroughly ripe banana. It is well mashed, put through a sieve, placed into some milk and worked into a fine suspension. Banana suspended in milk can be fed from a bottle through a nipple, or it can be taken from a spoon or a cup.

Banana is a fine scurvy preventive, and is especially valuable when the gums are not healthy, where the teeth are not behaving properly, and where there are pains, bleedings, or other evidences of mild scurvy. There is a condition known as celiac disease, in which a banana diet acts as a specific. Those emaciated children with intolerent stomachs and disordered digestion improve like magic under their diet.

The egg yolk diet is especially valuable as a preventive and cure of rickets.

FLEAS AND DYE.

Mrs. M. F. M. writes: About a week ago my husband was working around a nook in which our large bird dog sleeps, and he was badly bitten by fleas above the top of his high shoes. Later he noticed the itching sensation, and spent the remainder of the evening scratching. His black socks were new, and whether the dye poisoned the skin, or what caused the irritation which followed, we do not know. At any rate, he has a slightly swollen band of inflamed surface from an inch to three inches wide all around each leg just above the top of the shoe line. It is a solid welt, no bites being visible singly on either leg, and no sores.

I have tried many remedies, but the swelling persists. I never knew fleas were so poisonous. Is the swelling dangerous?

REPLY.

You are probably right. This condition is due to fleas plus dye. All he need do is to avoid these two causes, both separately and in combination. Fleas are not very poisonous. The swelling is not dangerous.

CYSTS ON EYELIDS.

K. S. S. writes: Can you tell me what causes cysts to grow on the eyelids? The first one started at the time I had the grippe, and every few months since a new one will appear, always on the inside of the lids. They seem to close in and press on the eyes. Is this harmful?

REPLY.

There are glands in that area and they occasionally become stopped, causing cysts. If they form repeatedly your oculist will probably find that you are suffering from eyestrain and need glasses. The cysts are annoying, but they do no great harm.

FIND THE CAUSE FIRST.

Mrs. T. C. writes: Are all fruits and fruit juices bad for persons with too much acid in the system? What foods would it be best to avoid?

REPLY.

The words "too much acid in the system" are very vague. If you mean you are producing too much uric acid, eating fruits and fruit juices should prove helpful. You really should find out what is wrong.

GRAPEFRUIT AND ANEMIA.

O. E. M. writes: I am a pernicious anemia patient. My wife says grapefruit is not good for me. Is it? How about orange juice?

REPLY.

Grapefruit and orange juice are all right as foods for people with pernicious anemia. They are simple foods with no special value to persons with this disease. Nor are they harmful.

PERMIT TO REMOVE GRANTED.

Chicago, March 6.—[Friend of the People.]—There is a large tree in front of my house which I would like to have removed. The branches spread over the sidewalk and road, and, during the summer months, the branches fall off and there is danger of them hitting some one. I understand this is public property and, if possible, I would like to have the tree removed.

J. F. E.

The forestry division of the city removes only dead and dangerous trees in the parkways. Our inspector reports that the tree mentioned in the attached letter is a live and sound willow and is not dangerous. We are sending a permit to the writer to remove the tree himself, or have it done at his own expense.

WALTER WRIGHT,
Supt. Parks, Recreation and Aviation.

CAN CLAIM A SHARE.

Gary, Ind., March 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father died March 12, 1900, leaving a house and lot. There was no will. The estate has never been settled. There were six children. Two have died lately. Can the wives or children of those that have died claim a share of the estate?

M. K.

Yes, as far as the facts stated are concerned.

PROPERTY TRANSFER.

Chicago, March 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A sold a piece of property to B on a monthly contract basis. After paying for some time B turned it over to C to keep up the payments. C paid a few times and now is serving a prison term [on an entirely different matter]. B is deceased. 1. Is it true that no payments have to be made until C is released from prison? 2. Does the property go back to A, the original owner? 3. Does B's family take over the property?

A. R.

1. No, it is not true.
2. Not on the bare facts stated.
3. We see no reason why payments should not be made on C's behalf.

CHINA-JAPAN WAR, 1894

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 19.—The Japanese naval victory at the mouth of the Yalu river possesses special interest for the officers of the United States navy. All the commanders of the Japanese ironclads, which make up that nation's crack fighting fleet, are young officers who were educated at the United States Naval academy. There have been eleven Japanese graduated from Annapolis and sixteen have been enrolled. The first Japanese graduate is at the head of the Nipponese naval establishment as chief executive officer under the direction of the emperor and the second graduate is flying the flag of a rear admiral from the Naniwa, the best ram cruiser Japan possesses and which was prominent in the Yalu battle. The Japanese legation here is in receipt of a cablegram in reference to the battle of Pingyang on Sept. 15. It says Japan's loss, so far as ascertained, was 11 officers killed, 154 men killed, 30 officers wounded, and 521 men wounded, besides 40 officers whose fate is unknown. The Chinese lost more than 2,000 killed and the number of their wounded was as yet unknown.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 22.—It is reported here that the Chinese transports Chin Tung, Haingu, and Too Nan while landing troops in the Yalu river were captured by the Japanese, but there is nothing definite known as to the fate of those on board.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—A dispatch from Shanghai says that commanding officers of four of the Chinese warships were killed at the Yalu river battle. Admiral Ting was wounded, but not seriously. Three Chinese transports are reported to have been captured and five other transports are missing. The Japanese ships are preparing for another attack.

28 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 11, 1904.

ST. PETERSBURG.—Port Arthur was bombarded at intervals last night, and Viceroy Alexieff reports that the enemy returned and began a fresh attack at 8 o'clock this morning. He does not give details but states that the Japanese squadron opened fire on the Russian fleet and forts. He does not state when the attack ceased. He neither admits nor denies damage to the Russian ships. His message leaves the impression that at 8 o'clock the Japanese attack was still in progress.

PORT ARTHUR.—Torpedo boats of the enemy were discovered off Port Arthur about midnight. The shore batteries opened fire on them, but soon ceased. About 3 o'clock this morning four Russian torpedo boats went out to sea. They met the enemy, who fired a few shots and then withdrew. The Russian boats returned. Later two Russian torpedo boats again went out to sea, but at once returned, bringing news of the approach of a Japanese squadron of fourteen ships. At about 8 o'clock the squadron opened fire at long range.

TIENTSIN.—It is reported the Russians are withdrawing all superfluous troops from Port Arthur to Harbin and Kirin, owing to shortness of provisions at Port Arthur. It is stated that explosives are being placed in houses in Dalny in preparation for the Japanese occupation of that town.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 11, 1916.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Wilson ordered 5,000 United States troops into Mexico on an expedition the object of which is the capture and punishment of Francisco Villa and his fellow outlaws, who were responsible for the Columbus, N. M., outrage. Whether this "punitive expedition" will result eventually in a thoroughgoing job of armed intervention for the restoration of order and a stable government in Mexico depends upon the behavior of Carranza and other contingencies. If Carranza should make trouble over the American troops entering Mexico the United States will find itself at war with the de facto government as well as with Villa. In that event it will be necessary for the President to employ not only the entire continental regular army, numbering 35,000 men, but a volunteer army of from 250,000 to 500,000 men raised under specific authorization of congress. That Carranza will resent the President's move and warn the United States it has committed an "unfriendly act" is the fear of high administration officials.

EL PASO, Tex.—Mexican raiders are abroad on the border. During the night there have been various reports of depredations, with parties of American soldiers pursuing. One report was that 200 or more Mexican outlaws had crossed into the United States southeast of Osborn Junction, Ariz., raided a ranch, and killed one American. This was disputed in a dispatch from Douglas, Ariz. Gen. Gabriel Cavira, commander at Juarez, received a report late tonight from Gen. Bertani that Villa was at Asuncion, on the Mexican Northwestern railroad, 100 miles southwest of El Paso.

AN UNREGENERATE DRY.

Sterling, Ill., March 7.—In a meeting held to commit the Republican party to repeal of the eighteenth amendment, according to THE TRIBUNE, Samuel Hardin Church is quoted as saying: "We men, and all men, know that prohibition is the foundation of all crime and corruption in this country." Coming from the president of the Carnegie institute this is a remarkable statement. As a newspaper man for 59 years, my experience has disclosed a lot of crime and corruption covering all that period. As the prohibition law—only partially enforced—and not at all in the big cities—has been in existence only 13 years—let me ask Dr. Church what was the "cause" of crime during all the years previous to the eighteenth amendment? My answer is that the chief cause of crime was the liquor business—unlawful then as it is now—the chief cause then as it is today.

At the meeting at which Dr. Church was the speaker an effort was being organized to force the Republican party to adopt a wet repeal plank in the next national platform. Our experience in Illinois with a wet plank ought to be helpful for consideration. Two years ago Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick was a candidate in the Republican primary and made a vigorous campaign on a dry platform. She won by a big plurality. After the nomination a state convention was called and, at the demand of the Chicago Republican wets, a wet plank was inserted in the platform and Mrs. McCormick had to stand on that wet plank. The Chicago Republicans declared solemnly, with tears—or was it foam?—in their eyes, that it was necessary to go wet or lose the state to the Democrats.

What was the result? Nearly one-third of the Republican voters stayed at home and Mrs. McCormick was defeated by around 700,000. I am not saying all these Republicans stayed at home because of the wet plank. But at least tens of thousands of them did. But one thing cannot be denied—the wet plank did not "save" the party—which received one of the worst defeats in the history of the state. The Chicago leaders were wrong then and it is the humble judgment of an Illinois prairie editor that they are wrong now.

Consider New York. Mr. Tuttle was the Republican candidate for governor. He had been federal attorney in the New York district. He wanted to be governor so earnestly he was willing to declare that the prohibition law was unenforceable and should be repealed. The New York City wet Republicans, as the Chicago wets are in Illinois, were strong enough to adopt a wet plank to "save the party"—and what happened to Mr. Tuttle? The very same thing that happened to Mrs. McCormick. He was defeated by a wet Democrat by around 700,000. Almost parallel to the Illinois wet fiasco.

In this connection, let the wet leaders who want to "save" the party consider a few facts which do not find space in the wet papers. First, the Republican party needs to be saved from its wet, not its dry, leaders. The meeting denounced the dry forces—yet if it is a fact [as they declared] that the drys have been in control, it is also a fact that the party has been winning right along nationally. The slump hurt last year—and may still hurt. But dry leadership—if the party has had that, as charged by the wets—has been winning such great victories that the party does not need to be "saved." President Hoover was elected by the largest majority ever given to a President and over the most popular and best fortified candidate in the Democratic party. He was one of those who thought a wet plank would save the party. Since the party did not adopt a wet plank, Ex-Gov. Al Smith kicked the Democratic platform in the face, made a wet plank of his own and slid into oblivion politically.

Consider one other feature of the situation. When the admendment was submitted at Washington in congress in 1917—15 years ago—there were 20 wet senators who voted against it. Taking the claims of the wets at face value, now there are 21 wets in the senate. Only 15 voted recently on a wet proposition. In 1917 there were 126 wets who voted against the amendment in the house. Accepting the wet claim that there are 148 wet votes now in the house, the great "gains" so greatly boasted by the wets show the enormous total of 22—or less than two congressmen gained for the wets a year during the last 13 years. The senate now stands four to one and the house three to one dry.

That is the story so far. The final chapter will disclose that the wets must control congress before they can repeal the eighteenth amendment by a two to one majority. There is no other way, and all the wet propaganda piled up by millions of pages in the wet newspapers of the big cities will not change these facts. The Republican party seems most to need to be "saved" from its foolish wet friends.

D. W. GRANDON.

THE SALES TAX.

New York, March 7.—The merchants of the United States, including the great department stores and the various retail dealers' associations, have gone on record as being unalterably opposed to the sales tax, on the ground that by increasing the price of goods it would decrease sales, and thus add to the so-called "overproduction" [in reality underconsumption] that has caused all our industrial and commercial troubles. The one great need of the country today is more buying power on the part of the great mass of consumers. Raising prices by the sales tax will discourage buying and thus add to the huge surplus that has forced so many mills and factories to shut down or run on half time.

For 50 years the Democratic party has denounced the protective tariff on the ground that it increased the cost of living to the consuming public. Now the Democratic leaders do a right-about-face and advocate a sales tax that will impose an added burden of $600,000,000 annually upon the consumers. While this tax will be paid in the first instance by the manufacturers, it will be shifted over to the merchants, who will either have to increase prices accordingly or to suffer a direct financial loss.

There is only one form of taxation that does not discourage industry or thrift, the tax on the rental value of land, as advocated by Henry George. If the Democratic leaders had been wise enough to favor this tax, they might have done something toward abolishing unemployment and restoring prosperity.

BATHING COSTUMES.

Valparaiso, Ind., March 4.—I would like to ascertain whether the photo of twelve bathing beauties published in your Sunday edition is an actual representation of what the tourist will encounter on southern beaches or whether it is merely advertising ballyhoo? We all thought the 1931 styles had reached the extreme in exposing the modern form. What, in your opinion, will the designers dispose of next year to make the suits scantier and the misses more attractive?

MORE COMPETITION FOR FARMERS

Three Oaks, Mich., March 5.—I noted an article relative to the Harvester company offering to plow the vacant lots in Milwaukee so that people could raise gardens. Just how is this going to lift the present conditions out of the gutter? All that I can see is that it will take work away from the men that try to make farming their business and put them further in the rut.

THE DIVIDED ELEPHANT.

Chicago, March 3.—I am not a dry, so am not prejudiced, but in looking at Mr. Orr's cartoon in your issue of Monday, March 7, the inescapable inference is that the wet fraction of the G. O. P. elephant running away with the pocketbook is the part that has no brains.

FATHER AND SON KILLED AS FAST TRAIN HITS AUTO

Fail to Heed Stop Signal, Witnesses Say.

A father and son were killed late yesterday afternoon when a speeding outbound Illinois Central passenger train struck their small sedan on a grade crossing at Cicero avenue and 33d street, Cicero. The wrecked car was carried nearly 100 yards before the train could be brought to a halt.

The victims were Ivory F. Kiser, 39 years old, 3602 South Elmwood avenue, Berwyn, an insurance solicitor, and his 15 year old son Alfred. Both were unconscious when they were extricated from the wreckage, and they died an hour later at the Berwyn hospital.

Warning Lights Working.

The crossing is equipped with warning lights and bell signals, and witnesses said these were working when the accident occurred. Cicero police said that the tracks at this point are in full view for a half mile in each direction. They said that Kiser evidently tried to beat the train, the Omaha Limited.

William F. Vipond, engineer, and Max Readman, fireman, both of Freeport, Ill., said that Kiser, who was driving north, made no effort to stop.

These deaths and two others yesterday increased the 1932 toll for Cook county to 202. The other victims:

Jacob Fiala, 44 years old, 4606 South Bishop street. Died at St. Joseph's hospital from injuries incurred on Wednesday when he was run down at 47th and Laflin streets. Fiala saved his wife, Marian, 42 years old, who accompanied him, when he pushed her from the path of the auto. The driver was Mrs. Eleanor Frankiwicz, 2535 West 45th street.

Mrs. Odel Leibowitz, 70 years old, 1135 West 13th street. Died in the Mother Cabrini hospital a few hours after being struck at 13th street and Racine avenue. Frank Oriscio, 5232 Crystal street, was the driver.

Carveth Wells, Explorer, Granted Mexico Divorce

New York, March 10.—(AP)—Carveth Wells, explorer and author, announced today that a final decree of divorce had been granted him in the state of Morelos, Mexico, on Feb. 17. Wells married Luard Theodora Stirling, the daughter of James Stirling of Salmon Arm, British Columbia, in 1910. He said that he and Mrs. Wells had been separated for many years. The divorce was granted, he said, on grounds of incompatibility.

LAST WATERWAY CONTRACT TO BE LET BY APRIL 1

Insures Completion by October.

The last contract on the Illinois waterway, calling for a retaining wall at Joliet, will be let by the first of April, thus insuring completion of the project by the middle of October, as planned, it was announced yesterday by the office of Col. Daniel I. Sultan, United States district engineer.

A contract for the dredging of the pool at Starved Rock has been let to the Clarke Dredging company of Miami, Fla., on a bid of $328,000, and this work is getting under way on a schedule promising its completion by April 1. Bids for the pool at Marseilles are to be opened on March 15 and bids for the dam at Marseilles, an important link in the waterway, will be opened on March 18.

Dresden Contract to Be Let.

On March 25 the bids for the dredging of the pool at Dresden island will be opened, and the Joliet retaining wall project will then be all that remains to be started on the structures of navigation and dredging of the waterway.

Plans and specifications for this retaining wall, which is to be on the east side of the river above Jefferson street, Joliet, are now in the hands of the chief of army engineers and bids are expected to be called for within the next few days.

Completes "Missing Link."

The last of the federal projects will complete the Illinois "missing link" in the lakes to the gulf waterway begun in 1908 when the state appropriated $20,000,000 for the work. After this sum had been exhausted and the Chicago sanitary district had spent $70,000,000 on its part of the waterway the federal government took over the project with an appropriation of $7,500,000.

Original plans called for the completion of the government's work by April 15, 1933, but a popular demand started last fall, which United States Senator Otis F. Glenn took up, resulted in the six months' advancement of the completion date, so that the waterway will be in use when the World's Fair opens.

DANISH PREMIER ASKS CONTROL OF TRADE BY STATE

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, March 10.—(AP)—Drastic changes in the organization and the economic life of Denmark were suggested today by Premier Theodore Stauning during an address before a group of industrial and commercial leaders.

He advocated the abolition of the upper house of parliament and the substitution of an advisory body to deal with economic questions. The time is approaching, he said, when the state must control, or direct those who do control, production and commerce so that such activities might not come into conflict with the interests of the country.

He said foreign trade also should be under a central organization.

PLAN WAR SHOW FOR WASHINGTON BICENTENNIAL

Events at Soldiers' Field to Start June 24.

Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commanding the 6th corps area, announced plans yesterday for a military pageant in celebration of the George Washington bicentennial to be staged in Soldiers' field from June 24 to July 4, inclusive. The announcement was made at a luncheon at the Stevens hotel.

The pageant is expected to be outstanding among the bicentennial celebrations, Gen. Parker said. It will be put on by regular army troops stationed in the 6th corps area, who will stage a sham attack on Fort Sheridan and reënact several famous battles of the world war. More than 100 planes of the army air corps are expected to participate.

Funds raised by the pageant will be divided evenly between the Cook County Emergency Relief fund and the Army Relief society, which cares for widows and orphans of army men, he said. Foreign groups of the city will be asked to coöperate with tableaux and decorated floats.

More than 800 soldiers, the equivalent of a battalion at war-time strength, will take part in the battle scenes, which will include demonstrations by the air corps, artillery, infantry, and cavalry, according to Lieut. Col. T. A. Clark, who described the pageant.

Fireworks displays and tableaux of famous events in revolutionary days will be given, including representations of Valley Forge, Washington crossing the Delaware, and others. Col. T. A. Siqueland, chairman of the local committee for celebration of the bicentennial, and William G. Thon, chairman of the state committee, assured Gen. Parker of full support.

Mayor Cermak, Rufus C. Dawes, and Edward L. Ryerson Jr. declared their support of the pageant in behalf of the city, the Century of Progress, and the relief fund.

King of Belgium to Visit African Domain for Easter

BRUSSELS, March 10.—(AP)—King Albert of the Belgians has arranged to spend his Easter holiday in the eastern section of the Belgian Congo in Africa. It will be his first visit to Belgium's vast African domain. He will travel by airplane, and will complete the trip in four weeks, it was expected.

DRINK RECIPES IN PUBLIC LIBRARY BRING PROTEST

Camden, N. J., March 10.—[Special.]—The "Bartenders' Guide" and other manuals of a bibulous nature may be removed from the shelves of the Camden public library, which they now grace.

After receipt of information that there are available for public circulation books containing instructions for manufacturing wines, liquors, brandies, and other alcoholic beverages, Mrs. A. Haines Lippincott, chairman of the Law Enforcement League of New Jersey, said today she probably would ask that the books be removed.

"It is an outrage that such a thing would be permitted," said Mrs. Lippincott. "The government commits itself to enforce prohibition of intoxicating liquors and the public library keeps books which instruct one how to make an illegal beverage."

HOARDED MONEY TALKING ITS WAY OUT OF HIDING

Nation-Wide Drive Meeting with Success.

Optimistic reports were received from all over the country at headquarters of the Citizens' Reconstruction organization yesterday on the results of the anti-hoarding campaign. These reports indicate that bank deposits are increasing and that confidence is returning.

The first of the so-called baby bonds—one year, 2 per cent treasury certificates—were received in Chicago yesterday and turned over to John Rumbaugh, vice president of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, for sale. These certificates were designed for sale to persons with hoarded currency as a means of putting idle money to work.

Buys Certificate No. 1.

Frank Knox, national chairman of the Reconstruction organization, purchased certificate No. 1 in the $500 issue; No. 1 of the $100 certificates was bought by Mr. Rumbaugh, and James Keeley, vice president of the Pullman company, who is assisting Mr. Knox, bought certificate No. 1 in the $50 class.

Incidents reported to Walter Ross, director of the Chicago district drive, included the following:

One bank president told of a $6,070 account which was opened with money that has been accumulating in a safety deposit vault for twenty years. The money was mostly in gold certificates and represented the savings of a railroad car cleaner. Another banker told of an individual who opened an account with three $1,000 bills which he had been hoarding. Two suburban bankers reported increases in deposits and in the sale of mortgages.

Among the state reports received were the following:

Florida, John F. Harris: "Three banks report increases of more than $1,000,000 in the last three weeks."

Buying Increasing.

Iowa, C. B. Robbins: "Advices from all over the state indicate increased buying and increased deposits in banks."

Kentucky, Atilla Cox: "Deposits in one Louisville bank increased $1,440,000 since Feb. 29. Deposits of approximately 275 Kentucky banks in a Louisville bank have increased $1,200,000 since Feb. 29."

Arkansas, S. M. Brooks: "Investigation reveals considerable money returning to circulation through bank deposits. Bank officials and stores highly pleased."

New Mexico, Chairman D. K. S. Sellers stated that one individual opened a safety deposit box and took out $5,000 with which he opened an account. Another bank received $1,060 in old bills.

ISSUE OVERSUBSCRIBED.

Washington, D. C., March 10.—(AP)—Public confidence in government securities and a desire to put funds in that sort of investment caused the government's offer of $900,000,000 in treasury certificates to be oversubscribed nearly four times in two days.

Secretary Mills announced tonight the treasury certificates of indebtedness offered to the public Monday brought in subscriptions totaling $3,402,725,500 before the books were closed at the end of business Tuesday.

The 3⅛ per cent certificates to mature in 7 months were sought for a total of $952,619,500, while the 3¾ per cent certificates which mature in one year brought total subscriptions of $2,450,106,000.

The secretary did not say how much of the total subscriptions had been accepted, but it was believed the amount probably would be slightly above $900,000,000.

BUILDING PAY CUT IN EFFECT; 4 UNIONS OUT

The five day week and 20 per cent wage scale reduction will go into effect this morning for approximately 100,000 building trades mechanics and laborers, in accordance with a one year agreement between the Building Construction Employers' association and the Chicago Building Trades council.

Twenty-five building trades groups accepted the voluntary wage cut. Four unions—the electricians, marble setters, mantel and tile setters, and terrazzo mechanics have not yet agreed. It was indicated that the latter three unions will sign today.

The electricians refused the 20 per cent cut and negotiated an individual contract with their own employers, the Electrical Contractors' association. That agreement provided a reduction of approximately 11 per cent on new work and 27 per cent on reconstruction.

The official representatives of the various builders' associations yesterday adopted a resolution, effective this morning, to employ members of the four holdout unions for whatever scale they may be obtained, but in no case pay more than allowed by a 20 per cent cut.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste, and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

ELECTION COMMITTEE VOTES TO GIVE SEAT OF GRANATA TO KUNZ

Washington, D. C., March 10.—[Special.]—A resolution to unseat Congressman Peter C. Granata of Chicago and give his place as representative of the 8th Illinois district to Stanley H. Kunz was adopted by a house elections committee today by a vote of 5 to 2.

Granata is a Republican of the Thompson faction; Kunz was his Democratic opponent at the 1930 elections. The committee, of which Representative Kerr [Dem., N. C.] is chairman, divided on party lines.

The majority found that the official canvass of the vote showed: Granata, 16,565; Kunz, 15,394. When the boxes were opened, however, following the filing of Kunz's contest, a recount gave Kunz, 16,345; Granata, 15,057. The recount showed, said Chairman Kerr, that fraud had been committed. The committee's report will be presented to the house next Monday, and a vote on a resolution declaring Kunz entitled to the seat will be taken up as soon as the pending tax bill is disposed of.

EDUCATORS WILL SPEAK AS U. OF C. DEDICATES HALL

Many of the country's foremost educators and authorities on education will attend a series of conferences to be held Monday and Tuesday in connection with the dedication of the new Graduate Education building on the campus of the University of Chicago.

President Robert M. Hutchins will preside at the Tuesday morning session. Among the speakers that day will be Samuel P. Capen, chancellor of the University of Buffalo; President Ernest H. Wilkins of Oberlin college, and George A. Works, dean of students, University of Chicago. On Monday speakers will be Frank E. Baker, Thomas E. Benner, and Edward L. Thorndike.

The new structure was built at a cost of $610,000, out of the gift of $1,500,000 made to the university two years ago by the General Education Board of New York. It is located in Kimbark avenue, near the Midway.

you have to avoid

Many people think exposure to bad weather or being cooped up indoors is entirely to blame for common ills.

But they also come from germs which we catch from others. To protect ourselves against these germs we need good resistance.

A condition of low vitality, such as may result from overexposure, opens the way for them to attack us.

Begin now to build up your resistance!

The new vitamin concentrate of cod-liver oil—Squibb Adex Tablets—offers such an agreeable way to help you do this.

Each Adex Tablet contains as much Vitamin A and Vitamin D, important resistance-building factors, as one-half teaspoonful of Squibb Cod-Liver Oil.

The fame of cod-liver oil as a health-builder is due to its richness in these two factors. Vitamin A has been found to help maintain resistance against infections of the nose and throat. Vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin, tones the system.

And never before has it been so easy to get these valuable factors. Squibb Adex Tablets have none of the taste of cod-liver oil. They are small, sugar-coated, and easy to swallow.

Le them help keep you free from ills these next few weeks. Take them regularly every day.

Just ask for Squibb Adex Tablets at any good drug store.

A FRANK CONFESSION

—A STATEMENT BY THE GILLETTE SAFETY RAZOR COMPANY

The Gillette Safety Razor Company in fairness to its millions of customers feels called upon to make a confession and a statement that are undoubtedly unique in the annals of American business. It is with deep regret and no little embarrassment that we do this in order to tell you frankly what actually happened a year ago when we introduced a new Gillette razor and blade.

For more than twenty-nine years the Gillette Safety Razor Company has been the acknowledged leader of its industry. Last year, consistent with a long established policy of improving our product whenever ways and means could be found for so doing, we developed a new razor and blade. Soon after this was done, we found to our great disappointment that the public was not as enthusiastic about the new Gillette blade as we had confidently expected it would be.

We learned why. Our equipment had been over-taxed in producing 15,000,000 new razors and ten times that many blades to supply the world market at one time. Quality had been sacrificed without our realizing it. Immediately everything possible was done to bring quality back to the established Gillette standard. More than this, we determined to prevent the possibility of similar trouble occurring in the future. Accordingly we set out to develop or find a better production process, impossible as this seemed, of accomplishment at the time. We consulted one precision authority after another, laid our problem before qualified experts everywhere. Finally we discovered and purchased for our exclusive use and at the cost of millions of dollars a manufacturing process that was amazingly superior to our own.

By this method, modern and automatic, millions of blades can be made at top speed without variation in quality. Furthermore, it produces an incomparably keen, smooth-shaving blade. We incorporated refinements of our own invention and installed the new machinery, throwing out all of our old equipment. Factory procedure was changed from start to finish.

Now we announce today's new Gillette blade, built by an entirely new process, a marvelous blade that gives cleaner, cooler shaves than you have ever before known. Every dealer in your town has this Gillette blade. None of the old blades are in stock. The price of the green and black Gillette package remains unchanged but the blade is new in every respect, quality, performance, and method of manufacture.

You can try today's new process Gillette blade without risking a cent. If you don't agree it is far superior, return the package to your dealer and he'll refund your money. Our reputation depends upon the proof of these claims. Being absolutely certain of the quality of this Gillette blade, we do not hesitate to make this statement over our signature.

Price and Package Unchanged

For trade-mark reasons the green Gillette package has not been changed. We positively assure you, however, that the blade is entirely new. There is no price increase.

War Writings of Shaw Seem Mild in Peace

Author Edits Volume of Works on Conflict.

"What I Really Wrote About the War," by Bernard Shaw. [Brentano's.] Published today.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

IT seems like much more than eighteen years since the world was up in arms literally as well as figuratively, since published words of one kind could bring a verbal barrage as violent as a pip-squeak could call forth an actual one of powder and shell. In the days of the war Bernard Shaw was sniped at oftener than any man writing in English who was not professedly either pacifist or pro-German. He was called both, in language not in the least restrained.

BERNARD SHAW.

There were people who thought he should be interned as a violent pacifist or shot as a German spy. Wisely enough the British government looked upon the bad boy of literature as a salutary leaven in the dough of patriotism and gave him every opportunity to state his views and to have views to state by sending him to the front.

The echoes of what Bernard Shaw wrote about the war reached readers in the United States oftener than his actual writings. To the average American reader who does not "take in" (as the British have it) English periodicals, those echoes were the only thing that came across the ocean, quoted in the press with their spectacular sentences naturally emphasized. Bernard Shaw can always be depended upon to say (and write) one spectacular eminently quotable phrase on each page.

No Attempt at History.

Finally, after all of these years, Americans so minded can read what Mr. Shaw REALLY wrote about the war. He has gathered together everything that came from his pen during that parlous period and has edited it into 371 closely printed pages. The editing has consisted in correlating the actual writing with the current facts which may have been dimmed by the passage of time. In his first chapter Mr. Shaw says:

"In compiling this record of what I did with my pen in the great war, as we called it, I have purposely made no attempt to trim it into an academic history or to brush the dust off my own clothes or any one else's before coming up for judgment now that the shouting is over and nothing is still in action except the plundering and ransoming by which the victors are pauperizing themselves. . . . What I offer here is a collection of the documents for which I was responsible in their original casualness as possibly instructive examples of what goes on behind the battle front during a modern war.

"To appreciate the moral shock they produced it must be borne in mind that our morality is never a simple, single, perfectly homogeneous body of thought and sympathy, as we conveniently assume it to be. Like white light, it may present that appearance at quiet times, but the prism of war splits it violently into a spectrum in which all the colors of the rainbow are contrasted. I had to deal with several moralities. . . ."

Moralities of Nations at War.

Not only is what Mr. Shaw wrote in those days of historical interest but it is, as he suggests, "instructive" of what goes on in the minds and moralities of a nation at war. The reaction of the public to the light which at other times might seem palely white and inoffensive makes the volume extremely interesting.

The Shaw pen, of course, is an exciting firearm at any time. It often reminds me of the old wild west days when, for the pure fun of watching a tenderfoot dance, one of the boys would empty the barrels of his six-shooter at the reluctant feet. Mr. Shaw often empties his ink at the reader for the fun of watching that unsuspecting (and helpless) creature dance. But the dance is always a mental terpsichoring that is extremely good exercise. And, if exercise is ever good, it is best when the whole world is ill, as it always is in the periods of interracial or international war. As a matter of fact, Mr. Shaw's pronouncements seem mild enough now in the perspective of eighteen years. Some of them have almost the charm of quaintness!

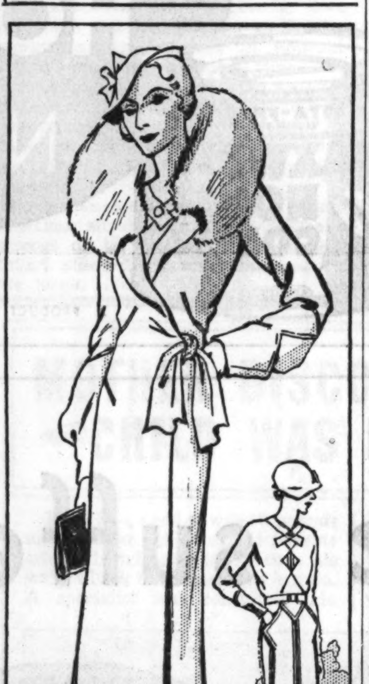
Patou Collars Green Ensemble in Natural Lynx



BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Dark blue is 'way, 'way ahead of all other colors for practical daytime wear this spring, but when it comes to dress-up clothes for bridge, matinées, and what not, Paris prefers lighter and daintier shades. For the first time in long seasons black and white have been ousted from first place for the fashionable afternoon outfit. Pale beiges, grays, and water color shades are smarter.

A soft yellowy green is being used by Patou for formal afternoon ensembles, and, as every one knows, Jean Patou knows a lot about color and has a big following. Buyers and smart women hang breathless on the edicts of J. P. as to the colors he will feature in any season. So, when M. Patou comes out with light colored daytime clothes it means something, and his new green is specially pretty and fresh looking.

The Jean Patou ensemble shown in our sketch today is made of this green, in broadcloth for the coat and in crepe marocain for the dress. The coat, which is molded at the waistline, is tied on with broadcloth ties. The collar is natural lynx, and this fur seems more attractive because of its long absence from Paris fashions.

The dress has a simple tailored blouse with a crossed and buttoned band collar, and its skirt is plaited in clusters and has flaring pouch pockets below the waistline in front.

Garfield Park Announces 4 Lectures on Gardening

Four free lectures by members of the Garfield park conservatory staff are scheduled during the next two weeks. The dates, the subjects, and the lecturers are: March 14, "Perennials for the Home Garden," Frank K. Balthis; March 18, "Making and Maintaining a Lawn," Charles Hudson; March 21, "Landscaping the Home Grounds," Mr. Balthis; March 25, "Rock and Water Gardens," Mr. Hudson. The meetings will be held in the Garfield park refectory at 8 p. m.

Each Child Is an Individual and Different

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Many mothers, at one time or another, have in moments of discouragement compared their children with others.

"I don't see why my Mary should be so slow about going to sleep. Betty Bates goes to sleep early like a machine and never wakes up until seven. And it's so inconvenient now that she's begun this skipping of naps. René Bailey is 5 and she's as regular with her naps as she was at 2. I wish Mary were like these other children."

When you make a wish like that you're being perfectly human. The child who conforms so easily is easier to rear. Still, it isn't going to do you any good to make those comparisons—unless, of course, you are a very poor manager and really don't know how to achieve routine habits, at all.

What you need to do when you feel these comparing spells coming on is to sit down and use your head. "Mary is Mary—she's a zestful, enthusiastic child, full of the joy of living. She's a bit intense, thoughtful. imaginative. She's what that report called the 'slender, high-strung type.' Betty Bates is a darling, but as different as can be.

"I can't expect Mary to sleep as much as Betty. And many children, even under the most expert management, simply do begin to stop napping at 3."

Each child, granted of course, a certain measure of sensible routine living, is a law unto himself. Methods must be made to fit him—not his little neighbors, or relatives. This realization helps with your older boys and girls, too.

Spring Outfits Collections of Varying Dots

Sewing Circles Assume Double Meaning.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

WHEN, day after day, you see nothing but dots wherever you shop on practically everything that is sold, from dotted cream pitchers for the spot size breakfast nook to playing cards with dot sprinkled backs, it doesn't take many more of any sized holes for even the dumbest of us to read the fashion signs from Paris, that dots are bigger and better this spring than they have ever been before.

There are silk suits with dots, wool suits with dots, sports dresses gone quite dotty over highly colored spots that are reprints from popular size circles from the silk fabrics. The efficient redingote that returns each spring to help restrained clothes budgets look like good, healthy allowances has arrived with dotted lines ready for permanent signatures of fashionwise owners. Even though you can have three or more dresses to wear under these redingote coats, you'll find that the most attractive and most effective choice is the foundation frock with large dots, blue with white dots, black, also with white, brown with white or beige, and lastly red with white.

Sewing Circles Get Double Meaning.

You can join sewing circles and make up your own spots in the sun, for every fabric section in town is filled with yards and yards of every color and kind and size imaginable. Blue backgrounds boast of white dots sized from pinheads to poker chips; brown ground work succeeds in herding all dots into a huddle, no matter what the color, while red steams into fashion prominence in third place with white spots and dots, ruddily scattered about with gay abandon wherever they may chance to fall.

Dots go up for high hats. If you can't go about in dotted dresses you can wear them on your hats, hat bands, and bows. In many models the dots make the entire hat. Scarfs have always been dotted, at least as far back as can be traced; the oldest one, no doubt, was modestly sprinkled with wee little specks in the tadpole stage of life, with ambitions to grow into a bull's-eye by and by. Lots of their modern descendants hit spots that measure diameters with a two and three inch rule.

Molyneaux, the swankiest creator in Paris, sponsors spots, and right on newest handbags first of all, then on belts and glove cuffs. His plain dark blue and black suits seem to have been made especially as contrast for these new meticulously dotted accessories.

Mesh Hosiery Goes In for Dots.

New mesh hosiery is, of course, made with the spotted motif; solid, well filled dots alternate with spots that are just rims around an empty round space. Lots of the newst summer shoes and sandals are made of fabrics that have gone the dotted way to smartness.

And for optimistic souls who plan for summer sunnings on the beaches, the newest pre-view of beach fashions plead for polka dot wearers. Pajamas, bathing suits [what there is of them], beach clothes, and accessories all of that joyous crowd will be in color and dots.

New umbrellas are dotted, new table linens are in dots, new glasses have colored spots, handkerchiefs are a collection of dots. In spite of what you do, you'll be going around in circles, but you'll be awfully smart and you'll not be alone.

Barrie Guest as 'Peter Pan' Is Married

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, March 10.—[Special.]—Peter Llewellyn Davies, young publisher, godson and ward of Sir James Barrie and the original of "Peter Pan," married the Hon. Margaret Hore-Ruthven, one of the famous Ruthven twins, at Savoy chapel today.

There was a sad expression in Sir James' eyes when he and Davies dined out quietly together last night as though "Peter Pan" on the eve of his marriage stirred old memories. Barrie left the chapel after the ceremony through the furnace room and back door to avoid the crowd.

The best man was the bridegroom's brother, Nicholas, one of the five orphan boys to whom Barrie dedicated his immortal children's story.

'Subdebs' to Get Invitations for Latin School Dance Soon

But Athletics Hold Interest as Boys Prepare for Gymnasium Meet.

BY JUDITH CASS.

ALL the little "sub-debs" who are wondering whether they are to be invited to the annual dance of the Chicago Latin school will have their minds set at rest soon, for the invitations will go out in a day or so, I'm told.

The dance this year is to be on Saturday, March 26, at the Casino, and of course it is the event of the early spring in the schoolgirl and boy crowd of society.

The boys at the school are more concerned with athletics just now than with any social affairs, however, for on Friday of next week there is to be a gymnasium exhibition at the school given by the boys of the school and those of the Central Y. M. C. A. college, and of course the Latin schoolboys want to be at their best in the boxing bouts, drills and other gymnastics which will be on the program.

The freshman and sophomore teams of the school will play a basketball game that night, too. On Wednesday, March 23, in the afternoon, there is to be a basketball game between the Latin school and the Tabor academy of Marion, Mass., and there is much excitement about that also.

W. Huston Lillard, head master of the academy, and a number of boys from the academy will be here for the game and for a buffet supper that Mr. and Mrs. Philip L. Reed will give at their residence, 1521 State parkway, the night before for the young men from Tabor and the members of the Latin school team. The Reeds have two sons in the Latin school and they have a summer residence at Marion, which explains their desire to entertain the visiting lads.

I heard yesterday that pretty Phyllis Ferry, who made her debut this winter, and who is studying out at the University of Chicago, has just been initiated into the Mortar Board club, and that Caroline McNair, also a debutante of this season who is attending classes at the university, is being "rushed" by the club. Marianne Stevenson, who came out last year, is one of the officers of the club; in addition to her university work she is pursuing her artistic work and is painting every afternoon at the Art institute.

Dinner for Paderewski.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey are giving a small dinner party tonight at their residence, 1507 State parkway, for Ignace Jan Paderewski, the great pianist and statesman, who arrives today to give a recital at the Civic Opera house Sunday afternoon. Sunday night after the recital the Chauncey McCormicks will entertain a few friends at dinner at their residence, 2450 Lake View avenue, for the distinguished Pole.

Paderewski asked his friends not to plan any large affairs for him, for his wife is ill at their home in Switzerland and also, as he expressed it in a telegram to his old friend, Dr. Joseph Orlowski, "My present visit to Chicago is purely professional, which means hard work in preparing for the performance of public duty."

Dr. Orlowski will accompany Paderewski to the informal reception to be given by the city council in the council chambers this afternoon at 2 o'clock at which Mayor Cermak will present the noted Pole with a resolution of the council "expressing deepest admiration for his genius, his patriotism, his spirit of self-sacrifice and his wholehearted generosity," and "welcoming him in the name of our city and bestow upon him the freedom of the city of Chicago."

Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy and Mrs. Frederic W. Upham have asked a number of well known women to meet with them this afternoon after the symphony concert to formulate plans for the annual meeting of the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross to be held some day late this month, probably on March 30. The meeting this afternoon will be held at 4:15 o'clock at the Red Cross headquarters, 616 South Michigan avenue.

Mrs. Cecil Barnes at Madison.

Mrs. Cecil Barnes will return this evening from Madison, where she went at the invitation of the University of Wisconsin chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, journalism sorority, to address 500 university girls and townswomen last night at a formal Matrix table banquet.

The subject of her talk was "Behind the Typewriter." Mrs. Barnes visited an old Bryn Mawr college friend, Mrs. Dudley Montgomery, while she was in Madison, and Mrs. Montgomery gave a party for her after the banquet. Mrs. Glenn Frank, wife of the president of the university, gave a luncheon for Mrs. Barnes yesterday, and today the Madison branch of the League of American Penwomen will entertain her at luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hopkins left yesterday to spend several weeks at Augusta, Ga. Mrs. Hopkins' sister, Mrs. Frank Hibbard, also left yesterday for the south, but she is going to Gulfport, Miss., to join Mr. Hibbard.

Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen of 1430 Astor street will return shortly before Easter from a holiday of several weeks at Tucson, Ariz. Her daughter, Mrs. William McCormick Blair, returned yesterday from a vacation in Arizona.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Gowenlock of the Ambassador are in New York for a week's stay.

More News of Winter Travelers.

Mrs. William L. Hodgkins returned yesterday to her Lake Shore drive apartment after a Caribbean cruise of several weeks.

Mrs. John Paul Welling returned yesterday from a week's stay in New York.

Mrs. Freeman Hinckley of 209 Lake Shore drive returned yesterday after two weeks at her Boston residence. She will take her two daughters, Eleanor and Barbara, to Bermuda for the Easter vacation.

Mrs. Allen Jackson will return tomorrow from a holiday in Florida and New York. Mr. Jackson returned on Tuesday.

Miss Peggy Glidden, who with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Glidden of Highland Park, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Butz of Chicago at their Nautilus hotel villa at Miami Beach, is playing in the invitation tennis tournament at the hotel this week, and was one of the prize winners at a large bridge party given there early in the week.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Hagey of 537 Barry avenue are at the Pancoast hotel at Miami Beach for a late winter vacation, and Mr. and Mrs. James G. Alexander of Lake Forest have a cottage at the King Cole hotel at the beach.

Jack Vilas Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Vilas of Chicago, took second place in the back stroke swimming race of 200 yards at a water carnival held recently in the Roney Cabana club pool for children, and his sister, Sue, took second place in the pigeon race.

Madonna Center Benefit Dance.

Saturday, April 30, has been selected as the date for the annual dinner dance for the benefit of Madonna Center. Some of those on the comtee in charge are Miss Marie Plamondon, Miss Mary Agnes Amberg, Mrs. Edward N. Hurley Jr., Mrs. Allen B. Ripley, and Mrs. Frank S. Gordon.

Mrs. Waller Borden, Mr. and Mrs. John V. Farwell, Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll H. Sudler, Mr. and Mrs. Murry Nelson, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey are among those interested in the lecture to be given next Friday evening at Orchestra hall by Sherwood Eddy under the auspices of the Adult Educational council of Chicago. Mr. Eddy, who has just returned from China and Japan, will discuss "Possible World Consequences of Sino-Japanese Conflict."

Fashion shows are a favorite method of raising money for charity at this time of the year, and the young women who belong to the Hinsdale Infant Welfare Junior auxiliary are planning one for next Wednesday evening at the Hinsdale club.

Mrs. Harold F. Ford is general chairman and among those working with her are Miss Mildred Bushnell, Mrs. W. M. Davidson, Miss Martha Lockman, Miss Mary Wood, and Miss Edith Anne Cortis.

Acting as mannequins will be the Misses Cora Armstrong, Jane Bayliss, Thora Boisen, Grace Cousins, Jane Durham, Joan Nold Ferre, Peggy Page, and Mary Wood, and Mrs. Sterling B. Cramer, Mrs. Joseph Dugan, Mrs. Donald McLeran, and Mrs. George Knapp.

Plans for Ochsner Dance.

Mrs. Charles N. Strotz and Mrs. Americus F. Callahan will have a group of guests at Berta Ochsner's dance concert next Friday evening at the Goodman theater.

A large part of the audience will be collegiate. A block of seats has been reserved by members of the faculty and students of the University of Wisconsin, who will make a special trip from Madison for the affair, and the center of the house will be occupied by members of the University of Chicago and Northwestern.

Miss Ochsner's husband, Dr. Douglas Gordon Campbell, who returned to this country after several years of psychiatry study in Vienna, is affiliated with the University of Chicago. Emily Boettcher will assist Miss Ochsner.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 10.—[Special.]—The President was joined this morning by Mrs. Hoover, who has been cruising in southern waters for ten days. Accompanying Mrs. Hoover to Washington were Mrs. Edgar Rickard, who returned to her New York home this afternoon; Mrs. Mark Sullivan of Washington, Mrs. Stark McMullin, a guest at the White House for a year or more, and Miss Mildred Hall, secretary to Mrs. Hoover.

Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson were entertained at dinner this evening by the Argentine ambassador, Felipe A. Espil.

Mrs. Wilbur, wife of the secretary of the interior, was hostess at tea this afternoon.

Mrs. Hurley, wife of the secretary of war, was entertained at luncheon today by Mrs. McCain, wife of Col. William A. McCain, U. S. A., superintendent of Soldiers' home.

Senator and Mrs. Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin entertained at dinner this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Baden have announced the marriage of their daughter, Hester Bell, to George S. Waring, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Waring of Minneapolis, yesterday in All Souls' Episcopal church. They will make their home in Minneapolis.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, March 10.—[Special.]—Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt arrived from Paris on the Majestic with her daughter, Miss Gloria Vanderbilt.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Belmont arrived on the Majestic.

Mrs. Alan Harriman gave a luncheon and had among her guests Mrs. Roland Palmedo, Mrs. James Russell Lowell, Mrs. Leonard J. Cushing, and Mrs. Murray Hoffman.

Mrs. S. Osgood Pell is due back from Europe on the Europa next Monday.

Mrs. L. Sutton McKee, who was with her daughter in Washington, has returned to the New Weston here.

A son was born yesterday at the Lying-In hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Douglass O. Burnham. Mrs. Burnham, the former Miss Virginia G. Schroeder, is a niece of Mrs. Charles Lawrence Riker.

GINGERBREAD, IT SEEMS, IS AN OLD IRISH CONCOCTION

Everybody Likes It and It's Easy to Make.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

For more years than any one in our neighborhood can remember, Mrs. O'Shea has lived in the gabled, green shuttered house behind the wrought iron fence and the lilac bushes.

For as long as any one can remember, Mrs. O'Shea has been sharing their memories with the older folk, with the young folk their dreams, and with three generations her generous old fashioned tea table and its tray of gingerbread.

The tray—almost as remarkable as the fairy tale purse that greedy fingers could never deplete of its golden coins—is the reason why, as long as any one can remember, Mrs. O'Shea's little house has been called the Gingerbread House.

A Tribute to Gingerbread.

Not entirely, I am convinced, is it for Erin's kindly old bishop that the world pins a shamrock over its heart on St. Patrick's day, but partly, at least, for its Mistresses O'Sheas in their gingerbread houses.

And this is how Mrs. O'Shea makes her gingerbread.

There are preliminaries. About her waist Mrs. O'Shea ties a voluminous white starched apron whose skirt reaches to the hem of her black taffeta dress and whose bib reaches up to the tips of her crocheted collar. Her gold rimmed spectacles perched in place, Mrs. O'Shea opens the cook book and places it before her on the kitchen table, just in case memory should lapse.

Start with Sugar and Butter.

Into the rose colored mixing bowl go a cup of sugar and a cup of butter. Exactly five minutes have ticked away cheerily on the Dutch clock on the wall when the creaming process is completed. Little by little a cup of molasses is added. And meanwhile two teaspoons of soda have been gurgling with a cup of sour cream in the blue daisy bordered mug. They are the next ingredients; then a lemon—the juice and the yellow ring grated.

Three cups of flour in the flour sifter, a teaspoon of ginger, a teaspoon of cinnamon, just a few grains less than a teaspoon of salt, and cream of tartar, a quarter less than a teaspoonful—these sifted together descend like a miniature snow storm, and finally, three eggs beaten to yellow froth, are folded into the butter.

Dark, aromatic, cream smooth, the mixture is poured into the buttered gingerbread tin, and the oven receives it. The door clicks. And she treads lightly as she moves about the task of washing the mixing spoons, the rose colored bowl, the blue mug and the measuring cups, and placing the spices and sugar and flour back on the pantry shelves. The Dutch clock ticks cheerily. A fragrance that brings with it great expectations steals through the kitchen.

MILK PRODUCERS ARE CONSUMERS TOO, THEY STATE

The "cobbler's children go unshod" in the old sayings, but some 20,000 dairy farmers who supply Chicago and sixteen nearby cities with the regular morning's milk insist that they and their families have an appetite for the beverage also.

Some two thousand of them are expected to attend the annual meeting of the Pure Milk association at the Auditorium hotel Tuesday. Every item of the menu prepared for their noonday dinner will include milk.

The menu ranges from such delicious foods as cream pea soup, milk fed veal with dressing, scalloped potatoes, baked broccoli creamed with cheese, dairy rolls and 92 score butter, to ice cream, cream cakes, and milk to drink. Yes, they'll go without coffee for one meal.

On the flap of the menu for the occasion appears a challenge and bit of advice to women: "Milk is the only perfect food, and can well be made the foundation of every meal, especially on the farm, where milk is produced. If you (dairymen) don't consume generous quantities of milk how can you expect the consumer in the city to do so?"

Doughnuts Down on the Farm

Farm families from miles around gathered at the Frank Keller homestead on Ogden avenue near Naperville on a cold, wintry day this week, ostensibly to attend a pruning demonstration on grape vines but knowing they would have generous samples of the doughnut making abilities of Margaret Keller and her mother.

Mrs. Keller's Doughnuts, Pans of Them, Pass Annual Test

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

Five hundred of Mrs. Frank Keller's famous doughnuts passed their annual test this week at a farmers' pruning demonstration held on the Keller farm on Ogden avenue road near Naperville. The spring pruning and spraying demonstration has come to be something of an institution on the Keller farm where nearly every type of fruit, except apples, are grown for roadside sales. Farmer friends and strangers from scores of miles away come each year to learn more of the pruning of grape vines, pear trees, peach trees and raspberry canes and to taste again what many of them call "fried cakes."

Dinner First on Program.

None of the events of the day is far removed from foods and eating. First on the program is a noon dinner. There was fried chicken, home butchered, fresh pork, dressing, mashed potatoes, turnips, biscuits, plum jam, pickled peaches, coffee, frosted cake and red raspberries.

After the meal, the serious side of fruit production found about 60 visitors watching R. L. Marsh, Illinois university extension horticulturist, prune grape vines and fruit trees. In the midst of the demonstration came the call for midafternoon lunch.

"Doughnuts are ready and so is coffee," was the invitation of the Keller girls. Heaped pans of golden brown doughnuts were waiting. These Mrs. Keller had prepared on the old fashioned range where a kettle of home rendered lard turned ringlets of dough into prize eatables.

Mrs. Keller's Recipe.

We pass on to you the recipe, taken from Mrs. Keller's notebook:

"Use one cup of sugar, two eggs, four tablespoons of melted lard, two cups of sour milk, one teaspoonful of baking soda, one-half teaspoon salt and a pinch of nutmeg. Enough flour should be added to make a soft dough and then use as little flour as you can when rolling them out. This usually is enough for 60 doughnuts."

The cutter was of the type that most doughnut makers use. The fat is first heated to just under the smoking stage and the fried cakes are fished out, drained, and cooled somewhat before being placed in a container for storing or serving.

SWEET POTATO CULLS USED FOR MAKING STARCH

Sweet potatoes, delectable companions of ham and other appetzing foods, constitute the second largest vegetable crop in the United States. From ten to 30 per cent of the sweet potatoes grown never reach the table, we are told, because this percentage is "culls" and heretofore have been a waste.

Now come chemists who report the development of a method for manufacturing sweet potato starch, which for textile purposes they say is equal to imported high grade white potato starch.

"The sweet potato is primarily a starch producer," says H. S. Paine the Washington chemist who supervised the process. "This new method offers the possibility of utilizing the cull and excess crop as a source of commercial starch."

HOME BAKED PIE A SURE CURE FOR HUBBY'S GROUCH

No Snap to Make One, but It Pays Big Dividends.

BY FLORA MARTIN.

Pie, pie and more pie is the standard order of most men for the dessert course, say those who know, namely restaurateurs, whose business it is to study their patrons' food habits. The perennial apple pie, sided by a slice of cheese [there must be cheese] holds first place in the dessert affections of the average man, they say. Lemon cream, cocoanut cream and cherry pies are runners-up in the contest, as is chocolate pie of which one male pie enthusiast once ate three slices, one after another, in one sitting, we are told.

A Tip for Housewives.

There are always exceptions to rules but in general it is a recognized fact that men are the biggest pie eaters. That's a tip for the housewives. Of course, pie making is no snap, but practice makes perfect and there's no time like the present to start practicing. That "pie" knowledge will come in handy when you are trying to get "hubby" in a good humor preparatory to springing the bill for that new dress or the bad news that you have fallen prey to an enterprising book salesman and signed up for the latest volumes of "Whoozis" or "Whatzis."

Apricot, blueberry, blackberry, raspberry, strawberry, pineapple, pumpkin, mince meat, gooseberry, huckleberry, prune, vinegar, peach, banana cream, raisin and butterscotch are among the generally accepted pie varieties in the cooking repertoire of most housewives. Here's a new one for cooks in these parts—the chess pie, an old favorite of southern cooks. Down south it's the custom to take it in individual tins rather than as one large pie, but it can be made either way.

Here Is a Favorite Recipe.

The recipe most generally used in the south is as follows:

Yolks of 12 eggs, well beaten.
3 cups sugar.
1 cup butter.
1-3 cup cooking sherry or orange juice.
½ teaspoons each of nutmeg, cinamon and cloves.
1 cup nuts [pecans].
1 cup fruit [raisins or currants].

Chop nuts and fruit together. Cream butter and sugar together and add with other ingredients to beaten eggs. Bake in moderate oven with under crust only. Served topped with whipped cream or meringue.

What are your suggestions for something "different" in the pie line? Send the recipes in and if they qualify they'll be printed.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

If you have no cookie sheets bake the cookies on an inverted dripping pan.

PURE FOOD LAWS PUT TEETH INTO MUSTARD'S BITE

Labels Warn You of Adulterants.

You may know your tastes for mustard, but it is well to read the label when you purchase, for there are various kinds and it is better, of course, to get the exact flavor you like.

All mustard products come from the three general classes of seed, white, black and intermediate. The latter shades from yellow to brown and red. The real value of mustard as a condiment depends upon its content of volatile oil, the pungent part of it.

The flour, or ground mustard, is the powder made from seed after most of the hulls have been removed. Sometimes a portion of the fixed oil has been removed. Prepared mustards, such as "old English style," "Dutch style," or "French style" are pastes composed of a mixture of ground mustard seed, flour or cake, with salt, a vinegar, and perhaps sugar, spices or other condiments.

The food and drugs act prohibits the presence of starch, mustard bran or vegetable gums in prepared mustard. If tumeric is added, it is usually so stated on the label, and is used to give mustard a yellow color. Foods sold as mustard, but containing starch or gum must bear this fact on the label.

Household Hints

In making meringue add a teaspoon of cold water to each egg white to make it go farther.

A handful of salt added to the rinse water keeps clothes from freezing on the line in cold weather.

Pieces of cheesecloth stretched between embroidery hoops make good covers for food set aside to cool.

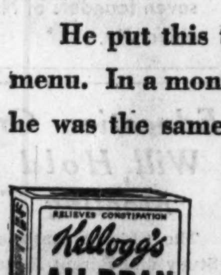
BORDEN'S
CREAMED COTTAGE CHEESE



He need never have suffered for all those years

His headaches, poor appetite, low vitality could have been corrected by eating a delicious cereal containing "bulk" and Vitamin B

HIS poor health resulted from constipation. It brought dull headaches to cloud his days, sleeplessness to break his nights. Office hours were handicapped. Ambition blunted.

He tried to correct his condition — with pills and drugs. He found he had to keep increasing dosage to get results. Then, one lucky day, he heard about Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

He put this tempting cereal on his daily menu. In a month, it seemed hard to believe he was the same man. A new spring to his step. A new light in his eyes. A new outlook on life.

What makes Kellogg's ALL-BRAN so good? It furnishes two things to overcome common constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. It also supplies twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is similar to that of lettuce. Inside the body it absorbs moisture, and forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Special cooking processes make ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable. It is not habit-forming. Enjoy as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in cooking. In the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

THE APPETITE HAS ITS WAY AT PRESENT PRICES

And Shoppers for Meat Find Thrills Aplenty.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Thousands of housewives are experiencing new thrills these days as they find that meats, poultry, butter, eggs, and cheese are selling at remarkably low prices.

When have eggs been selling for as low as a cent apiece? When has butter been 25 cents a pound or roasting fowl 30 cents to 35 cents a pound? When, in your years of monthly grocery bills have you seen steaks at 28 to 40 cents a pound?

And the foods are choice, too. It is almost cheating the family these days to skimp on such fine food when it is so plentiful and so cheap.

Meat Prices at Low Levels.

A survey of meat markets in Chicago this week showed beef cuts to be selling at 35 to 55 per cent less than they were two years ago. Pork and lamb cuts were even more economical. They showed lower price ranges but about the same degrees of decline.

Hams and bacon have joined in the race for lower price levels. This has made possible the serving of bacon and eggs for less than 5 cents a person in the home. And they can be fried in butter at that price, too.

Housewives who have been watching the downward movement of retail prices, slowly following the earlier drops in wholesale prices, are becoming convinced that these low prices will continue for some time. They aren't afraid to serve juicy steaks to the family two or three times a week, for the appetite and the budget are in perfect harmony.

Stewing Hens in Demand.

One of the peculiar market conditions if the season, produce merchants declare, is that all poultry prices have come down to more narrow margins. Where once the fancy broilers, turkeys, ducks or other fine fowl were costing consumers as high as 25 cents a pound more than stewing hens, the latter are now in demand and the difference in prices is only four or five cents.

"We have learned that women now prefer a wider range of cuts of meat," said one veteran Chicago butcher. "There was a time when the roasts, stews and less desirable cuts of meat went begging. But now women are learning how to prepare them into tasty dishes, and they find their families happy to see more liberal portions being served."

Hints on Meat Cooking.

Extensive experiments have been made in special testing kitchens in a dozen state home economics schools to learn just how meats should be cooked to get the utmost in flavor with economy of time and fuel. Miss Jessie Cline and Miss Hazel Fry worked for four years with two meat specialists at Columbia, Mo., and their recommendations after cooking and tasting some 450 cuts of beef are worth pinning into the kitchen scrapbook. Here they are:

Searing (browning roasts at high temperature a short time before cooking at lower temperatures) increases cooking losses. Therefore, if used, searing should be only for improving outside appearance, developing aroma, and developing flavor of the outside of the meat.

Low oven temperatures for roasting result in less cooking losses and greater palatability than do high oven temperatures. High temperatures decrease juiciness and tenderness, particularly.

"Low Ovens" Roast Uniformly.

The higher the temperature of ovens the less the uniformity of "doneness" of meats. A low oven roasts more uniformly than a high one.

The time required for roasting per pound is decreased by high oven temperatures.

Cook meats in their own juices. Adding water (not true roasting) decreases palatability and increases cooking losses.

A low internal temperature of a roast at the time it is put into the oven increases the cooking losses and time of cooking (such as transferring a roast directly from the refrigerator to the oven).

Well done roasts have more cooking loss than medium done.

Boneless roasts seem to require more cooking time per pound than do roasts with bone.

Larger steaks [sirloin and round] require less time per pound to broil than do the small ones, but the total time for the small steaks is less than for the large.

Meat Thermometer Suggested.

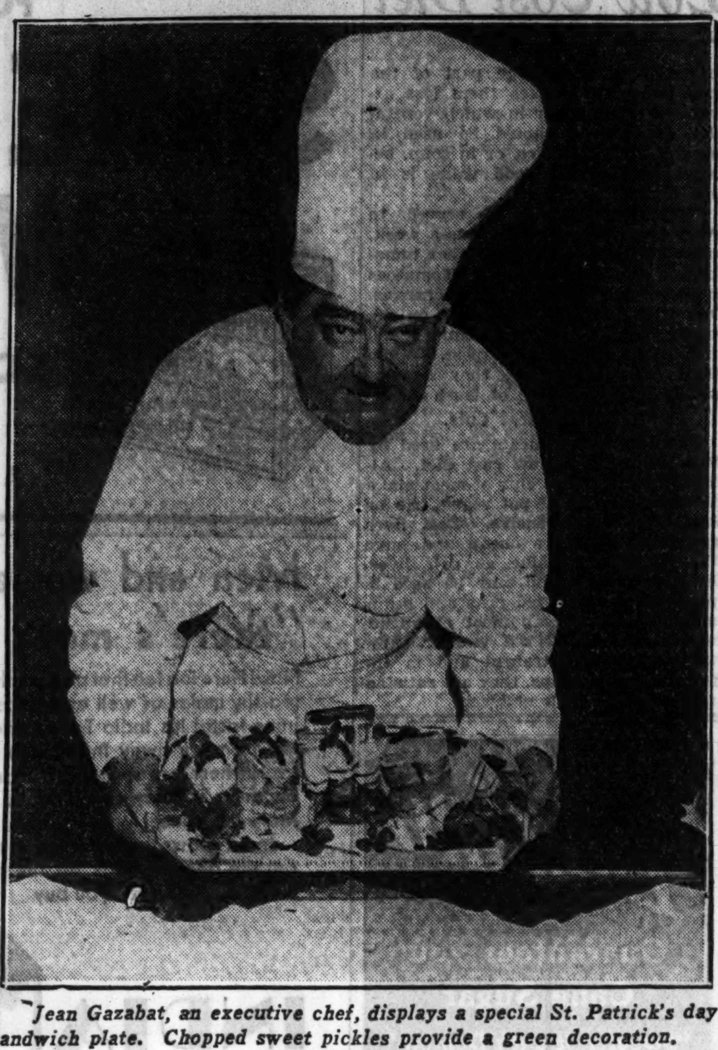
The doneness of a roast can be accurately determined only by using a meat thermometer, due to cooking time variations with size and cuts of meat.

Steaks cut two inches thick and weighing about 2 to 3½ pounds take 34 to 38 minutes to broil. [Internal temperature should be about 57 degrees centigrade.]

By preheating a gas oven with regulator set at 500 degrees Fahrenheit [260 degrees Centigrade] the broiler becomes hot enough, and remains so, to cook steaks with the broiler door open, the top side of the steaks becoming nicely browned in approximately half the cooking time. In this manner the steak may be watched to determine time to turn it over or remove it easily. Electric broilers require the door to be closed to keep the right temperature for broiling steaks.

Porterhouse steaks are more expensive than sirloin, round or rib steaks in cost of lean meat when cooked. Round steak is most economical on this basis.

Even Sandwich Wears Green



Jean Gazabat, an executive chef, displays a special St. Patrick's day sandwich plate. Chopped sweet pickles provide a green decoration. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

PASTE THIS IN YOUR KITCHEN; IT CONTAINS NET WEIGHT OF CANS

Housewives who sometimes become puzzled over the varied sizes of cans in their grocery lists, and the amount of food they contain, will find this table of usual can sizes helpful:

Can—	Average net weight.	Average cupfuls.
8-Z	8 oz.	1
Picnic [No. 1 eastern]	11 oz.	1 1-3
No. 1 tall	16 oz.	2
No. 2	20 oz.	2¼
No. 2½	28 oz.	3½
No. 3	33 oz.	4
No. 10	6 lbs. 10 oz.	13

For the average family of four or five the cans most used are numbers 2, 2½, and 3. Many varieties of canned soup and fruits are to be had in picnic sizes, however. The soups in these small cans are concentrated and when properly diluted yield 4 to 6 servings. Large families find the number 10 cans economical for some foods.

ST. PATRICK DAY WEARIN' OF GREEN APPLIED TO MENU

Pickles Add Rich Touch to Many Dishes.

BY VIRGINIA THOMPSON.

With the coming of St. Patrick's day and the "wearin' of the green," it is natural that pickles, because of their rich green coloring, should take part in entertainment menus. They readily lend themselves to decorating requirements and add a piquant, spicy touch to sandwich fillings, meat loaves, salads, and other menu items.

Jean L. Gazabat, the executive chef of one of Chicago's leading hotels, has designed a special St. Patrick's day sandwich plate. His first suggestion is an egg sandwich. This is made of hard cooked eggs, which are scalloped and laid on an open slice of bread. The eggs are lightly touched with mayonnaise, a sprinkling of capers, and lastly seasoned with chopped sweet pickles.

Cheese Filling Suggested.

His second suggestion is a sandwich with a cottage or cream cheese filling. Spread the cheese on buttered bread. Make a border around the cheese with a mixture of equal parts of chopped pickles and egg yolks.

And to complete the sandwich plate M. Gazabat gives a contrasting sandwich of roast beef. This is truly a man's mouthful! Place the thinly sliced beef on bread and doctor it with a spread of mustard and chopped pickles. Serve on a crisp leaf of lettuce between two buttered slices of rye bread.

This attractive sandwich plate is complete as a St. Patrick offering with a garnish of pickles and olives used as a border. An extra touch can be added by cutting pickle shamrocks for the border. This is readily done by slicing the leaves and stem of the shamrock individually and then placing them together on the plate to form the completed shamrock, our St. Patrick insignia.

Pickle Attractive Decoration.

Foreign chefs are noted for their clever garnishing, and it is almost second nature to them. One of their most common garnishes, and one which they find most attractive, is the pickles.

For St. Patrick day decorating, whether it's a fish or meat salad, a meat entrée, or an hors d'œuvre, any of a wide variety of pickles may be employed. This includes the novel sliced dill, the sweet dill, the sour dill, the sweet mixed pickles with their complementary onion and cauliflower flowerlets, mustard pickles and burr gherkins.

BY MARY MEADE.

No one ever talks about cooking inhibitions. Every other inhibition is aired in magazines, books, and newspapers, but those pertaining to the kitchen appear to have been ignored. Or else not recognized. However, I'm going to bring them out in the open today, for I have had cooking inhibitions, as have had many other cooks.

One of my first inhibitions was the cooking of tongue. Another was pig's feet, while still another was rabbit meat. No matter how delicate the rabbit, nor how scrupulously cleaned by the hunter, I wouldn't cook it. There was always visions of "bunny cottontail" flipping over our garden hedges that were too vivid to be cast aside. Maybe he did nibble the carrots with a woeful lack of respect for their useful growth—maybe he did wantonly pilfer from the rest of the garden. He was invariably forgiven, because he looked as though he'd make a charming pet—if he could be caught!

A number of years have elapsed since that time, and today a clean pink and white skinned rabbit can enter my kitchen with the casualness of a roast of beef. For rabbits are being bred for the table, and delicate food they prove themselves to be.

Yesterday, for the first time, we experimented with the cooking of rabbit liver, which has the delicacy of chicken liver, and has a dainty flavor all its own. It is cheaper than the latter, so if your family likes liver, try it out on them. It may be cooked in combination with bacon for breakfast or luncheon in the same manner you treat other livers. Or again it may be the dinner entrée, as I have suggested for tomorrow evening's dinner.

Take three cups of hot mashed potatoes and whip a generous lump of butter, the yolk of an egg, and two tablespoons of milk into them. Then put the potato mixture into your pastry tube and make attractive potato nests on a greased cookie sheet or baking pan. Brown the nests lightly in a quick oven for about ten minutes [400 degrees Fahrenheit].

In the meantime, wash three rabbit livers, and cut each in four pieces. Cut three slices of bacon in two, and cook these slowly until light brown, but not crisp. Remove the bacon, and cook the livers in the remaining fat. Sauté for a few minutes on each side. Add one tablespoon of flour to the fat; blend, and add one cup of good stock. [If you haven't stock on hand you may use water.] Stir well while you bring to the boiling point. Then simmer gently for about ten minutes, and season with salt, pepper, a dash of kitchen sauce, and a sprinkling of paprika. Remove the nests from the oven and fill each with the liver and serve. Garnish with parsley or chopped chives.

MOTHER DISCOVERS WHY CHILD WAS UNDERWEIGHT

Fred L—, aged 6, was 10 pounds underweight. His worried parents tried all sorts of ways to coax his weight back to normal. All in vain. A specialist was consulted. He asked about Fred's meals, then shook his head. "You're simply trying to fatten him—what the boy needs is balanced nourishment." When a balanced diet restored Fred's weight to normal, his parents agreed.

Food chemists have learned much about the body's needs in recent years. Children, and grown-ups too, thrive on foods which combine best the innumerable elements needed by the human system . . . minerals, vitamins, proteins, carbohydrates—even an indigestible "roughage" which serves to promote intestinal hygiene. The incomplete or "single-purpose" foods tend to stock the body with deficient nourishment.

Rated high among the foods which yield balanced nourishment are whole grains of wheat and rice. Mother Nature has richly endowed them with elements much needed by the body plus that gentle laxative — bran — to insure regular elimination. Unhappily, most breakfast cereals are still prepared by outworn methods which devitalize them — removing vital elements to no purpose. The human system needs the entire food value of whole grains!

Today, at last—thanks to a marvelous new method of food preparation — you are offered two truly whole grain breakfast foods, WHEAT POPS and RICE POPS, "popped" from natural whole wheat and natural whole rice. Each spoonful is crispy, crackly, crunchy with the nourishment and sun-kissed flavor of entire grain kernels. You'll like them immensely! Because of their rich food value, these "keep-you-fit" cereals are the most economical you can buy. Ask for WHEAT POPS or RICE POPS by name — eat vitalized foods. FOODTOWN KITCHENS, Inc., Chicago.

PINEAPPLE AND APRICOT WHIP

1 Cup Shredded Canned Pineapple	1 Teaspoon Grated Orange Rind
1 Cup Apricot Pulp	2 Tablespoons Lemon Juice
1 Cup Sugar	⅛ Teaspoon Salt
1 Tablespoon Gelatine	2 Egg Whites
¼ Cup Orange Juice	1 Can PANTRY WHIPPING CREAM

To the pineapple and apricot pulp add the sugar; heat to boiling point, stirring constantly; add the gelatine which has been soaked in the orange juice for five minutes. Mix well and set aside until it begins to congeal. Add the orange rind, lemon juice and salt. Beat well; then fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and whipped PANTRY WHIPPING CREAM. Put in tray of electric refrigerator to set. 12 servings.

"They sang him a ballad, and fed him on salad" —Edward Lear

DON'T FORSAKE SALADS, EVEN IN COLD WEATHER

Five Recipes Are Listed for Housewives.

Don't forsake the salads, even in cold weather, if you would keep the family's appetite up to par and assure them an attractive means of continuing to get their needed fruits and vegetables daily.

During the winter months the homemaker may resort to her canned fruits and vegetables in addition to the fresh or raw supply. It is considered important by nutritionists that the winter diet contain plenty of foods high in mineral matter and vitamins to avoid illnesses or the approach of that laziness called "spring fever."

Each day two fruits, one raw and one cooked, two servings of raw vegetables, and two servings of cooked vegetables [beside potatoes] should be included in the daily diet. Perhaps these suggestions will help to carry out this recommendation from Purdue university home economists:

JACK FROST SALAD.

1 level tablespoon gelatine
¼ cup cold water
2 cups cottage cheese
½ cup milk
½ teaspoonful salt
⅛ teaspoonful paprika
½ cup canned sliced pineapple
6 dates
1 cup bananas
½ cup canned or dried apricots or peaches

Soak the gelatine in cold water about five minutes and then dissolve over boiling water. Mash cottage cheese and add milk and seasoning. Add dissolved gelatine and stir thoroughly. Rinse individual ring molds in cold water and fill with salad mixture. Place molds in refrigerator and allow to chill. To serve unmold salad on lettuce leaf. Mix fruit together and fill center of mold with fruit. Garnish with mayonnaise if desired.

CRANBERRY DELIGHT.
[Six servings.]

1 level tablespoon gelatine
¼ cup cold water
1 cup cooked cranberries
¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup whipped cream

Soak gelatine in cold water about five minutes and then dissolve over boiling water. Add dissolved gelatine to cooked cranberries, which may be strained if desired. Add sugar, salt and lemon juice and stir thoroughly. Allow mixture to cool and when starting to thicken fold in whipped cream. Rinse large mold in cold water and fill with dessert, garnishing mold with cranberries. Place mold in refrigerator to chill. To serve, unmold dessert on large plate and garnish with whipped cream and raw cranberries.

PIQUANT SALAD.

Remove pits from cooked prunes and replace with pickled onions. Serve five prunes on each individual crisp lettuce leaf with French dressing. A small amount of salad oil added to the pickled onion juice makes a desirable dressing.

DRIED BEEF SALAD.

12 halves dried apricots or other dried fruit
½ cup blanched chopped almonds or other nuts
½ cup raisins
¼ cup mayonnaise

Wash the apricots well and soak until tender. When cold, roll in chopped nuts. Fill the center with raisins and nuts and serve on lettuce leaf or other garnish. Dried peaches or dried pears may replace the apricots.

ORANGE AND ONION SALAD

4 oranges, thinly sliced
Lettuce
8 thin slices Spanish onion
4 apples, dried
1 cup mayonnaise

Place orange slices on lettuce on individual salad plate and on these two slices of onion. Cover with apple and serve with mayonnaise.

GREAT CHANGES IN METHODS OF HANDLING FRUIT

Greater changes have taken place in the methods of distributing fruits and vegetables in the last five years than occurred in forty years previously, according to A. B. Leeper, manager of a farmers' sales organization on the South Water market.

"The fruit and vegetable industry is undergoing a revolution so far as distribution is concerned," he states. "There are two principal reasons. One is the advent of the truck and motor transportation, bringing these products as great a distance as 500 miles direct from producer to the consuming market. The other is the chain store, today handling east of the Mississippi about 50 per cent of the perishables. They have become direct buyers and distributors, and are even in some cases producing fruits and vegetables.

"The marketing of these products is in a field by itself, so far as setup and distribution are concerned. There are at least 200 potential carlot markets for Illinois fruit and vegetables. To distribute these products we must have an entirely different setup from the one used to market the staple crops such as grain, wool, etc."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Four rules for preparing dried fruit are: wash it thoroughly in warm water, soak it a long while, cook it slowly, and add the sugar at the end of the cooking period.

CAUTION NEEDED TO SELECT FOOD OF RIGHT KIND

With many families spending less for foods than in former times, Miss Dorothea Muehl of the Purdue university home economics staff, reports that caution must be exercised by the capable mothers to see that enough food of the right kind is provided for her family.

"Today it is necessary to spend our food money to get the best food values for the dollars expended," Miss Muehl says. "If men and women are to feel well and able to work and if children are to be healthy and able to go to school they must have the right kinds of food. Much sickness is the result of the lack of needed foods in the diet.

"Each day the diet must contain three essentials: Building, energy, and body regulating foods. At least one of the building foods, such as meat, fish, cheese, eggs, dried peas, or beans, is needed, for they contain minerals to make bones, teeth, and cells, and protein to make firm muscles. The fuel foods, including cereals, sweets, fat, and starchy vegetables are the best sources of heat and energy.

"The child needs an excess of fuel foods to supply a surplus of energy which may be stored as body fat, she adds. The regulating foods are vegetables, fruits, milk, and cereals and are needed to keep the body healthy and are the best sources of minerals, vitamins, and roughage.

"Use the foods at hand and supplement with the necessary articles to make well balanced meals," she said. "Left overs of several previous days can be made attractive and wholesome.

"When food is purchased spend as much for milk as for meat; using no more for both vegetables and fruits than is spent for milk."

FRUIT IS NEEDED IN DAILY DIET AS BLOOD PURIFIER

Purdue Nutritionist Gives Health Recipe.

Fruit should be used in the day's menu, even if vegetables are included, in the opinion of Miss Aneta Beadle, Purdue university nutritionist. Fruit adds attractiveness to the eye and palate, it is mildly laxative and tends to help the tired body rid itself of wastes.

"Fruit is what is known as base forming and helps keep the blood free from acid," Miss Beadle declares. "In speaking of fruit we include tomatoes, as they really are fruit in a dietetic sense. It would be well to use oranges, grapefruit, lemons, or tangerines on the days when tomatoes or tomato juice are not included in the diet.

"Apples and well ripened bananas are nutritious, require no cooking, and are cheap. Dried peaches and apricots are important sources of iron and, like iron, are important in preventing anemia.

"All dried fruit should be thoroughly washed. Pour boiling water over the fruit and soak overnight. Cook until just tender in the same water in which soaked. If sugar is needed add three minutes before removing from fire. Canned fruits may be used, but should not take the place of raw fruits."

HOUSEHOLD HINT.

Contrast in the color, flavor, and texture of foods helps to make the meal look attractive.

Nutrition Professor Gives Pointers on Low Cost Diet

Ithaca, N. Y., March 10.—[Special.]—Milk, cereals, and bread are the basis of a low cost diet, according to Mary Henry, professor of foods and nutrition at the New York State College of Home Economics, who spoke to an audience of women here recently on adequate food on low incomes.

Milk is the first need and without it no diet can be complete, Miss Henry said.

When it is combined with whole grain cereals or bread made from whole grains it forms the backbone of almost any diet," she went on. "For children use one quart daily, for grownups one pint daily is none too much. The portion should never go below three cups a day for children and one and one-half cups for adults.

"Evaporated milk may be used if it is cheaper; that is, if it costs less than double its amount of fresh milk. But sweetened canned milk can not take the place of either fresh or unsweetened evaporated milk. Cheese may be substituted occasionally for some of the milk for adults, but milk is better for children.

Bread and Cereals Essential.

"Both bread and breakfast cereals should be used generously. Sometimes, with milk, these may almost make up the entire diet, though they do not furnish complete nourishment and need additions of vegetables and fruits.

One or two servings of potatoes every day, and in addition a daily serving of one other vegetable, should supplement the milk and cereal foundation. Green, leafy, or yellow vegetables are generally best in food value, such as cabbage, carrots, yellow turnips, and greens. Raw cabbage should be used two or three times a week.

"Overcooking cabbage and other vegetables is wrong, because it deprives them of a large part of the food value and makes them less attractive. The water in which vegetables are cooked should be used in serving the vegetables, or in soup, because part of the food value is in this liquid.

"Tomatoes should be served to every one three or four times a week, and children should have either tomatoes or oranges every day. Tomatoes are generally cheaper than oranges. One other fruit should appear on the menu daily. Apples, bananas, and prunes are generally cheapest. While dried fruits are good, they do not wholly take the place of fresh ones."

Advice on Meat Cuts.

Eggs and some meats are used by Miss Henry in a low cost diet. Although many cheap cuts of meat make delicious stews and pot roasts, rib or loin cuts are expensive. Beef liver and pork liver are cheap and have the same food value as calf liver. Eggs are cheap and may be used in place of meat. Dried peas and beans make another cheap meat substitute which may be served two or three times weekly. Strained and in the form of cream soups, they are satisfactory even for little children.

Gay Pictorial Map Is Story of Chicago U.

Scenes and Characters Well Told.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

DO YOU remember the famous horse drawn bus of the gay nineties that met Illinois Central trains and delivered students to their classes at the University of Chicago?

Have you memories of the champion gridsters of '99 that celebrated conference victory by burning all the wood sidewalks on the ten acre campus?

Do you know that Bond chapel is more famous for its weddings and funerals than for the rituals of the divinity school?

You do—if you have seen the gay pictorial map of the University of Chicago just pulled off the press by the Alumnæ club. It's selling for $1 and all of the proceeds, over and above the cost of printing, of course, are going to provide scholarships for two deserving young women. Each one of these awards is for two years of college work—the only two year scholarships at the university, Mrs. James Westfall Thompson, chairman of the "map" committee, explained yesterday.

Chicago is the second institution of higher learning west of the Alleghanies, I am told, to have produced a picture map. The University of Michigan was the first. For several years they have been popular in the east at Harvard and Princeton, Vassar and Smith.

Incidents from History.

This latest addition to the map collection is a graphic story of "the city gray that ne'er shall die," replete with each building (and several to come) in its proper corner, amusing incidents removed from university history, and the pet peeves and pet hobbies of favorite professors painted with humor. The picture begins with the ghosts of the World's Fair of '93, when the university was celebrating its first birthday and the earnest young men of the divinity school complained that the roaring of the bullfrogs disturbed their meditation. It anticipates the Century of Progress next year, when, the prediction is, the "U. of C." bus will be an airplane.

Members of the class of 1903 particularly appreciate the sketch of William Rainey Harper, "king of go-getters," as James O'Donnell Bennett has described him, protecting President Nicholas Murray Butler (at least a foot his superior in height) from a spring downpour as he delivered the convocation address. The setting was a tent, the difficulty, several holes in the covering, and President Butler's protection, a great green umbrella.

In another corner of the map is the renowned Michelson crowned with a Nobel prize, rolling the sun with a yardstick, and pulling the other three Nobel awards won by Millikan, Compton, and Alexis Carel. (Of the six Nobel prizes in science awarded to citizens of the United States, you may recall that four went to men who did their work at the University of Chicago.) "My friend Plato says——" are the words of Paul Shorey sketched in his academic gown. Dr. Shorey will soon bring out a critical edition of Plato which ought to be something to set beside Balliol's Jowett.

Grand Old Man in His Bus.

The Grand Old Man [on the map] says, "Don't start the game until I get there, boys," while he chugs along in the venerable "bus" graduates presented to him years and years ago.

There isn't an alumnus dating back five to ten years who doesn't recall Frederick Starr crossing the campus, his nose buried in a book. In fact, the story is, he had distances so well figured he knew how many steps it was to every curbstone. On the map Dr. Starr is sketched in his familiar pose.

James R. Angell and George Vincent are pictured heading "eastward," one for Yale, the other for the Rockefeller Foundation in New York. It was Dr. Vincent who, in the early days of the university, used dryly the remark "only at the University of Chicago do quadrangles have only one side." Frederick Woodward, familiarly called "Fritz the Beloved," is waving an "Eastward Ho" banner, significant of the educational study he is now making in the orient for the Rockefeller Foundation.

Dr. Breasted Included.

And other experiences the map portrays—Dr. James H. Breasted's recovery of the Assyrian bull for the Oriental institute [it was loaded on a Ford truck that traveled one mile a day]; the alumnae umbrella under which no graduate has ever sat, the pageant held in dedication of Ida Noyes hall, and the transformation of the building to the rear of the president's home from a stable to a garage to a studio. Now it houses the noted sculptoring of Mrs. Robert Maynard Hutchins.

Miss Betty Fisher, a member of the class of 1922, was chosen to draw the map as the result of a competition in which a number of artists took part. Mrs. William F. Tuttle is handling the sales, and alumnæ representing the university from its beginning 40 years ago have assisted Mrs. Thompson on the "map" committee. They include Mrs. Paul Shorey, Miss Susan Peabody, Miss Helen Wells, and Miss Harriet Lemon.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

And now we'll turn to the story about Old Man Minick who came to live with his son and daughter-in-law in Chicago.

Edna Farber is responsible for the original story—"Old Man Minick," from which "The Expert" has been adapted. The author's hero, as I remember him, was a much more touching character than is the one in the picture version. An eastern critic speaks of the tale as dealing with the "pitiful tragedy of unwanted old age." Minick in the picture is old, all right, but he's very much wanted excepting at those times when he elects to make a pest of himself—and stubborn and meddlesome humans of any age are seldom at a premium. ARE they?

Anyhow, Old Man Minick, whose wife has died some two years before, comes to live with Fred and Nettie, who are anxious to welcome him. When he arrives he finds them frantic with worry, for he had not arrived on the train they had expected would carry him. No, Old Man Minick had decided to take an earlier one and attend a "wrastlin' match." But it had never occurred to him to notify the children of his change of plans.

From there on the story deals with occurrences contingent upon Old Man Minick's residence in his son's home. The maid leaves. He "fixes" a lamp. He brings his cronies from the Old Gentlemen's Home around the corner into his daughter's pretty living room that has been all spruced for a club meeting and treats them to refreshments that have been carefully prepared for the party that afternoon. After which he insists on "sitting in" at the meeting with results the picture shall show you.

But he isn't a pest all of the time, this Old Man Minick. For a good part of it he's a right sweet old fellow, and his eventful acquaintanceship with the dear little fellow next door—an orphaned waif used as tool by a pair of crooks—is full of the sort of incident that inspires quick smiles and sudden tears. What a lamb that wee Dickie Moore IS!

You'll enjoy "Chic" Sale as Old Man Minick, for this is the sort of characterization he can put across as can nobody else. Lois Wilson is adorable as the long-suffering, sweet-tempered Nettie. Other players were well cast. Direction is deft and keeps to the common touch.

If you must have sophistication and beveled edges, "The Expert" isn't for you, but if you like folksy little dramas with a thought, you'll enjoy this picture. I did.

See you tomorrow!

P. S.: This story was made into a stage production, "Minick," by George S. Kaufman, and the play used as basis for a silent movie called "Welcome Home." In the latter the Minicks were called Prouty.

Jacques Thibaud at Very Best as Soloist with Symphony

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Jacques Thibaud is a violinist of high distinction, and never higher than when he played as soloist with Mr. Stock and the Chicago Symphony orchestra at Orchestra hall last night. Once in a blue moon or so there is a soloist who conquers by other methods than the use of soloistic fireworks. Mr. Thibaud is one of them.

As a matter of fact, there was little to which fireworks could have been applied. He played twice, the Mozart Concerto in D, all Mozartean grace and lightness, and Ernest Chausson's "Poème," sincere, lovely, but slow moving and melancholy. But Mr. Thibaud was fully equal to what others might have considered a handicap. The serene poise, the unfailing beauty of everything he did won him the high place he deserves. He is an artist to whom one feels like extending congratulations.

Mr. Stock favored the audience with two novelties, of which one was received with undivided applause. The first was a symphony by Ernest Trapp of Berlin, fancifully stated to be in the key of B minor and the fourth that this composer has written. One supposes it should be called scholarly. It appears to have been written on the theory that if it is a good thing to write in one key, it is twice as good to write in two and eight times as good in three.

The effect is something of Yum-Yum's modified rapture. Not that the work's being in several simultaneous tonalities matters. What a composer chooses to do and how he chooses to do it is his own business. All that the audience has a right to demand is that he shall write some stimulating music.

This is exactly what Florian F. Mueller, composer of the second novelty, has done. Mr. Mueller is the first oboist of the orchestra, and quite evidently a composer with ideas. He writes his dissonances as freehandedly as the best, but the "Two Symphonic Sketches" played last night turn out to have a lot of charm and imagination as well as deft treatment. He was warmly cheered by the audience.

Mr. Stock began the program with a repetition of Richard Strauss' "Serenade for Wind Instruments" and closed it with Ravel's "The Waltz."

The Young American artists series of concerts at Curtiss hall is entering its sixteenth season with a good deal of gusto. Beginning a week ago with a joint appearance by a contralto with an excellent voice, Jeuel Prosser, and a pianist, Alma K. Wrede, both talented and both good students, it continued last night with another joint appearance of Margaret B. Borchers, pianist, and Clarence Gilliland, baritone. Miss Borchers, having discovered a piece not often played, Chevillard's Theme and Variations, performed it not only correctly, but with manner and brilliance. Mr. Gilliland would seem to be in the formative stage of his career, well on the way if not quite arrived. His voice is pleasant though not quite ripened; he pronounces English almost too painstakingly, and he sings with sympathetic understanding.

The Woman Hater

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Mrs. Chapelle is the owner of Flaxen's Casino, near the water front of Port Bai, which was established by her first husband of dubious color, who had fathered her daughter Aya, and was the refuge of her second husband of dubious morale though unimpeachable antecedents, who had brought his little daughter Faire to the island and remained there until his death.

Malise Bookes, aid-de-camp of Sir Philip Persian, governor and commander in chief of the Tama islands, Bai and St. Rosario, obtained an invitation for Mrs. Chapelle and her daughters to attend the government house ball. Faire's pride makes her reject the belated honor because the Chapelles had until now been left out of the ball list. Mrs. Chapelle and Aya believe it is because she doesn't want to go in their company. Faire admits to herself with misgivings the truth of their accusations. She prefers to remain in the casino, where she and Aya had been trained to work by their mother. She strolls over later to watch the gayety of the ball from a sheltered grotto in the governor's garden. She sees Mira Worcester, a faded beauty, and young Robert Grand, the governor's secretary and ward, steal away to a secret rendezvous. The governor follows them out and finds Faire. He requests her promise of secrecy regarding the incident. Faire is stung by his formal treatment of her. She overhears him tell Bookes that he is leaving at dawn for St. Rosario, where trouble is brewing. From a high knoll over the deep water Faire waves the governor a mocking farewell, but as she does she slips and falls down the cliff and is rescued from the water by Sir Philip. The governor is anxious to save his young ward from a scandal. Worcester has become suspicious and has threatened Mira. Bookes promises to save the boy by proving it was another girl and not Mira he'd been meeting. Bookes calls on the Chapelles. He threatens to close Flaxen's and have them deported unless Faire consents to clear Mira. Realizing all she stands to lose, Faire accompanies Booke to keep a rendezvous with Robert Grand. Worcester comes upon them and departs with apologies to Grand when he finds it is Faire with him and not Mira.

INSTALMENT XI.

THE OBJECTS OF SCANDAL.

Persian asked: "Let me be clear. The fair girl—Faire Chapelle—she went to the bungalow. You bargained with her?"

"And with her mother, sir."

"That I would let them alone if——"

"I hope this is as you wish, sir. You left me to make the best arrangements I could in a hurry."

"You drove this girl into it?"

"I don't understand you, sir. She is Mira's height, build, color. We agreed I must find a girl."

"A girl who couldn't be hurt by it. Some——"

"The Chapelle girls are reputed to be no better than they need be, sir."

Bookes stepped back quickly from the stare of the light gray eyes.

"But, sir!" he protested.

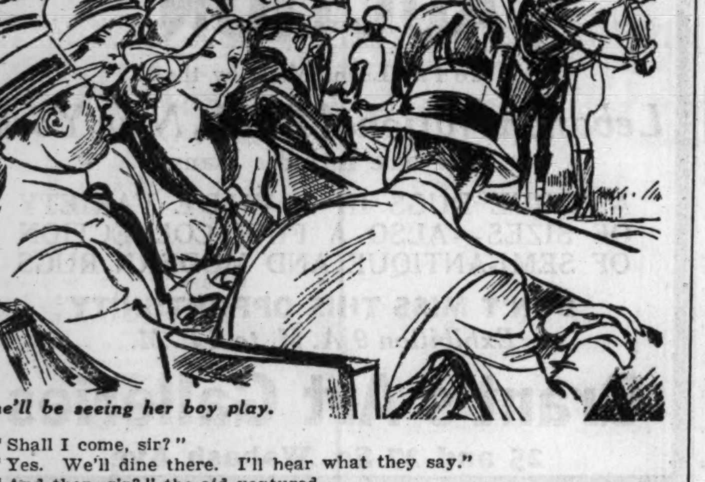
"That girl," said the governor in a peculiarly smooth voice that the aid heard seldom, "that girl is a pure girl."

Bookes shrugged his shoulders, and the next moment knew that so careless a gesture was a crass mistake. But the governor did not hit. He moved forward, the impulse leaping in him, and stopped. For a brief moment they stared at each other.

"One should always be explicit with fools," said Persian at last. "My fault."

Bookes murmured gracefully, disconsolately, "I'm sorry, sir."

"I'm going down to the club."



She'll be seeing her boy play.

"Shall I come, sir?"

"Yes. We'll dine there. I'll hear what they say."

"And then, sir?" the aid ventured.

"I don't know," said Persian still in a voice peculiarly smooth. "Order the car, Bookes."

The governor was seldom in the club. He was its president and went there on occasions of distinction, but tonight it was an amazement to men and women to see him walk in with his aid. He spoke to very few people. He was judged to be in his worst humor.

But unexpectedly the governor became sociable. He became charming. On his way out he paused by table after table, flattering the women, listening to all the laughter and the gossip. He heard everything that the Port Bai club had to say about the Worcester sensation.

. . . .

The Chapelle mother and daughter left Faire alone a good deal the next day. They propitiated her with smiles and coaxing now and again, Mrs. Chapelle prompting Aya, who continued to grumble, "Wish I'd had her chance—," but knew she was dangerous. A word from her—and the future of Flaxen's wavered.

"Be nice to your sister now she's been so clever getting mamma out of a little fix," was how Mrs. Chapelle now put their equivocal position.

Mrs. Chapelle, moreover, with a stubborn cunning, having been told no details of Malise Bookes' ultimatum to Faire, set herself to foster the tale that amused or shocked Port Bai. She would not allow Aya so much as to mention Lady Mira Worcester in relation to it. "Lady Mira? What about her? Your sister Faire has got herself into this romantic entanglement with young Mr. Grand, an aristocrat like her poor father. And very nice, too. I'm not interested in these Worcesters you keep dragging up." Bookes' visit, his bargain—these were as if they had never been. An attractive girl had been discovered keeping guilty rendezvous with a lover.

"What of it?" said Mrs. Chapelle. "Her mamma's tolerant."

So for the first day they let Faire alone.

But on the second day there was the polo match—Government House team against the Island—the sort of occasion when Mrs. Chapelle and Aya would come out, full feather.

They beat at Faire's refusals to accompany them with a storm of words. So at last she surrendered, and went.

The polo ground represented the height of island summer fashion. Women had got their new clothes out. They were all numerously escorted. Even the Chapelles were squired by four dark-faced cotton growers in immaculate white drill, with their eyes on Faire rather than her stepsister. The cotton growers, all members of the club, had failed to get seats for the Chapelles in the club stand, but they had the best seats in the general stand, nicknamed the grand. To those front seats, then, they escorted their ladies, bright in muslins and big hats, powder and paint—except Faire. She was pale, quiet, hard. . . . "Facing it out like a queen, my dear. That's right. Don't you care," a male voice was mumbling at her ear. She wore, in spite of Mrs. Chapelle's cries of anger, a trim but much-washed suit of faded tussore. She had not reddened her lips nor scented the lobes of her ears, like Aya. In a word, she "was not trying." Mrs. Chapelle had accused her all the way to the ground: "You're just not trying."

"You're not taking all this little tra-la-la to heart, are you, Faire?" murmured the watchful male beside her.

Mrs. Chapelle, on his other side, leaned near:

"She's just mad, poor girlie, and don't you boys tease her now."

"All right, ma."

"Her mamma understands."

"I'll bet she does," said the man carelessly with a laugh.

Faire sat quiet, her lips curled a little as in a smile. She felt hemmed in by these dark-skinned men with their trespassing eyes, their acquisitive hands; these men who were pleased to have got Faire Chapelle in their party, even though it meant including ma and Aya.

"There's Lady Mira," said Mrs. Chapelle, staring through opera glasses at the Government House stand opposite.

"She must be wild with you," the man chuckled in Faire's ear.

Many heads in the grandstand turned toward Faire Chapelle as Lady Mira's arrival was noted. Gossip had been . . . but gossip was wrong. The café girl had filched the handsome boy from the lady weeks ago. The lady had not really had a look-in. Therefore many eyes stared first at Faire, then at Mira, who was seen to be in pale pink with her long string of pearls and a hat that haloed her. How vivacious she was! How gay! Escorted by a very hangdog husband for once quite sober, who waited upon her lightest word while she bestowed that word upon the governor's aid-de-camp. When more distinguished people came into the Government House stand she was the center of them.

Faire looked across silently at the figure of Mira Worcester, diminished by distance so that she looked like a smiling, painted, pretty doll.

"I should like tea in the marquee, boys," Mrs. Chapelle was saying.

"O, well," one of the men answered her, "we can get you in, ma."

"I should think so, indeed! After we've been to the governor's ball!"

"We'd forgotten what swells you are!"

"I'll trouble you to remember it. Yes, tea in the marquee."

"I want to show off my girlies."

"We'll help you all you want."

"Aya, ain't they sweet boys? Faire, wake yourself up! She got a nasty bump on her head two days back and it gave her a shock. Still, Faire, wake yourself up. Four of the nicest boys on the island taking us out and everything!"

"Ah, we know who she thinks is the nicest boy on the island!"

Aya giggled, rather shrill.

"The teams are coming in," said Faire.

"She'll be seeing her boy play. Don't expect a lotta talk from her," said Mrs. Chapelle. "He'll come over and speak to her, first chukka. Faire, Bobby Grand'll come along, first chukka."

"There's the governor!"

She did not know which of the men spoke, her heart hurt so. Her heart sickened her with its leap and its crazy racing. Under her hat the scar on her head throbbed.

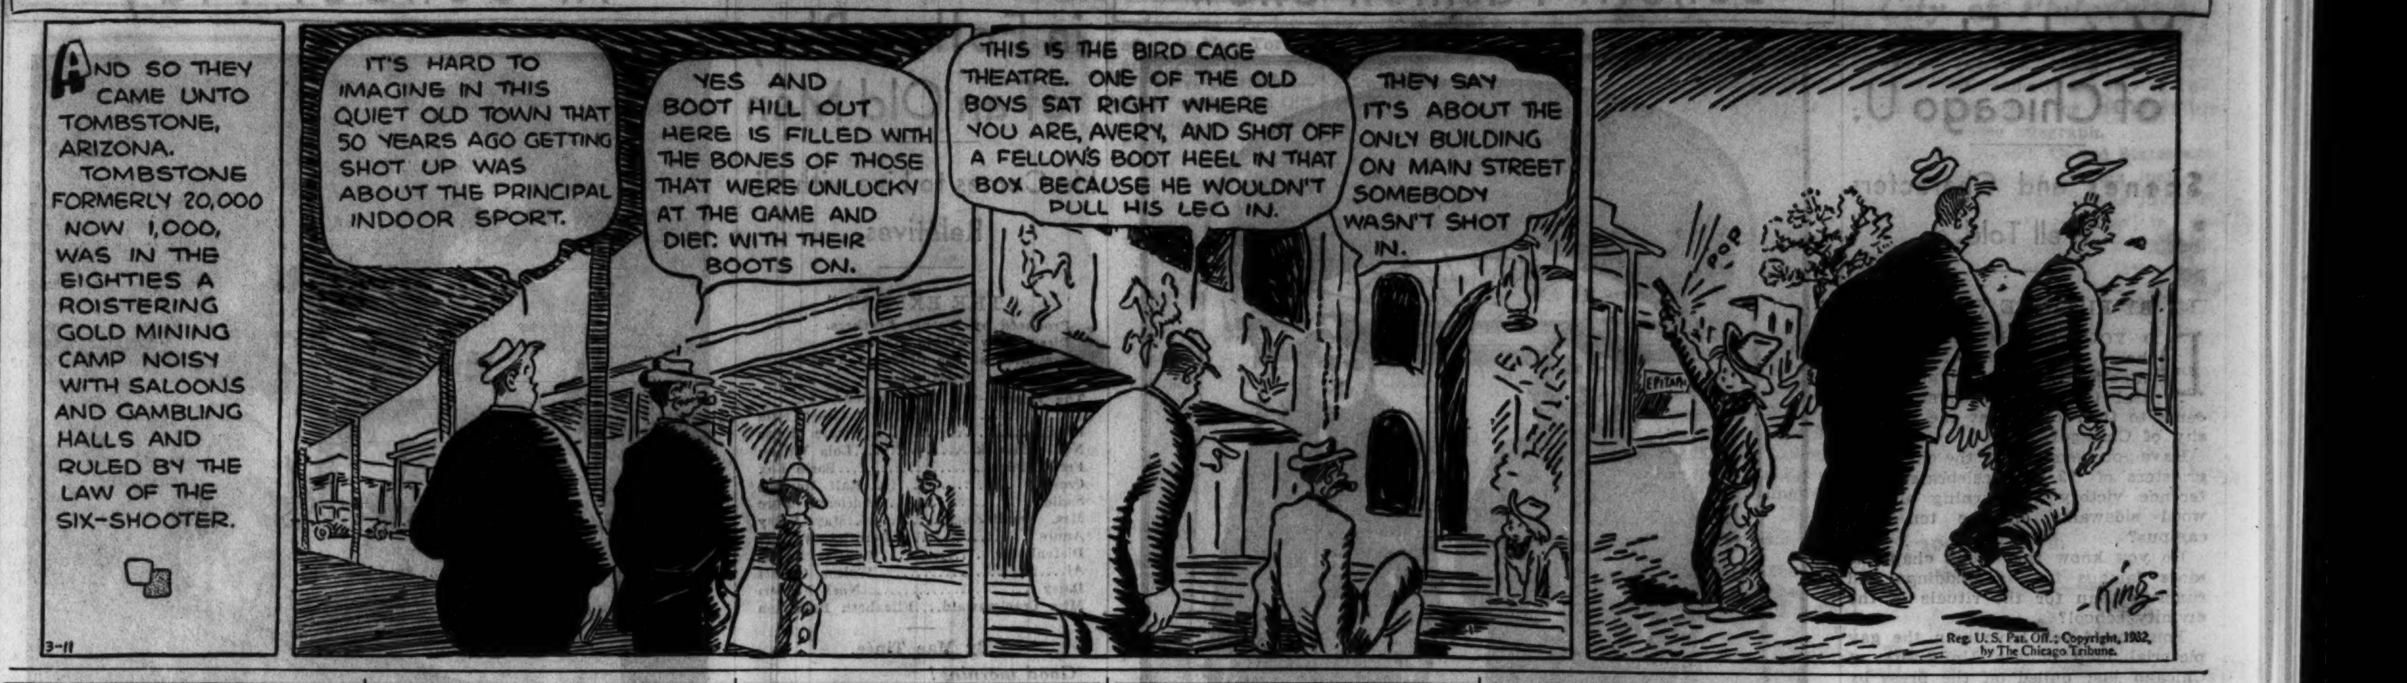
GASOLINE ALLEY—POP GOES THE WEASEL



AND SO THEY CAME UNTO TOMBSTONE, ARIZONA. TOMBSTONE FORMERLY 20,000 NOW 1,000, WAS IN THE EIGHTIES A ROISTERING GOLD MINING CAMP NOISY WITH SALOONS AND GAMBLING HALLS AND RULED BY THE LAW OF THE SIX-SHOOTER.
IT'S HARD TO IMAGINE IN THIS QUIET OLD TOWN THAT 50 YEARS AGO GETTING SHOT UP WAS ABOUT THE PRINCIPAL INDOOR SPORT.
YES AND BOOT HILL OUT HERE IS FILLED WITH THE BONES OF THOSE THAT WERE UNLUCKY AT THE GAME AND DIED WITH THEIR BOOTS ON.
THIS IS THE BIRD CAGE THEATRE. ONE OF THE OLD BOYS SAT RIGHT WHERE YOU ARE, AVERY, AND SHOT OFF A FELLOW'S BOOT HEEL IN THAT BOX BECAUSE HE WOULDN'T PULL HIS LEG IN.

Pupils Stump Eddie Cantor with Questions

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 10.—The most fun and the most work that Eddie Cantor ever crammed into one afternoon was his experience as guest speaker yesterday before an audience of hundreds of kids, 7 to 13 years old, at Hawthorne school in Beverly Hills.

Prepared in advance with a list of formal questions the youngsters wanted answered about the movies, Eddie was as unprepared as a rhinoceros to eat oatmeal for salvos of additional questions which the youngsters fired.

Eddie had spent an entire hour explaining such intricacies as how they make animated cartoons, how they film trick shots, and how they make diplodoci and other prehistoric animals live again for film purposes. Then he volunteered to answer questions.

"Are you as funny at home as you are in pictures?" the first asked. This one had Cantor reeling and he never got the upper hand. Explaining that he didn't know because no one paid any attention to him in the Cantor home, Eddie went on with foreboding.

A couple of questions were easy, for instance the next one about what constituted the most essential trait for success as an actor, which Eddie parried by saying that the thing most needed was love for what one was doing. But after that they came like this:

"Whose your favorite leading lady?" Seeing his daughter Edna leaning forward in the audience Eddie answered: "Mrs. Cantor."

Next: "Who writes your jokes?" Eddie gulped. "Some people think it was Noah, but I write most of my own."

"Can you sing a song?" This one had him winging. "Yes, I can, but I won't right here."

"Is it necessary to be funny to be a comedian?" After pondering the answer was: "It's not necessary, but it helps."

Other questions were: "How can people run through walls and fences without being hurt? What do they use for snow? For rain? What is a cure for stage fright? How are under sea pictures made?"

Eddie struggled through these but when it came to "how do they photograph a sound?" he signaled to the principal to dismiss school.

When her studio set out to make Greta Garbo a platinum blond in her latest picture, the Swedish charmer declined to dye her hair and she will wear a silver wig. Her rôle is a Budapest café girl. Eric von Stroheim has one of the rôles he cherishes, playing an erotic novelist. Melvyn Douglas is the army officer brooding over his ex-wife who receives the full force of the Swedish star's allure. Owen Moore, Albert Conti, William Ricciardi, and Anita Louise are among the supporting cast which George Fitzmaurice is to direct.

Incidentally Fitzmaurice is much sought by the ladies who get what they want. Garbo okays him for this picture and Constance Bennett just simply wouldn't accept any substitute for the Irish-Frenchman for her next director either.

Portrait of Dr. Harper to Be Dedicated Today

President Robert M. Hutchins of Chicago will preside this afternoon at a ceremony in which a bronze bas-relief portrait of Dr. William Rainey Harper, first president of the university, will be dedicated in Bond chapel. The principal address will be delivered by Prof. J. M. P. Smith. The portrait is the work of Leonard Crunelle.

Beauty of Hair Starts with the Healthy Scalp

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Do you ever stop to think of how occasions change a woman's appearance? Of how a woman will look perfectly wonderful at an afternoon affair and in formal evening things be a perfect washout? Or, how in formal, evening things she may be a perfect knockout, yet be a woman of practically no pictorial importance in her day things?

I recall a fiction story built on the idea of a man looking for a girl who could look beautiful the clock around From her first early morning appearance, in her morning sport or street clothes, her luncheon dress, her afternoon things and her evening, she must be a paragon of loveliness. The hero was left struggling between a day-girl beauty and an evening orchid, and polygamy as the solution Just a silly story, with no particular point except to prove that not all women are equal to all occasions.

An evening affair brings this home most forcibly. There is so often a hard, metallic finish of recently waved hair, recently and glitteringly made up eyes, perhaps, and "manner" put on for the occasion that somehow engulfs the easier daytime charm. On the other hand, some women bloom under the night lights. Their silhouettes, the dress color chosen, the feminine accessories such as jewelry and shoes, the sophisticated or simple coiff, natural grace of movement show to rare advantage in just this setting

There's no particular moral in introducing the above. It's questionable whether you can regulate the night to preserve the daytime charm, or vice versa.

If you can draw any conclusion at all, it is that women of neat silhouette mold, nicely rounded arms and shoulders and [this season, anyway] good backs are the evening favorites, pictorially speaking. If they are not tall, the long skirts supply them all the height they need.

Girl Says Long Engagement Is Worthwhile Test

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Does anybody know a good remedy for a sulky baby, aged 37, sex masculine?

Does anybody know one for a boy friend in his early twenties, who gets mad, sulks and walks out?

You'd help a couple of harried women if you'd pass on a remedy. Maybe more than the couple that happened to write! It's a common way of registering disapproval and no more a male habit than a female one.

What do you suggest? The old and tried method of leaving them alone with their sulks until they can't stand sulks company any longer? Or, giving them Merry-Ned with the usual lashing weapon? Or, giving them the merry ha-ha? Laughing them out of it. Cheering them out it, or forcing them out of it?

I'm for leaving them alone with the miseries they try to foist on others. They don't deserve the pampering and the cheer making they too often get. It's exactly what they want and therefore should not get for the good of their own souls.

Better a man around the house who'd take it out in a smashing orgy with the Ming vase or the best dinner plates than one of those sulky ones. We know of a man who goes on sulk sprees that last days at a time. Not a word out of him. But do you think he hies himself off upstairs to his room? No, he has to sit around downstairs where his misery can be seen—and felt.

The last mad was over the Salvation Army getting an old pair of shoes and suit he hadn't worn in years. He wasn't asked about giving them away, but admitted he had no use for them and probably never would wear them. Yet his wife should have asked him. Any petty alibi will do for the natural born sulker. I don't know what you can do with a 37 year old victim But you can certainly catch the boy friend young and give him to understand that one thing you'll never tie to for life is a sulky baby. Marriage has trials enough without taking that one on with eyes wide open.

Art League Meeting.

The Municipal Art league will hold a monthly meeting at 10 o'clock this morning in the clubroom of the Art institute. Mrs. Walter W. Seymour will preside.

College Club Dinner.

The Chicago College club will hold a dinner meeting this evening at which Monroe A. Munson will give an illustrated lecture entitled "Romance of Oriental Rugs." Stereoptican slides of the Persian rug owned by Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick will be shown.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight")

'Tis better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all. Well, perhaps. But an Australian bushman never made himself unhappy wishing for a fancy car he couldn't afford nor did Mrs. Bushman ever pine her heart away for a mink coat that she knew nothing about. I feel quite sure that in yesterday's play-a-problem, East would have been far happier letting North and South take the game if he had not been started off with such high hope. This was the hand:

NORTH.
♠—K,5
♥—K,J,9,8,3
♦—9
♣—K,10,8,7,3

WEST.
♠—7,4,2
♥—Q,10,5,2
♦—10,3
♣—J,9,6,5

EAST [dealer].
♠—Q,J,10,9,8,6,3
♥—7
♣—A,Q,2

SOUTH.
♠—A
♥—A,6,4
♦—Q,J,8,7,6,5,4,2
♣—4

East dealt and his hand looked pretty good to him. True he lacked the top spades but he only had a singleton heart, his spades were long enough not to mind trumping hearts. He had no losing diamonds and hoped for only one losing club. In other words, he could make three odd in his own hand and if his partner had a little something it looked like a sure game. Full of hope, then, East opened the bidding with an invitational bid of two spades. South overcalled with three diamonds and West [to East's great disgust] passed. North took out with three hearts and East overcalled with three spades. South promptly went four hearts and all passed.

East opened the ♠ Q which South took with the A. Dummy then returned the ♦ Q, West played the 3, North the 9 and East took with the K. To the third trick East led the ♣ A. He followed by leading the ♠ J which North took with the ♠ K. North then took the ♣ K and to the next trick led the ♣ 7 which dummy trumped with the ♥ 4. Dummy now led the ♦ J which declarer trumped with the ♥ 3. On this trick, East's ♦ A fell. Declarer then led his ♥ 8 to dummy's A and led back dummy's ♦ 8 which he trumped in his own hand with the ♥ 9, since, on this play, West had blocked the diamond trick by sticking in his ♥ 5. To the tenth trick declarer led the ♣ 8 and dummy trumped with the ♥ 6, leading back the ♦ 7 which declarer trumped with the ♥ J. Declarer then proceeded to take the twelfth and thirteenth tricks with the ♥ K and the ♣ 10, making the game and an extra trick—five odd in all.

Obviously this is a peculiar type of hand and there are many variations of both the offensive and defensive play. Regardless, however, of the opening lead and of any reasonable play by East and West against a good North and South, four odd can always be made. Here is tomorrow's play-a-problem:

NORTH.
♠—J,2
♥—K,Q,8
♦—K,Q,8,3
♣—K,Q,9,2

WEST [dealer]
♠—A,7,6,5
♥—A,9,2
♦—A,10,9

EAST.
♠—K,10,9,8,4,3
♥—6
♦—7,6,5
♣—A,6,3

SOUTH.
♠—Q
♥—J,10,7,5,4,3
♦—J,4,2
♣—10,7,5

Bid and play this hand and then compare the result with that printed tomorrow.

Oak Park Charity Ball

Mrs. Ashley Smith, Mrs. N. Leslie Towle, Mrs. Philip E. O'Neil, and Mrs. Edwin J. McInerny are among the young Oak Park women who are working to make a success of the charity ball to be given by the two junior groups of Oak Park's Infant Welfare organization on April 29 at the Drake. Mrs. McInerny, who is co-chairman with Mrs. Stanford Percy, had a meeting of all the committee heads the other day at her residence, 1008 Columbian avenue. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Events on the Stage

Laurette Taylor returned to the stage in New York last Monday night, after four years of retirement, in two old plays by Barrie—"Alice Sit-by-the-Fire" and "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals." The Broadway critics are singing her praises with genuine ecstasy.

Mr. Atkinson of the Times says of her acting in the former piece: "She appears to be creating something fine and rapturous that has never been on the stage before. To have Miss Taylor back is a wondrous thing, for she is an actress by inspiration."

Mr. Brown of the Post starts in by using the favorite critical adjective of the year—"magical"—and then proceeds:

"There is true necromancy in her playing of this Barrie mother. It is an enchantment born of one of the most haunting voices in our theater; of an ever-expressive face that is truly an actor's mask; of gestures that are beautifully graceful even when they are left as unfinished as Pauline Lord's; and of a mind that illumines each and every line that passes through it."

According to the present entries on the stage calendar the only new shows in Chicago between now and Easter Sunday will be "Zombie," which comes to the Adelphi theater next Sunday night, and "Everybody's Welcome," which will have a première at the Apollo theater Saturday night, March 26. However, efforts are being made to find bookings, and the theater managers are saying hopefully, "We'll have something to announce in a day or two—maybe."

"The Devil Passes," a comedy by Benn W. Levy which was applauded in New York, is due here within the next month. It will leave Broadway a week hence on what is called, in theater idiom, "a whirlwind tour," and will devote only one week to Chicago. It deals with a week-end party in which the devil appears, disguised as a clergyman. Its author has a taste for the fantastic and the supernatural—witness his "Mrs. Moonlight."

A new play by Maxwell Anderson, author of "Elizabeth the Queen," was staged in New York night before last by that offshot of the Theater Guild which calls itself the Group Theater. It bears the title of "Night Over Taos," and deals with a conflict between American and Spanish interests in New Mexico, almost a hundred years ago. In the cast are Franchot Tone, who was the leading cowboy in "Green Grow the Lilacs"; Morris Carnovsky, who has been prominent in many Theater Guild productions; J. Edward Bromberg, Ruth Nelson, Walter Coy, and Stella Adler.

April 4 has been fixed as the date of the New York première of the Theater Guild's staging of Shaw's "Too Good to Be True." The play is now in performance in Boston, with Beatrice Lillie as a member of its cast.

Marconi Receives Medal Awarded by City of Philadelphia

ROME, March 10.—(AP)—Guglielmo Marconi received today the John Scott award, made by the city of Philadelphia last year, for his invention of the wireless telegraph.

John W. Garrett, United States ambassador, presented the six inch engraved bronze medal to the inventor at the American embassy in the presence of a large group of notables, including members of the Royal academy, of which Senator Marconi is president. A check for $1,000 which accompanied the award was given earlier.

"Americans ever have been generously appreciative of my work and my efforts," Senator Marconi said in his speech of acceptance.

"I shall always treasure the recollection of the warm hearted encouragement and valid support constantly extended to me in the United States by the principal scientific and technical societies, as well as by all classes of people."

TWO OF DU PONTS MISSING AT SEA AS STORM RAGES

Youths and Three Friends Aboard Tiny Yawl.

Norfolk, Va., March 10.—[Special.]—Headquarters of the Norfolk coast guard division was today advised that the auxiliary yawl Nahma, owned by A. Felix du Pont, vice president of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours company of Wilmington, Del., had not been reported since last Friday, when she was sighted two miles off Charleston. On board the Nahma are five youths, friends of Mr. du Pont's son, Richard, who is skipper. They left Wilmington for a cruise to the West Indies.

Search by airplane, in which the pilot flew 65 miles over the sea, following the route the Nahma was expected to take, failed to locate the craft.

In addition to Richard du Pont, Victor du Pont Jr., Herman Laffey, and Scott Townsend of Wilmington and Lloyd Coates and Benjamin McFarlane of Philadelphia were said to be aboard the Nahma.

Missing Craft Is Small.

The Nahma is only a small craft, propelled principally by sails, though it has a small auxiliary engine. She is described as a boat of ordinary sea ability.

She was built at a cost of $8,000, and is said to be one of the finest equipped vessels of her type in existence. The coast guard had dispatched the cutters Mendota and Ponchartrain to search for the Nahma, but because of the plight of the CG-218, a coast guard patrol boat which has been missing since Tuesday, they were diverted and ordered to search for the government craft.

The CG-218 has 12 persons on board and the efforts of the coast guard at Norfolk and at Cape May, N. J., from which port the latter craft sailed, was concerted on the search for the government craft. Coast guard stations all along the Virginia, North and South Carolina coasts were advised to search for the Du Pont boat.

Du Pont Family Makes Appeal.

The cutter Modoc, which towed the disabled schooner Nomis into Southport, N. C., today, and the cutter Yamacraw, basing at Savannah, were ordered to sea to search for the Nahma.

The du Pont family spent a special appeal to coast guard headquarters to spare no expense in making a thorough search of the coast for the vessel.

Richard du Pont, who has a master's license, is said to be a skillful navigator, but the fact that the Nahma might have encountered the severe gale which swept the coast Saturday and Sunday caused much anxiety among his relatives in the Delaware city.

CREW SAVED; COLLIER SINKS

New York, March 10.—(AP)—Winter's icy winds loosed a fresh assault yesterday and sent to the bottom of the Atlantic the collier H. F. De Bardeleben, which for three days had resisted incessant buffeting. The disabled vessel sank some 600 miles off New York a few hours after its crew of thirty-four took to lifeboats in a lull in the storm and were taken aboard the British freighter Laganbank.

The Hamburg American freighter Harburg meanwhile helplessly awaited the arrival of the salvage tug Foundation Franklin, having declined a tow from the freighter Vincent. It was in no danger although its rudder was broken.

Lake Ships in Distress.

Meanwhile, on land the frigid winds, which ranged from a few degrees below freezing to around zero, nipped the life from plants that had been sprouted by the warm breezes of the ordinarily cold months. In New York City, temperature of 13 degrees was the lowest of the year.

Inland Lake Erie was too dangerous for fishermen to visit the nets they believed destroyed. Three ships were reported fast in the ice. floes.

Streets, highways and countryside in central New York, freed a day or two ago from the icy grip of a terrific blizzard, were clutched by another. Some drifts were 10 feet high, hundreds of automobiles were abandoned and even snow plows were stuck.

Southern Crops Damaged.

Texas orchards and farm crops were damaged to the extent of hundreds of thousands of dollars by freezing temperatures. The norther whipped into Mexico, endangering shipping off its coast.

Ordinarily warm Dixie squirmed from under a blanket of snow. Fruit and vegetable crops were damaged as temperatures dropped in some places to around 10 above zero. New England shivered in similar cold, 12 degrees being recorded at New Haven, Conn.

Mr. Sirovich Finds Much to Criticize in Drama Critics

Washington, D. C., March 10.—[Special.]—Using for his theme song, "I'm Gonna Burn 'Em Up," Representative Sirovich, chairman of the house patents and copyright committee, today struck the match for the bonfire that he hopes will make it warm for a lot of dramatic critics.

It wasn't a very big conflagration, but there were a few sparks. As for instance, when Peggy Fears, a Follies girl play producer, testified that she thought some of the New York drama critics were "just perfectly horrid" in the mean things they had said about her show.

Mr. Sirovich, who writes plays himself, nodded in sympathy. Then he fondled the bright red carnation in his buttonhole as he sought for an idea. Presently he found it.

They Hire Mayor Jimmy.

"I tell you," the congressman suggested to the show girl, "let's have Mayor Walker review some of the plays. He knows what's human interest."

Peggy Fears brightened. "That would be just splendid," she concurred. "Really, he's the most human man in New York."

Representative Sirovich, who is a doctor as well as a playwright and a congressman, told the witnesses at the hearing that he had brought his medical skill to the question of patents and copyrights, had mastered the technic of the committee, even as he had mastered bones and muscles in medical school. And then to be ridiculed by the critics was bitter and an unfair treatment, he argued.

"I ask you," he asked Harry Hershfield, a cartoonist, "do you think it's fair for them to treat me that way?"

"Absolutely not," the cartoonist replied.

"Now, the prize fighter is on the level," reflected Dr. Sirovich. "He always punches above the belt; below is a foul. But these critics aim below the belt when they make a pass at me."

It all started because Representative Sirovich, in the course of a previous committee hearing, intimated that dramatic critics, by dipping their pens in acid instead of sugar, were responsible for many bankrupt play producers, many dark theaters.

Among the many criticisms he hurled at the critics was that they left the theater early to make a deadline and could not tell what happened at the end of the play which they were reviewing.

Might Chain Reviewers.

Prof. Hatcher Hughes, Columbia university professor, agreed that this was bad, and advocated that critics stay in their seats until the final curtain fell. Let their critiques be written later in the week, he urged.

He said he spoke from experience, for his own play, "Hell Bent for Heaven," which later received the Pulitzer prize, was described by the critics as one of the most hopeless, terrible and absurd they had ever seen.

"These hearings aren't over yet. Wait," promised Doctor-Representative-Playwright Sirovich, "I'm gonna burn 'em up."

SOCIETY WOMAN WHO SLEW MATE TELLS OF KILLING

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 10.—[Special.]—After Mrs. Laverna M. Culbertson, 35, society sportswoman, and her son, Albert L. Culbertson Jr., 11, on the witness stand today, told how the husband and father, Albert L. Culbertson, engineer-inventor and world war aviator, was accidentally killed by a bullet fired from a gun in the hands of Mrs. Culbertson, the defense rested its case in the trial of the latter.

Mrs. Culbertson's case will be placed in the hands of the jury tomorrow following the charge of Judge Gardner. In her testimony Mrs. Culbertson told how her husband had been drinking so heavily the morning of the shooting that she did not think it wise for him to carry out a projected hunting trip into Ohio.

She told how she took his gun and walked upstairs to talk to Culbertson. She said Culbertson reached for the gun and in the scuffle for possession of the firearm it was discharged, the charge entering Culbertson's body, killing him.

HAWKS BEAT BOSTON, 3-2, ON ABEL'S GOAL

HELP! POLICE! BOLD BURGLAR IN CUBS' CAMP

Hornsby, Richbourg Lose Shoes, Glove.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 10.—The Cubs said good-by today to the drudgery of spring training. Henceforth it will be a matter of exhibition games almost daily. In the final drill on their billiard table top pasture here the infielders practiced the art of stopping runners at the plate and everybody took a hand at hitting. Appreciating that the worst part was over, the boys went at their drill with more than the usual amount of zest.

The getaway until another year rolls around was just like the ten previous ones, all of which Gabby Hartnett has participated in. The natives came down out of their mountain dugouts and swarmed around the wharf for a few last words. The band played "Aloha Ohe," the Hawaiian farewell tune, the steamer backed out into the bay, and that was all. Every member of the Cubs' squad was aboard ship, President William Veeck having decided at the last minute that good ball players are too scarce a commodity to transport on the planes which fly to the mainland.

Stop Thief! Stop Thief!

The last day in camp was marked by a heinous crime in which the Cubs were involved as victims. At the training field is a small house in which all the tools of the trade are hung up over night. Each man has a numbered hook where he parks his shoes, glove, and whatever else he may happen to use, such as rubber shirts, sweatshirts and leather jackets.

This morning the ground attendant discovered burglary had been committed during the night. The guilty one apparently was a crook too skilled to be wasting his talents hereabouts. Instead of breaking a window, he chiseled out the putty, removed a pane of glass and then replaced it after taking what he wanted. A checkup revealed that Manager Hornsby had been relieved of his baseball shoes and Outfielder Lance Richbourg of a new glove. Their hooks were close to the window.

The police department, after being notified of the theft, polished up his badge, oiled up the siren in his one man squad car and went to work. He gets only about one job in six months, so welcomed the happening. A small boy is suspected. If apprehended the police will have another problem. The town bastille has been in disuse for so long that the key has been misplaced. Hornsby will get a new pair of shoes tomorrow from Trainer Lotshaw, who sells such things. However, Lotshaw is not suspected of having resorted to trickery to promote business.

Open Play with Giants Today.

What happened while the Cubs were on the island premises was just another indication of their possession of the best training lot in the country. The advance squad completed a three weeks program on the Wrigley estate and the veterans went through ten days of similar work. Except for the first couple of days, when rainfall made the field heavy, there hasn't been a moment lost.

Tomorrow, when the exhibition series with the Giants opens at Wrigley field, Warneke and Tinning probably will be called on for five and four innings apiece. Tinning has a chance to stay in the big show in his first attempt, so you can appreciate that he will try to make the best of it. After tomorrow there will be five more engagements with the New Yorkers and the veterans, all of whom are about primed, will have to do most of the pitching.

MAROONS SCORE GOAL A PERIOD; BEAT LEAFS, 3-1

MONTREAL, March 10.—(AP)—The Montreal Maroons advanced a step nearer to clinching a playoff berth in the Canadian division of the National Hockey league tonight when they defeated the Toronto Maple Leafs, 3 to 1. The Maroons scored their first goal a little more than a minute after the opening whistle. They tallied once in each period. Harvey Jackson made the only Toronto goal on an unassisted play late in the second period.

AMERICANS WIN, 5-1.

New York, March 10.—(AP)—The New York Americans defeated their local rivals, the Rangers, 5 to 1, tonight and retained their mathematical chance of getting into the National Hockey league playoffs. The Rangers lead, 3 to 2, in the city championship series. The game was a rough affair, which wound up with a third period fist fight which brought major penalties to Red Dutton and Allan Shields of the Americans and Earl Seibert and Murray Murdoch of the Rangers.

Ran Tops Battalino by 8 Pounds for Bout Tonight

New York, March 10.—[Special.]—Eddie Ran and Bat Battalino will meet in a ten round bout at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. Ran, whose family name is Fiszmajster, will have a weight advantage of about 8 pounds, being expected to enter the ring at 145, and Battalino at 137.

Tennis Shorts! Why, Ladies, What Will the Queen Say?

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELEN WILLS MOODY.

New York, March 10.—An English girl has made a promise, or threat, as the case may be, to wear short pants called shorts for short, in the Wimbledon tennis tournament next summer and, as she wants to, she will have to be permitted to because there is no moral or legal point involved but merely a matter of custom.

Still, I wonder if the Wimbledon people couldn't rush through some rule whereby this problem could be referred to some committee of Ziegfelds and Carrolls, with the right to issue or deny permits for the wearing of shorts in public, because it does seem that the ladies who are most insistent on wearing them are big, meaty female first basemen and wrestlers with pool table legs and cocoanut knees, who ought to use mustache cups at tea.

From the esthetic point of view shorts would be all right if the right girls could be relied on to wear them and the wrong girls not to, but the right ones stubbornly won't and the wrong ones will, so an innovation which might do some good at the box office is likely to frighten the customers clear out of town if not out of England for the duration of the tournament.

It's All Terribly Mixed Up.

Traditionally, the feminine leg is supposed to be a pretty good show, but that is merely another of those careless generalities. All Englishmen are devoid of humor. All Frenchmen are excessively polite. Girls' legs are invariably pleasant to gaze at. But, some Englishmen are very humorous, some Frenchmen will not hold open doors for ladies and some of the ladies' legs, in shorts, which are to be seen along the highways and on the camping grounds in summer and in the photographs of the European ladies' soccer matches, were designed solely for heavy duty hauling and not for show.

The tennis girls have simpered and drooped their heads over little problems of modesty and propriety before this, while other girls, and possibly the same girls, on the bathing beaches have consulted nothing but the law in deciding how little to wear. A few years ago at the same Wimbledon there was a great bother about the question of whether it would be modest, or even moral, of the young ladies to appear before Queen Mary without stockings, the final decision being that it would be better not to take a chance. So they wore them, but that same year, or anyway the next year, some of the same girls appeared at Forest Hills wearing their legs raw, and so commonplace were nude shanks in this country by that time that the ambulances stationed outside to drag off swooning Victorians overcome by the shame of it all didn't get a haul all week.

Now, Helen Ought to Know.

Some of the ladies claim the shorts permit them more freedom in their girlish leaping and bounding, but there is a not half terrible sort of tennis player named Mrs. Helen Wills Moody who wears the short skirt in her tournaments and claims it gives freedom enough.

The tennis girls, being respectable girls, probably have some dislike for participating in a kind of burlesque show before paying customers, who may have only a nominal interest in the game. But the swimming girls are quite respectable, too, and inasmuch as they swim in negligible costumes perhaps I had better not pursue that line any further.

Mr. Jack Curley, the odd job promoter of the sport business, has been producing some tennis along with his wrestling matches and marathon dances, and possibly this matter of the shorts for lady athletes would be just the thing to lift his tennis department out of failure into success. He could recruit his ladies from among the unemployed show girls, who are said to be very numerous along Broadway, and inasmuch as he would have his choice of some of the most ornamental limbs, or gams, as I believe they are called, in all the world he would not have to worry much about the quality of the tennis.

But He'd Have to Be Careful.

The customers have been indifferent to some of the greatest tennis ever played in William T. Tilden's matches this winter, but I do not think they would hold back if Mr. Curley were to give a tennis show with an all-Broadway cast, and advertise it in lithographs showing the ladies in tournament costumes salvaged from recent musical comedies.

But Mr. Curley would have to make it strictly an invitation tournament, because otherwise he would certainly see his show ruined by some stalwart lady boilermaker with Primo Carnera's legs and a nose like a tail light, who would bust in just to be ornery—and to wear shorts.

SOX: O, MANAGER, MAY WE GO OUT TO PLAY IN SNOW?

Fonseca: All Together, Boys—Down with Texas!

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 10.—Manager Lew Fonseca was so busy keeping his boys out of the snow which fell here today that he didn't have a chance to write any mottoes. Lew was worried lest his high strung charges engage in a snowball fight, and throwing snowballs is one of the worst things a baseball player can do, on account of the weight of a snowball being different from the weight of a baseball.

So Lew locked his lads in the Y. M. C. A., where they spent the day in innocent fun, and we volunteered to do his motto writing for him and we certainly evolved a good one for him. Here it is:

"He who laughs last laughs best."

When you first read it there doesn't seem to be much to it, but when it's diagramed it keeps getting better and better.

Read On, Fans, Read On.

It seems that Manager Fonseca and his two coaches, Johnny Butler and Bill Cunningham, are rabid Californians, and during the winter took a lot of punishment because California was having severe weather while the rest of the continent was basking in unprecedented sunshine. The day it was 88 in Mineral Wells recently the weather was bad in California, and all the fellows spent the day laughing and laughing at Lew, Johnny and Bill.

That was no joke for the boss trio, for all three expect to be working for Mr. Comiskey a year from now, and, it is said, there is nothing they would like better than to take the White Sox to California next spring. Some of their influential fellow climate boosters on the coast had started things looking to next spring, but their styles were horribly cramped with Texas having record training weather and southern California having the opposite.

Invitations for 1933, reported to have been received from San Diego and San Bernardino, never got much of a tumble until five days ago, when San Antonio became the Moose Jaw of the southwest. Now the California boom is on in a big way.

San Diego Wins Support.

Those here who know their California lean toward San Diego, even though the social picture there is cluttered up with sailors. San Bernardino is the first stop as you come out of the snowdrifts of Cajon pass. If the Sox were to settle in Bernardino, it's a cinch there would be a snowslide the day of their arrival.

San Diego has been eyed as a training base for many springs, but because of its proximity to Tia Juana, 13 miles to the south, has caused welfare workers attached to some of the clubs to veto San Diego.

The White Sox are standouts in major league baseball in that its roster carries no booze pigs and few playboys. San Diego wouldn't be a bad place for this well behaved team to train, especially since the border is closed to vehicular traffic at 6 o'clock each evening.

Owner Comiskey, when pressed for information as to whether he would send his team to Texas again next spring, was noncommittal, other than to say he may leave for Battle Creek, Mich., Sunday, the weather here having caused his legs to become wabblier than he likes to have them.

DEMPSEY STOPS SLUGGER; FLOORS ANOTHER 8 TIMES

Akron, O., March 10.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey knocked out a youthful and belligerent foe here tonight after a round and a half of slugging. His victim was Hank Hankinson, 205 pound Lancaster, O., farm boy, who first sent the old champion reeling to the ropes with a left to the jaw and then swarmed over him.

After his early first round advantage, Hankinson was a target for a right and left to the jaw that put him down as the bell rang. Dempsey came out for the second round scowling and slugging, and at 1:40 he whipped over another right and left and scored a knockout.

Tiny Powell, second opponent in the pair of two round exhibition bouts, weathered the match but was floored eight times in the second round.

AGUA CALIENTE STEWARDS LIFT BARON LONG BAN

AUGA CALIENTE, Mexico, March 10.—(AP)—Baron Long, San Diego sportsman and one of the owners of the Auga Caliente race track, was restored to good standing on the turf by the racing stewards today. He was suspended several months ago following the Linden Tree incident, in which the mutuel price on the two year old was admittedly "built up" by Long.

VOIGT WINS FIRST TEST IN BERMUDA GOLF, 6 AND 5

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 10.—[Special.]—George Voigt, New York, today advanced to the second round of the annual Bermuda golf tournament by defeating J. Mickles, Montreal, 6 and 5. Three other American players triumphed in the first round. P. Miller Jones defeated A. C. N. Gosling, 4 and 3; Leonard Martin won from George Boeck, 6 and 5, and Clive Alvord triumphed over Charles Shelton, 1 up, in 21 holes.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

CHARLES NOVACK.

After watching hundreds of young men battle for Golden Gloves in the tournament which was brought to a close at the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night I am wondering if anybody can definitely and with finality determine the winner in bouts as close as some of those in the last four nights of competition.

The rules of amateur boxing require a decision after three rounds. There can be no draw, and an extra round to settle supremacy is not allowed. The judges and referee obviously are in a tight spot. No matter how they vote their verdict is sure to be received with mingled boos and cheers.

The judges and referees who handle the Golden Gloves bouts are provided by the Illinois athletic commission. They work the biggest bouts in Chicago. Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the National Boxing association, says there are no more competent officials anywhere. Their integrity is beyond question, otherwise they would not be working in a TRIBUNE tournament.

* * *

Yet it is an interesting and astonishing fact that in at least two bouts the final night of the meet their decisions were not in accord with the opinion of the fans.

Take the semi-final match between Geoghegan and Novack, for example. I was in there trying with a couple of reasonably good eyes, but when the last blow was blown I was convinced Novack had won the match. Yet I was decidedly out of line with the judgment of three experts who were to rule officially. They decided for Geoghegan.

Then the bout between Marek and Miller, the light heavyweight championship contest. One of the boys, Marek, tried to fight. Miller came out of his shell only occasionally and it was a disappointing bout. The referee gave the verdict to Marek for his aggressiveness. That's the way I would have called it. But the judges, to whom I yield superiority in opinion of this sort, gave it to Miller. This, of course, makes me strictly a mug.

* * *

What I am trying to arrive at, if anything, is that it is difficult for any one, no matter how much he knows about boxing, to determine definitely who wins a close fight. The judges in a big tournament like Golden Gloves or in a professional match of importance have the toughest assignment in sport. Their efforts should be all the more appreciated when you consider they work gratis.

The fact that a certain element boos close decisions is not particularly disturbing. It's that way in baseball and football, too. Emotions guide most of us in arriving at conclusions. It is hard to sit at the ringside and not be more interested in one fighter than in another. In this case, you likely will see all the blows your favorite lands and miss quite a few points the opponent scores.

Magicians have proved clearly that the hand is quicker than the eye. Nobody who attends the performance of the magician can follow the rapid gestures of an artist with two hands, who has nothing up his sleeves to conceal except a bowl of gold fish, a bouquet of pansies and, perhaps, a small elephant.

* * *

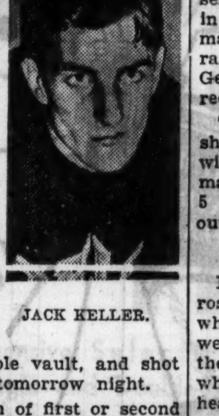
It is only reasonable that a fellow is going to miss a few things here and there when two clever glove wielders start throwing punches all over the ring with a total of four hands.

Mr. Argus, the mythological gent with a thousand eyes, would have made a swell boxing judge. But even he might have had his favorites.

THE TRIBUNE is deeply appreciative of the fine work by the judges, referees, and all the other men who helped make the Golden Gloves tournament a success.

If there are more competent officials in amateur boxing you name them.

Big 10 Track Stars Start 1932 Title Quests Tonight



JACK KELLER.

Trial heats in five of the ten championship events will open the 22d conference indoor track and field meet tonight at the University of Chicago fieldhouse, where tomorrow night the finals are expected to result in new Big Ten records.

First heats in the 60 yard dash tonight will start at 7:30 o'clock, followed by the preliminaries in the 440, the mile, high hurdles and the half mile. All competition in the two mile, the mile relay, the high jump, pole vault, and shot put will be held tomorrow night.

Michigan, certain of first or second in the meet because of its numerous tried and competent performers, is expected to lead in the number of qualifiers tonight. The Wolverines should qualify three in the dash, one or two in the hurdles, two or three in the quarter, at least two in the half, and one in the mile.

Keller Is Star.

Indiana, with the first really strong track team in its history, may not qualify more than four or five men, but all will be potential winners.

Conference athletic directors will meet today at 10 a. m. at the Windermere hotel to discuss routine matters. This will be the farewell meeting for H. O. Crisler of Minnesota, who goes to Princeton as football coach, and for George Little of Wisconsin, who goes to Rutgers as athletic director.

Probably the outstanding athlete who will compete in the warm-ups tonight is Jack Keller, Ohio State hurdler, who appears almost certain to make the American Olympic team. Keller raced the high hurdles in the Ohio relays last year in :14.8, but was deprived of a world's record when he knocked down one hurdle.

Keller is one of eleven men entered in the meet who won places on the collegiate roll of honor last year and who must be reckoned Olympic possibilities this year. Capt. Edwin Russell of Michigan, defending champion in the 440, is on the list for his :48.7 mark. Larry Kirk of Wisconsin, who ran a 4:19.8 mile, and his teammate, George Wright, with a 9:21.9 two mile record, also are on the list.

Ted Shaw, another Badger, who shares the indoor high jump title with Capt. Cam Hackle of Minnesota, made the roll with a leap of 6 feet 5 inches, the second best collegiate outdoor performance last year.

Indiana Squad Strong.

Indiana entries who made the honor roster are Henry Brocksmith, miler, who did 4:17 on the Midway track last week, which is 4 seconds faster than the record, and Bryce Beecher, upon whom the Hoosiers are counting heavily in the high jump and the pole vault. Clarence Munn easily is the class of the shot putters in this meet. Capt. Purma of Illinois and George Kabat of Wisconsin, both of whom made the honor roll as discus throwers, will compete against Munn tomorrow night.

Among the new men of whom good marks are expected are two Indiana sophomores, Ivan Fuqua, who has done :48 in the quarter, and Chuck Hornbostel, who ran a 1:55.6 half mile last week. Dean Woolsey, Illinois miler, who has done 4:17.2, also is entered.

Brill to Help Conley Coach La Salle College

Philadelphia, Pa., March 10.—[Special.]—Marty Brill, half back on the 1930 Notre Dame football team, today intimated that he will assist his former teammate, Tom Conley, in coaching the La Salle college eleven here next fall. However, Brill said he had not yet signed a contract. Conley, who captained the Irish squad in 1930, was appointed La Salle head coach several weeks ago.

SHAMROCKS TAKE LEAD BY BEATING DULUTH AGAIN, 4-1

Wiseman Returns to Star in Chicago Attack.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The rambunctious young Shamrocks, after weeks of striving, finally achieved a long sought goal—first place in the American Hockey league—by defeating the Duluth Hornets at the Chicago Stadium last night, 4 to 1. Technically the Chicagoans now are at the head of the league all by themselves, having lost fewer games than the Kansas City Pla-Mors, with whom they share the honor.

The forward line of which the Shamrocks are especially proud—Jack Riley, Peewee Wiseman and Tony Prelesnik—exerted its genius to the utmost to produce last night's victory, accounting for all four goals. The late invalid Wiseman celebrated his return by scoring the first goal in less than five minutes with the assistance of Riley, and then twice repaid the favor with passes to Jack for goals.

After Wiseman had delivered his goal, the Hornets caused the Shamrocks clientele some concern by tying the score just before the end of the first period, but that was the end of the Hornets' production for the evening.

Wiseman Back.

The importance of the contest was demonstrated immediately by both teams, particularly the Shamrocks, who started their most talented line, Riley, Prelesnik, and Wiseman.

The Chicagoans controlled the puck throughout the greater part of the period, largely through the work of Riley, who stole the puck from Duluth time and again. This pilfering finally bore fruit. Riley completed a theft in mid-rink and, dashing half way to the goal, passed perfectly to Wiseman, who drove the puck into the net for the Shamrocks' first goal in 4:48.

Later when Prelesnik was off the ice, Duluth tied the score. The puck found its way to the back end of the cage and Karakas, in shaking it out, sent it into a scramble of players, whence Scott suddenly turned it over to Lessard. The latter pitched it in easily in 16:07.

Shamrocks Score Twice.

The Hornets continued to irk Karakas at the opening of the second period, that is, until the Riley line reentered the fray and suddenly made the score 3 to 1 in favor of the Shamrocks.

During Davis' absence the Shamrocks scored twice, once on a beautiful solo rush by Buswell, who circled the cage completely and passed out to the waiting Prelesnik for an easy shot in 6:32. Twenty-one seconds later Riley and Wiseman again collaborated with some deft passing in front of the goal, Jack counting the goal.

The opening of the third period found both teams skating and shooting in large quantities. The Hornets began to demonstrate some of their much heralded passing, but without profit.

Old Clique Clicks Again.

Riley and Wiseman then joined up to prove that passing could be combined with goal making and the Shamrocks went into a 4 to 1 lead. Jack again committed a theft of the puck in the midst of a Hornet offensive in midice and dashed straight for the cage. Midway there he passed to Wiseman and Peewee nursed the puck just long enough for Riley to come up beside him, take the pass and slam it home in 10:30.

STOPS.

Thompson	7	9	7—23
Gardiner	11	9	7—27

Boston, Mass., March 10.—(AP)—The Chicago Blackhawks took a long stride towards a National Hockey league play-off berth tonight by coming from behind in the third period to defeat the Bruins, 3 to 2.

After playing to a 1 to 1 tie in the first period, the teams struggled evenly during the second period. The Bruins then flashed into the lead early in the third period on Art Chapman's goal. They were not strong enough to hold this advantage for even a minute, however, and Mush March tied the score. Then Taffy Abel drove home the winning goal.

Referee Is Hurt.

The opening face-off w[illegible]elayed several minutes when Referee Jerry Goodman received a cut on the face in a collision with Cooney Weiland, Bruin center. Weiland backed into the official. Goodman's injury required two stitches.

After two sets of forwards had played cautious hockey, Cy Wentworth took the puck down, lost it in Boston territory and, after a brisk scrimmage, regained it. He carried the rubber to the back boards, then passed out to Johnny Gottselig, who drove hard and true into the Boston net for the first score.

The Bruins got a break after Marty Barry and Teddy Graham engaged in a bit of high sticking and went off. Dit Clapper led a rush, passed to Weiland and the latter shot hard at Goalie Gardiner. The puck hit Gardiner's pads and bounced back, but George Owen swept in fast and slammed the rebound into the net to tie the score.

March Wrecks Net.

Mush March followed Tommy Cook into the Boston zone at the start of the second period and when Tommy went into the backboards, Mush tore into the net, skates first, ripping out a large chunk. The game was halted until the net was repaired.

The Hawks attacked after Jerwa was penalized for tripping, four black shirted warriors breaking through, with March carrying. Shore stopped the advance, however, and carried back the puck to hammer a long, hard shot at Gardiner.

Shore later joined a Boston rush and, after hooking the puck in mid-ice, passed forward from the right wall to Marty Barry. Marty got far inside the Chicago defense, but his try was too high. Gottselig then went off for tripping and the Bruins packed the Chicago zone with five men.

Although Gardiner had several close escapes, the score was still tied when Gottselig was released and the sides were even when the period closed.

Abel's Goal Wins.

Art Chapman gave the Bruins the lead early in the third period after Shore carried the puck down and passed to Jerwa, who went back to the boards. He passed out and Chapman swept up close to drive the rubber past Gardiner. A few seconds later, however, Paul Thompson rushed and fed Mush March a pass that put the game back into deadlock.

Taffy Abel followed down a little later when Gottselig rushed with Ripley. Vic went to the back boards, passed out to Gottselig and Johnny shot, drawing Thompson out of the net. The puck hit a post, but before Thompson could get back in position, Taffy slapped the rubber into the empty cage for the winning goal.

Sacred Heart Advances to C. Y. O. Title Semi-Finals

Sacred Heart and Our Lady of Sorrows lightweight basketball teams advanced to the semi-finals in the Catholic Youth Organization basketball tournament last night. In the Girls' league the Victorians defeated St. Mary's, 15 to 13, and St. Philip Neri won from the Zippers to reach the semi-final round. The scores:

"I've Heard Nothing," Says Shortstop.

Ambler, Pa., March 10.—(AP)—Shortstop Charley Gelbert of the St. Louis Cardinals said today that he was still a holdout and had no intention of visiting the Cardinals' training camp at Bradenton, Fla.

His statement answered reports that he was to leave for the south. He said, "I haven't heard a word from the St. Louis club for the last month."

He has spent most of the winter in his new home at Fayetteville, Pa.

Biloxi, Miss., March 10.—(AP)—There was a lot of talk in the Washington Senators' camp today that First Baseman Joe Judge and Outfielder Dave Harris would be used as trading material for a veteran pitcher.

But Owner Clark Griffith kept his counsel to himself and put the boys through a stiff workout.

BROWNS SIGN GOSLIN.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 10.—(AP)—Goose Goslin and Phil Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns, came to terms and the star outfielder signed his contract today.

The chill air nearly spoiled today's practice session, but by 1 p. m. the sun had warmed the air and the Browns were enjoying one of the best workouts of the spring.

PHILLY REGULARS WIN.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 10.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Nationals divided against themselves again today and team A, mostly regulars, won from team B in six innings, 1 to 0.

Notre Dame Beats Butler Again, 28-23

Notre Dame, Ind., March 10.—[Special.]—Notre Dame won its sixteenth consecutive basketball game tonight, defeating Butler, 28 to 23, in the season final for both teams. The victory gave Notre Dame 18 triumphs in 20 starts. Butler won 14 games out of 19.

After a cautious beginning, Notre Dame piled up an 18 to 6 lead at the half, principally on Ray De Cook's eight points. Ed Krause, sophomore center, led Notre Dame scoring with 10 points. The game completed the careers of the other four Notre Dame regulars. Score:

YOUTHFUL SKIERS VIE FOR ILLINOIS CROWNS SUNDAY

The first Illinois state junior ski jumping championship will be held Sunday afternoon at Riis Park. A field of the younger skiers from three states has entered.

The tournament will not only furnish the youngsters a chance to test their skill in competition, but also will offer them an opportunity to get expert advice, for they will be performing before one of the leading skiers of the world, Birger Ruud, Norwegian star, who will referee the meet.

Don't Protect That Wren, Sir; He's a Vandal

BY BOB BECKER.

Is the common, friendly house wren, a deep dyed villain who raids the nests of other birds, destroying the eggs and young?

For years Jenny Wren has been pictured as a fearless little feathered friend, the very embodiment of good will and the children's favorite. But of late keen bird students have learned different about the house wren. One bird fan in Michigan who owns hundreds of acres of land and is constantly striving to get birds on this tract, won't permit a starling or a wren to stay on his place, if he can help it. He has watched the house wren's attacks on the eggs and young of other nesting birds.

Mrs. Charles F. Weigle, Birds' Acre, Lafayette, Ind., an amateur ornithologist who has made a long study of the wren's habits and as early as 1925 secured evidence against this popular little songster, writes the following indictment against the house wren:

"Close observation for many years, corroborated by the experience of others, has shown me that the sparrow is a bully and a coward and in flocks they pester and drive away song birds.

"But we must look elsewhere for actual criminality and time and watchfulness will prove that the house wren is a cruel wrecker of homes and villainous destroyer of eggs and fledglings.

"To thrust its bill into the helpless bird's eyes and to pierce the eggs of both cavity and open nests, is so well established a fact that whenever found the painstaking student of bird life pronounces him the culprit. No premises are safe where wrens are allowed to build. No nest anywhere in his vicinity is left unvisited and to this cherished, well protected bird more than to any other cause, is due the practical extermination of the valuable Bewick's wren and the decrease in bluebirds, chickadees, titmice, and all hole nesting species."

MICHIGAN SWIM TEAM TO DEFEND BIG TEN HONORS

Columbus, O., March 10.—[Special.]—The annual Western conference swimming meet opens tomorrow afternoon at Ohio State's new natatorium. Michigan, the defending champion, is expected to repeat its victory of last year at Ann Arbor.

The Wolverines captured the 1931 meet by a margin of 37 points over their nearest rival—Northwestern.

Michigan's outstanding performer is Johnny Schmeiler, who set a national intercollegiate record in the 220 yard breast stroke as a sophomore last season. Other leading Michigan performers include Drysdale and Degener in the back stroke.

Northwestern, with its strength concentrated in the free style events, has an outside chance for the title. A quintet of sophomores, including Highland, Wilson, Wilcox, Troup, and Debenman are the Purple's star performers.

Iowa, featuring Lobdell, twice Big Ten diving champion, and Minnesota, which is depending on Andre to give Schmeiler a battle, are figured for third and fourth places.

Ohio State will enter swimmers in five events. Capt. Al Gilsdorf and Maurice Adelman will compete in the breast stroke; Andy Fela will take part in the breast stroke; Olavi [Whitey] Sola will be entered in the 100 yard free style and Bob Koogler will engage in the diving events. Sola, Gilsdorf, and Fela will comprise the medley relay team.

Illinois' hopes are Al Brock, who gave Kennedy and Christy of Michigan a battle in the 440 yard free style; Capt. Bartholomew, back stroke; Pashby, free styler, and Schick, diver.

Chicago's outstanding entries are Connolly in the 440 yard free style, and the Marron brothers, John and James, in the diving. Wisconsin will not be represented.

Finals will be held Saturday.

Golden Gloves Squad to Begin Drill Today

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's fifth annual Golden Gloves tournament is ended, but this morning 24 boys start training at the Illinois Athletic club for the inter-city fights against New York which will be held in Madison Square Garden March 28. Yesterday Chicago's squad, three boys in each of the eight weight divisions, were assigned training quarters. Their actual training begins this morning.

Twelve of the members on the squad are from Chicago. The others are divided among five states which cooperated in the annual Tournament of Champions. Four of the winners in the finals Wednesday night are from out of Chicago, and this is the best showing the sectionals ever have made.

The Chicago boys will train for two weeks before leaving for New York on March 25. There will be two workouts in New York before the inter-city tests.

John Behr, Benny Yanger, and Jabber Young will coach the Chicago team. Condition is an important factor and morning road drills coupled with boxing sessions in the gymnasium in the afternoons are expected to put the Chicago boys in the same form which last year helped them sweep through New York's best for a 13 to 3 victory.

While the eight champions are expected to fight in New York, barring injury, the other eight boxers will be chosen from the runners-up and the alternates on the basis of their training for two weeks.

LIGHTWEIGHTS TO COMPETE IN PREP TITLE CAGE MEET

Outstanding high school lightweight basketball teams of Illinois will compete for the state championship in a three day meet at Morton High school gymnasium in Cicero next Thursday. The finals will be played on Saturday night.

William P. McLean, Morton athletic director, announced that Crane Tech, Wendell Phillips, Riverside, Jacksonville. Joliet, Geneva, Pekin, Blue Island, La Grange and Pontiac have entered.

GARIBALDI SIGNS FOR BRONOWICZ MATCH THURSDAY

Gino Garibaldi, the young Italian who was unable to keep a wrestling date with Hans Kampfer last week, has been signed on the St. Patrick's night card at the Coliseum.

He will meet Frank Bronowicz. This is the third match completed for the card.

The main event involves Jim Londos in a match against George Calza, huge Italian.

HOME FLOORS.

JUST how great advantage accrues to a basketball five playing on its home floor always has been, and probably always will be a moot question. That a decided advantage exists is proved by figures showing teams win more games at home than on the road. It is an advantage like playing on the home diamond in baseball, and the theoretical, even if less tangible, advantage of playing on the home gridiron before a home crowd.

To translate this advantage into points per game is another matter. Several years ago, The Big Ten Weekly, now defunct, then edited by Albion Holden, undertook an analysis covering a period of years. The difference to a team, from statistics, between playing at home and away from home, was about eight points per game, if we remember rightly.

Such a point comparison would not prove of much value in the Big Ten season just ended, unless taken with other years, because of some unusual games—Purdue's big score against Chicago on the Maroon floor in the final game and several other counts which verged on reversals of usual form.

Figures for the season just ended, however, do show that of sixty games played, thirty-six were won by the home five and twenty-four by the visitors. That is 60 per cent. That may be taken as indicative of the trend and as proving the contention of advantage. Here are the figures:

	Home.		Away.
	W.	L.	W.	L.
Purdue	6	0	5	1
Northwestern	4	2	5	1
Minnesota	6	0	3	3
Michigan	5	1	3	3
Illinois	5	1	2	4
Ohio State	3	3	2	4
Indiana	3	3	1	5
Wisconsin	2	4	1	5
Iowa	1	5	2	4
Chicago	1	5	0	6

Thus Northwestern and Iowa were the only teams in the league which did not do better at home than on other floors. Iowa's defeat of the Purple at Evanston, one of the season's three notable upsets, accounts for that difference.

* *

Purdue's Status.

Purdue's basketeers, suffering an early season defeat by Ilinois which was a decided upset, finished with a sequence of victories which established the Boilermakers one of the greatest scoring machines in Big Ten history. Four hundred and sixty-five points to 299 by their opponents proved that. In the game against Northwestern which definitely clinched the title, Purdue showed mastery which was a surprise even to its own adherents. Critics who go in for that sort of thing call Johnny Wooden the greatest player of a decade. Even with his graduation and also Kellar, co-captain, the boys from Lafayette have enough material left for another formidable quintet in 1933.

Girl Scouts Hold Swim Meet Finals Tomorrow

The city-wide finals of the Girl Scout swimming meet will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. at the Community Recreation center pool, 4715 West Madison street. Andrew Kovak, director of the pool, will give an exhibition of fancy diving during the meet.

Loyola Basket Entry List Nearly Filled

With thirty teams already listed from all parts of the United States except the Pacific coast, officials of the ninth annual National Catholic Interscholastic basketball tournament yesterday hoped to close the entry this afternoon. It was planned to hold the drawings tonight for the first round, which starts at Loyola university next Wednesday night.

The winner and runnerup of the Pennsylvania state tournament, recently completed at Duquesne university in Pittsburgh, were the latest additions to the entry list. They are Northeast Catholic High school of Philadelphia, state champion, and St. Thomas High school of Scranton, Pa., which finished in second place.

The two eastern schools and the two qualifiers who will be decided in the Iowa state tournament Sunday night brought the number of entries to thirty. Picking the other two is a matter of deciding among half a dozen schools who desire to play.

The entry list for the Loyola tournament this season is considered the best in the entire series. The east will make an effort to capture laurels for the first time with about ten schools who stand out among the entrants.

CENTRAL Y FACES CHICAGO LATIN IN MIDWEST MEET

Central Y. M. C. A. Day High and the Chicago Latin school meet in the opening round of the Midwest prep basketball tourney at St. Alban's school, Sycamore, this afternoon. Central Day, city private school league champion, is a strong favorite and won the first Midwest meet held in 1930. Central defeated Latin, Elgin, and Morgan Park in games this season.

The other pairings for the opening round today are Elgin academy and Wayland, St. Alban's and Mooseheart, Chicago Christian and Onarga. Northwestern Military and Naval academy and Morgan Park Military academy drew byes, and play winners of the first round tonight.

Church Girls Open County Basketball Meet on April 4

The Cook county church girls' basketball tournament will be held at the St. James Methodist Episcopal church gymnasium, April 4 to 15.

The heavyweight basketball championships of the Chicago Public High School league and the Catholic league will be decided tonight.

Crane Tech, which has not failed to make an appearance in the City league finals for the last six years, will attempt to retain its title when it meets Calumet, south division champion, at the De La Salle institute gymnasium, 34th street and Michigan avenue.

St. Mel Plays Joliet.

In the Catholic league another champion, St. Mel, will seek to keep its crown against Joliet, winner of the south section championship, at Loyola gym, Sheridan road and Loyola avenue. St. Mel reached the finals by defeating St. Patrick in a playoff for the north division title, while Joliet qualified by winning from Leo in an overtime game Wednesday night.

The City league lightweight championship game will be played tomorrow. Wendell Phillips of the south section meets Crane Tech at the Broadway armory, Thorndale avenue and Broadway. Crane's lights swept into the final round by eliminating Roosevelt, strong north section squad, which suffered only one defeat this season.

Mount Carmel and De Paul will play for the Catholic league lightweight championship Sunday afternoon at De La Salle gym. Both squads qualified by winning playoffs which were held to determine the sectional title winners. Mount Carmel won from St. Philip for the south division championship while De Paul defeated St. Mel in the north section.

Catholic Runnersup Meet.

Leo and St. Philip, heavyweight runnersup in the south and north divisions of the Catholic league, will meet tonight at St. Ignatius gym, May street and Roosevelt road. The winner will qualify for the national Catholic tournament.

Manning and Ebbets Paired; Fight Friday

Harry Ebbets, Brooklyn middleweight, and Roscoe Manning, New Jersey Negro, signed yesterday to meet in a ten round bout at the Chicago Stadium next Friday. They were in the light heavyweight tournament. Ebbets won a close decision from Willie Oster and then withdrew, while Roscoe was eliminated by Baxter Calmes. That match and a four round between Jerry Crano and Buck Kammen round out the card. The Illinois Athletic commission has given permission to the Stadium to stage 44 rounds, four more than the rules allow.

Billy Petrolle passed through Chicago yesterday on his way to Duluth, Minn., where he will start training for a fight at New York March 23. On that date he is slated to meet the winner of the Eddie Ran-Bat Battalino bout at New York tonight.

Henry Firpo, Chicago 160 pound boxer, returned yesterday from Indianapolis, where he won a law suit from his former manager, Tom Jones of London, England. Jones sued Firpo for $400 and he started action last Jan. 19, when he had the boxer's purse attached at Indianapolis after a contest with Bud Saltis.

Young Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., welterweight, arrives in the loop today from Davenport, Ia., to resume training for his combat with Leslie Baker, 6 feet 1 inch 147 pound fighter at Boston March 21.

Sammy Mandell, former lightweight champion, has announced that he will headline a show at Daytona Beach, Fla., March 25. His opponent has not been selected. Mandell defeated Al Spivey on his last start three weeks ago.

Gene Higgins, Catholic Youth organization lightweight titleholder, and Red Chinski of Kankakee clash in the main event at the Coulon club, 1154 East 63d street tonight. Ralph Lubansky and Bruno Fulton meet in the semi-final event. Six other matches are carded.

RIDING CLUB TO PLAY 6TH CORPS AREA POLOISTS

The Chicago Riding club's indoor polo team plays its second game of the Metropolitan league tournament tomorrow, meeting the 6th Corps Area in the fourth round of the series that will determine which of the league's three teams are to compete in the world's championship matches in New York in April.

Mrs. Whitney Names 26 for Chicago Races

BY FRENCH LANE.

The rich stakes and purses offered by Chicago racing associations are gradually coaxing the best horses from the east to the scene of Chicago racing.

For instance the Greentree stable of Mrs. Payne Whitney is the largest single nominator to the seven rich and important stakes that the Arlington Park Jockey club will offer this year for which entries will close on March 15.

Twenty-six entries for the seven events were received at the Arlington offices yesterday from John M. Gaver, the Greentree stable agent, who is now at Red Bank, N. J., where the horses owned by Mrs. Whitney are in training.

Twenty Grand heads the list and was named for the Stars and Stripes and Arlington handicaps and the Arlington gold cup. Each is a $20,000 race. For the Classic Mrs. Whitney named Byzantine, Pro Bono, a half brother to Twenty Grand; Curacao, Parry, and Semaphore which gives her more representatives in the $70,000 3 year old race than any other owner in America. Mrs. Whitney named eight of her most highly regarded 2 year olds for the Juvenile fixtures which are to be renewed at Arlington.

Richard and Patrick Nash of Chicago have employed John Greely of Kentucky to train their horses, which race in the name of the Shandon Stud stable. Greely, a veteran horseman, succeeds John Partridge of Louisville, who resigned the post because of ill health.

Greely's first big job will be to get Burning Blaze, one of the country's best 2 year olds of last season, ready for the Kentucky Derby, and for later engagements in Chicago.

Burning Blaze and others in the Nash string are at the Kentucky association track in Lexington, and will be moved to Churchill Downs early next week.

Spanish Play, owned jointly by Dick Morris of Chicago and Pat Knebelkamp of Louisville, is to try for the Agua Caliente handicap even though the value of the race has been cut from $100,000 to $50,000 in added money.

Spanish Play is scheduled to start in the New Orleans handicap on Saturday and then will be whisked across the southern end of the country to the Agua Caliente course. He will go in charge of Trainer Charley Gross and Jockey Charles Landolt. Mr. Morris expects to be at Agua Caliente when Spanish Play tries to whip Phar Lap, the Australian champion.

SPEARS SAYS HE MAY CONSIDER WISCONSIN JOB

Eugene, Ore., March 10.—(AP)—Dr. Clarence W. Spears, head football coach at the University of Oregon, admitted tonight he had been asked to come to Madison, Wis., for a conference looking toward his appointment as football coach at the University of Wisconsin.

Spears said he had talked by long distance telephone today with Wisconsin authorities. He intimated he might go east to discuss the matter with Badger officials.

Although his contract still has three years to run, it was considered probable here he would be free to leave Oregon if he wished.

Spears declined to say whether he had received any salary offer from Wisconsin.

HALL LEADS BY HALF GAME IN 3 CUSHION PLAY

Allen Hall holds a half game lead in the three cushion billiard tournament which ends tonight at Mussey's Wabash avenue billiard room. Hall broke even yesterday, losing to Johnny Layton, 40 to 39, in 37 innings and defeating Jay N. Bozeman of California, 40 to 37, in 40 innings.

The feature game was between Layton and Willie Hoppe last night, Hoppe getting the decision, 40 to 38, in 34 innings with a high run of 8 to Layton's 7. Welker Cochran, who is second to Hall, triumphed over Bozeman, 40 to 26, in 42 innings.

The standing:

	W.	L.	High run.	Best game.	Total pts.
Allen Hall	5	2	8	26	266
Welker Cochran	4	2	8	42	246
Willie Hoppe	3	3	10	32	227

300 TO ATTACK CENTRAL TRACK MARKS TONIGHT

Alex Wilson Defends Two Titles at Notre Dame.

Notre Dame, Ind., March 10.—[Special.]—More than 300 track athletes will compete here tomorrow night and Saturday in the sixth annual Central Intercollegiate conference indoor meet. Fourteen schools are entered.

Michigan Normal, Drake, and Kansas State are challenging the places of Notre Dame, Michigan State, and Marquette among the leaders. Other teams entered include Butler, Western State, Detroit, City College of Detroit, Loyola of Chicago, De Paul, and Grinnell.

Wilson Defends Two Titles.

Alex Wilson of Notre Dame stands out among the dozen or more Olympic candidates entered in the meet. He will defend his conference championships in the quarter and half mile runs against Jack Tierney of Marquette, Capt. Rha Arnold of Michigan Normal, Burns of Butler, Kores of Marquette, Gallagher of Drake, Hovey and Pongrace of Michigan State, and Kahler of Michigan Normal.

Capt. Bill McCormick of Notre Dame, Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette, and Bill O'Neill of Detroit are three sprinters capable of tying the world's record of 6.2 seconds in the 60 yard dash.

Gene Beatty and Red Simmons of Michigan Normal, Art Ravensdale of Marquette, Del Prodrebarac of Drake, Ted Bath and Clifford Liberty of Michigan State lead the hurdlers.

Clark S. Chamberlain, distance runner for Michigan State, is out to lower Frank McClusky's American college 2 mile record of 9:17.8 in this last race of his collegiate career. Chamberlain has run 9:18.7.

Schwartz Heads Milers.

Capt. Ray Schwartz of Western State, who has done 4:16 outdoors, probably will shatter the conference mile record of 4:24.4.

If Wilson doesn't crack under the strain of running two preliminaries Friday night and two finals Saturday, the Notre Dame mile relay team should break the conference record of 3:28.3 established last year. Last week the Irish ran the distance in 3:23.6.

Mishawaka, Central of South Bend, Kokomo, and Froebel of Gary are entered in a special high school medley relay race.

Central conference records:

POLE VAULT—Johnston, Notre Dame, 1931. 13 feet 4½ inches.
60 YARD DASH—Elder, Notre Dame, 1928; McCormick, Notre Dame, 1930-'31. 6.2 seconds.
MILE RUN—Pfleiger, Marquette, 1929. 4:24.4.
HIGH JUMP—Abernathy, St. Xavier; Cline, Central State Teachers, and McIntosh, Monmouth, all in 1928. 6 feet 4⅝ inches.
SHOT PUT—Tillotson, Michigan State, 1927; Vossler, Miami, 1930. 46 feet 1¼ inches.
440 YARD DASH—Wilson, Notre Dame, 1930. 50.2 seconds.
60 YARD HIGH HURDLES—O'Brien, Notre Dame, 1931. 7.5 seconds.
880 YARD RUN—Wilson, Notre Dame, 1931. 1:59.3.
65 YARD LOW HURDLES—Bailie, Notre Dame, 1930. 7.2 seconds.
TWO MILE RUN—Chamberlain, Michigan State, 1931. 9:24.2
MILE RELAY—Notre Dame, 1931. 3:28.3.

BANKERS'LAWYER RAPS FEINBERG'S CAMPAIGN TALKS

Wins Delay for 3 Accused in Bank Failure.

State's Attorney Swanson twice encountered obstacles yesterday in his efforts to procure speedy trials for indicted former bankers. In one case a defense attorney cited the "inflammatory" political speeches of Cricuit Judge Michael Feinberg as sufficient cause for continuing a case until after the primaries. Judge Feinberg is running against Mr. Swanson for the Republican nomination for state's attorney.

LLOYD D. HETH.
[Walinger Photo.]

The case was that of three former officers of the defunct Roosevelt Bankers' State bank, Alexander Flower, Samuel Flower, and Louis W. Frank, who were tried months ago on charges of making false statements to bank examiners and, upon their acquittal by a directed verdict, were reindicted. Their lawyer, Lloyd D. Heth, won a continuance from Judge Philip L. Sullivan by citing Judge Feinberg's political activities.

Attacks Judge's Speeches.

"I don't believe any banker can get a fair jury trial when a sitting judge is telling people over the radio that bankers are crooked and should be jailed," asserted Mr. Heth. "These speeches have aroused the public to a point where the state's attorney may be faced with demands for a change of venue from this county in every case of the kind.

Mr. Swanson, appearing personally to oppose any continuance of the case, argued that Mr. Heth's point, if true, would enable every indicted banker in Chicago to win a continuance until after the primary merely by citing the Feinberg speeches. The court ruled for Mr. Heth.

"I do not believe the state will incur any particular harm if this case is continued until after the political heat has died down," Judge Sullivan remarked. A continuance was ordered to April 18, six days after the primary.

Bains Win Two Months' Delay.

Meanwhile at a hearing before Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher in Criminal court, John Bain and five co-defendants in the Bain bank case won a two months' continuance over the strenuous objections of Assistant State's Attorney Harold Keele. Attorney Preston Boyden, representing Bain, his two sons and his son-in-law, pleaded that his associate, Attorney, Francis X. Busch, needed time to study the case.

At a previous hearing a continuance was granted because two other defendants, Dr. Walter H. Buhlig and Frank Mulholland, had not retained counsel. Mulholland has since retained Attorney Grover Niemeyer and Dr. Buhlig has retained Attorney Thomas Morris. The lawyers said they desired a continuance to May 24, but finally agreed on May 16. Judge Fisher said he would assign the case to a court in the interval.

The formal opinion of the Supreme court, explaining its action of last December in freeing John Bain, Robert Bain, and W. Merle Fisher, whom Judge Feinberg had ordered to jail during a hearing on the affairs of John Bain, Inc., was filed yesterday at Springfield.

The court held that Judge Feinberg violated the constitution in jailing defendants. To the contention that Judge Feinberg, as an examining magistrate, had the right to enter a jail order, the court pointed out that no judge in any court has a right to examine a person and then commit that person to jail on the examiner's own motion and without a warrant or sworn complaint.

Robbers Torture Victim with Heated Fork Prongs

Four torture bandits held Nick George a prisoner in his confectionery store in Hammond yesterday, and tried to force him to reveal his money cache by burning him with the heated prongs of a steel fork. Two patrons were also held prisoner with him, but escaped the torture. Despite proddings about the body with the heated prongs, George refused to give up his savings. Finally the robbers fled, taking a total of $200 from the cash register and the patrons.

9 EMPLOYES GET BEQUESTS FROM MARK CUMMINGS

$1,350,000 Is Left in Capitalist's Will.

Six servants and three office employés were named beneficiaries in the will of D. Mark Cummings, Chicago capitalist, who died last month in Phoenix, Ariz. The will was filed for probate in the Lake county Probate court in Waukegan yesterday. The nine employés had served a total of 219 years in Mr. Cummings' service, or an average of more than 24 years each.

Mr. Cummings left a personal estate valued at $1,000,000 and real estate valued at $350,000, according to the petition for probate. He made a bequest of $200,000 to his widow, Mrs. Ruth Dexter Cummings, and the remainder of the estate, after the bequests to the employés and servants, was left in trust for his son, Dexter; his son's two daughters, Joyce and Ruth Cummings, and his daughter, Miss Edith Cummings. Any children that may be born to Edith Cummings also will share in the trust. Mrs. Grace Cummings Berquist of New York, sister of the capitalist, and nine of her heirs will be beneficiaries if Mr. Cummings' descendants die before the termination of the trust fund.

Annuities were provided for Henry C. Saltonstall, 6931 Crandon avenue, Mr. Cummings' office manager for more than forty years; Otho S. Graither, 90, Beverly Hills, Cal., in his employ for more than fifty years before he retired twelve years ago, and William C. Melohn, 7354 Merrill avenue, his private secretary for fourteen years.

Bequests to the servants ranged from one year's salary to more than two years' salary, dependent upon the length of service. They were to Catherine Wahlen, in the family's employ for 36 years; Bettie Beyer, 30 years; Maud Wallis, 24 years, and Amanda Carlson, 6 years. The gardener, Erland Borg, has been in the family's employ for 13 years and the chauffeur, Ernest Daniels, for six years.

Mr. Cummings had a country home at 1455 North Lake road, in Lake Forest, and a residence at 1550 North State parkway.

Probate Judge Martin C. Decker set a hearing on the petition for probate for April 11. The petition was filed by Kenneth M. Fiske, of the law firm of Defrees, Buckingham, Jones & Hoffman.

SCHOOLGIRL DIES AFTER ATTEMPT TO ATTACK HER

New York, March 10.—[Special.]—Rose Silverman, a 14 year old Brooklyn school girl, died in the Greenpoint hospital today of pneumonia which she contracted Monday night after having been left unconscious in a vacant lot by a man so far unidentified, who attempted to attack her. The girl lay in the lot exposed to the cold all night. Detectives of the Brooklyn homicide squad are searching for the man.

On Monday night she set out for a nearby public library. As she approached the library an automobile drew alongside the curb, and a man whom she described as "elderly" asked to be directed to a telegraph office.

Unsuspecting, the young girl stepped into the car to direct the man. He drove her to the vacant lot, attempted to attack her and beat her till she was unconscious. She was found the next morning by a passer-by and was taken to the hospital.

Realty Dealer Files Suit for a Divorce in Reno

Harold J. McElhinny, real estate dealer in the Morgan Park district, filed suit for divorce yesterday at Reno, Nev., against Mrs. Mildred F. McElhinny, 1553 West 94th street. Mrs. McElhinny said last night that she filed a suit for separate maintenance several weeks ago in the Circuit court, but had been unable to get service upon her husband because of his absence from the city. The couple were married in 1925. They have two children, Shirley, 6, and Robert, 3 years old.

England Ends Schneider Air Races for All Time

LONDON, March 10.—(AP)—Sir Philip Sassoon, undersecretary for air, announced in the house of commons tonight that the Schneider trophy air races were "completely over." "The contest has outlived its usefulness," he said. England was the only participant in the Schneider trophy races last September. Other competitors withdrew for various reasons, some because they were unable to prepare ships in time and others because of the expenditure involved.

SOUSA'S MARCHES PLAYED TO HONOR HIM AT FUNERAL

Band Leader Is Buried at Washington.

Washington, D. C., March 10.—[Special.]—Several hundred persons, including notables of the army, navy and congressional circles, attended the funeral today of John Philip Sousa, the "March King," at the marine barracks. The body of the man who became famous first as leader of the United States marine band and later as composer of march music had lain in state at the barracks for the last 24 hours.

The service consisted of the Episcopal prayers for the dead. The officiating clergy were the Rev. Edward Gabler of Christ Episcopal church in southeast Washington, where the Sousa family attended service, and Sidney K. Evans, chief chaplain of the navy. Capt. Taylor Branson led the marine band in playing the dirge, "The Son of God Goes Forth to War." The quartet of the Gridiron club, of which Sousa was a member, sang "Abide with Me" and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul."

The burial with full military honors took place at the Congressional cemetery. The escort to the cemetery consisted of two companies of bluejackets and marines, and honorary pallbearers chosen from the army, the navy, and the marine corps. The marine band played two of Sousa's funeral marches, "The Honored Leader" and "The Garfield Funeral March."

GIRL OF 3 HOME AFTER 2,500 MILE AIRPLANE TRIP

New York, March 10.—[Special.]—Shirley Margaret Monteith, 3 years old, wanted another airplane ride when she arrived at the Newark airport this afternoon after a trip from Reno, Nev., as a lone traveler in charge of the crew of a United Air Lines plane.

Brown eyed and blond, Shirley had enjoyed the trip, slept a good deal of the time, eaten lots of candy, and not been a bit air sick. She was met at the airport by her father, John Monteith of Irvington, N. J.

The little girl's 2,500 mile air journey started on Wednesday, after the Reno district attorney decided she could be released from the care of friends of her mother, who took her to the Nevada city last August.

DIVORCEE ROBBED IN DARING HOLDUP IN THE CONGRESS

Police yesterday started an investigation into the daring holdup of Mrs. Florence Smith and her father, Jacob Cline, in her room, H-30, in the Congress hotel. Jewelry and cash amounting to $1,190 were taken.

The robbery was committed Wednesday night, just a day after Mrs. Smith had won a divorce from Samuel H. Smith, 5555 Everett avenue, wealthy retired merchant. The charge was cruelty. A property settlement, including $5,000 in cash, was made and approved before Judge Joseph Sabath.

Reports of the holdup stated that two men, both armed, gained access to Mrs. Smith's room by knocking on the door. They forced her to surrender a diamond lavalliere valued at $1,000, and after searching the room found $190 in cash. Mr. Cline was ill in bed at the time. The gunmen fled after warning Mrs. Smith not to telephone the clerk for five minutes.

Too Busy Watching Fire to Call Out Department

Kenton, O., March 10.—(AP)—So great was the excitement when fire broke out in the home of Dr. T. M. Shroyer at Dunkirk, near here, that no one thought to call the fire department. Scores of citizens stood about watching the blaze for nearly an hour before some one noticed there were no firemen present. Then a less agitated spectator telephoned, and firemen arrived in time to save the house.

ACCURATE TUBES FOR FLAWLESS RECEPTION

WITHOUT accurate tubes, your radio can't give its best, any more than glasses with inaccurate lenses could give clear, undistorted vision.

In Eveready Raytheon 4-pillar Tubes, four strong pillars anchor the elements in place. All other tubes use only two supports, and their elements are easily knocked out of position by the jolts and vibration of handling and usage.

Your dealer can demonstrate the superiority of 4-pillar tubes. Compare them tube for tube with others, and the difference is startling. But to realize what an enormous improvement they make, install a complete set of 4-pillar tubes . . . then listen!

WARNING! The market is flooded with old-type, slow-heater tubes. Eveready Raytheons are quick-heaters. Modern tubes should heat up in 10 seconds or less.

BOSELLI, ITALY'S WAR PREMIER, DIES OF FLU; 93

ROME, March 10.—(AP)—Paolo Boselli, war-time premier of Italy, died today at the age of 93. He was prime minister in 1916 and 1917, but was forced out as a result of the Italian defeat at Coporetto in October, 1917. Death resulted from influenza.

His political career began in 1888 and he held cabinet posts under half a dozen premiers. He continued active in politics until his last illness. In 1921, as a Fascist sympathizer, he was elected to the senate. He was president of the National Dante-Alighieri association, a member of the order of the Annunziata, and the author or several books.

Back in 1916, when Boselli was premier of Italy and the army was fighting in the Alps, with the United States not yet a participant in the war, he told a newspaper man that "anything the Americans do cannot be other than friendly to Italy, because we are fighting for the principles they hold dear." When Italy heard of President Wilson's war message to congress in the following year he referred to it in the parliament as "the greatest democracy in the world speaking nobly through the message of a great president."

BRITISH BANK RATE IS CUT; TRADE GAINS

Demand for Money Grows in America.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Money is going back to work the world over despite the fact that the demand for it still is abnormally low because of slack trade. The improving situation in world credit was vouchsafed in two items of news yesterday. First, the Bank of England reduced its discount rate another full point, or from 5 to 4 per cent. Second, the weekly report of the American federal reserve statement showed a further return flow of hoarded money into useful circulation.

While the action of the Bank of England has been expected, the extent of the discount rate cut came as a cheerful surprise. Ordinarily, the English institution makes changes no greater than one-half of 1 per cent and, therefore, when it made its first reduction from 6 to 5 per cent several weeks ago the London financial community was surprised and gratified. Yesterday's similar reduction was received in the same spirit, even leading to predictions that the rate will be cut to 3 per cent in a few weeks.

Cut Long Expected.

The current reduction in the Bank of England rate had been foreshadowed by the rush of funds to London to secure higher interest, the influx of gold from India and the bringing out of hoarded gold and metal in commercial and ornamental forms for favorable exchange into the pound sterling. Because of these and other influences, the London open market money rates had declined to a level that made the former 5 per cent discount rate of the Bank of England ineffective.

Another influence on the Bank of England directors was the fact that a further flow of money to London might eventually prove embarrassing. England already has obtained enough American dollars and French francs to liquidate her credits in these countries and, as a result, the pound sterling has been rising rapidly in exchange value. But England has no need for a further rise in sterling and foreign credit, if withdrawn suddenly later on, would cause a sharp reversal of the present favorable situation.

Rate Holds in New York.

While in the United States there wa no change in credit rates yesterday, there were equally favorable indications of improvement in the credit situation. The New York Federal Reserve bank made no change in its 3 per cent rediscount rate. However, the federal reserve board at Washington reported a stronger outpouring of hoarded money, an increase in the country's gold supply, and a steady diminution in bank failures.

Reflecting lessening in hoarding, total money in circulation has declined $39,000,000 in the last week, while at the same time our stock of monetary gold increased $12,000,000. Total money now stands at $5,544,000,000 and the gold stock is $4,362,000,000. Within the last month money in circulation has receded $87,000,000, although the total still is $990,000,000 greater than a year ago.

More than half of the week's decline in money in circulation was represented by contraction of federal reserve notes, which receded $21,107,000 to a total of $2,617,381,000. On the other hand, gold reserves of the system expanded $20,446,000 and now total $2,959,420,000.

Credit Demand Limited.

It would seem, however, that there is not much demand for credit and also that there is no need for currency inflation at this time. The member banks reduced their borrowings from the reserve banks by $80,423,000, bringing this item down to $747,979,000. But this shrinkage in credit was partly offset by the reserve banks purchasing an additional $21,944,000 of bankers' acceptances, $25,168,000 of government securities and $3,727,000 of other securities.

However, most of the buying of government obligations was done by the New York member banks. Deposits at the reserve banks expanded $12,057,000. The ratio of reserves to liabilities for the whole system strengthened to 68.8 per cent, compared with 68.1 per cent last week.

More active public interest in the securities markets was indicated in the weekly report on brokers' loans. The weekly report of the reserve board showed an increase of $57,000,000, bringing the current total up to $552,000,000. However, this figure still is $1,267,000,000 below a year ago, when the total was $1,819,000,000. The New York banks increased their own loans by $35,000,000 in the last week, and interior banks furnished an additional $23,000,000. Nonbanking lenders withdrew $1,000,000.

British Reserve Decreases.

London, March 10.—(AP)—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes in pounds: Total reserve decreased 2,686,000; circulation increased 2,689,000; bullion increased 3,000; other securities increased 9,171,000; public deposits increased 813,000; other deposits increased 12,789,000; notes reserve decreased 2,688,000; government securities increased 7,135,000.

The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability is 31.19 per cent, compared with 36.92 per cent last week.

Rate of discount, 4 per cent.

France Gets More Gold.

Paris, March 10.—(AP)—The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes in francs; Gold increased 678,000,000; sight balances abroad decreased 1,434,000,000; bills discounted at home decreased 45,000,000; bills bought abroad increased 43,000,000; advances increased 96,000,000; circulation increased 264,000,000; current accounts decreased 1,972,000,000. Rate of discount, 2½ per cent.

Int'l Phone Omits Quarter Year Dividend

Directors of the International Telephone and Telegraph corporation omitted the quarterly dividend of 15 cents a share on the capital stock of the corporation yesterday. Three months ago the annual dividend rate had been reduced to 60 cents from the $1 rate which had been in force since October. Prior to October the stock had been on a regular $2 annual basis.

The company reported that net earnings were $7,654,001 for 1931, as compared with $13,750,132 in the preceding year. The earnings are equivalent to $1.20 a share on the capital stock, as compared with $2.07 a share in 1930.

While earnings of the company last year covered dividend requirements, the difficulty of transferring funds from foreign countries was said to have brought about the omission of the payment now due. A charge of $2,505,584 has been made against surplus by the company to cover losses on net current assets caused by the suspension of the gold standard by several countries.

Preferred Dividends Omitted.

Omission of dividends on three classes of preferred stock of the Associated Telephone Utilities company was announced yesterday at the offices of the company here. Decision to defer action was taken at a meeting of the board March 8, it was explained, but no announcement of the move was made until yesterday. The stocks affected by the suspension are the $6 and $7 cumulative prior preferred stocks and the $6 convertible preferred stock, series A.

It was stated that, while earnings of the company last year covered dividend requirements on these issues, the parent company owns substantial amounts of bonds and preferred stock of subsidiary companies which cannot be disposed of at the present time. Because of this situation it was decided to conserve present cash resources, it was stated.

A quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share was declared by the Manhattan company, placing the stock on a $2 annual basis, compared with $4 previously. The Manhattan company is the parent organization of the Bank of Manhattan Trust company and controls the International Acceptance bank and the New York Title and Mortgage company.

Gold Dust Cuts Rate.

The Gold Dust corporation declared a quarterly dividend of 40 cents a share on the common stock, making the annual rate $1.60, as compared with $2.50 previously, to stock of record April 19.

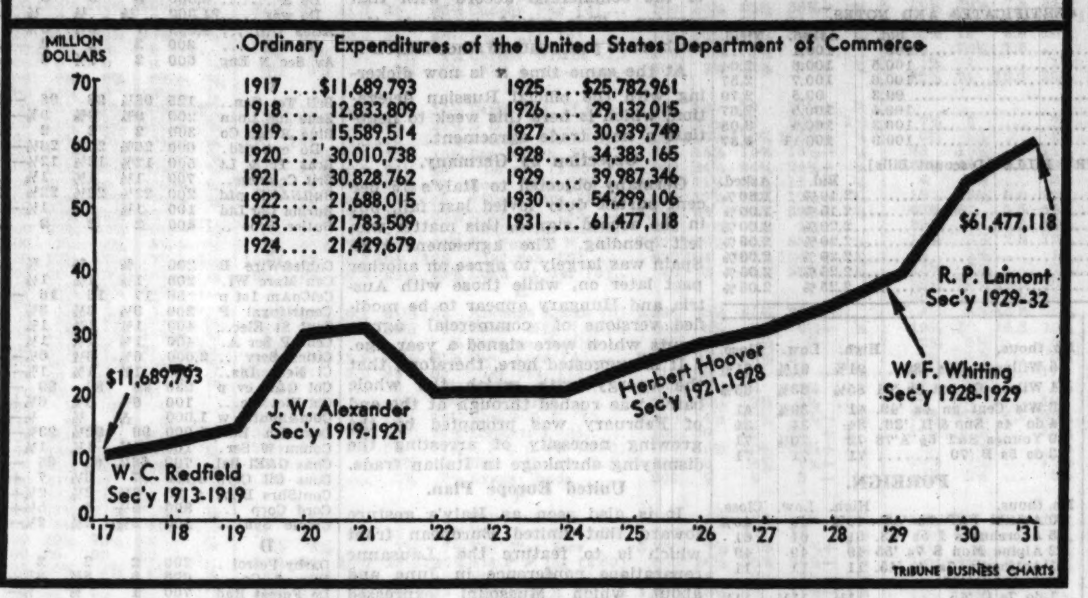
Declaration of a quarterly dividend of 12½ cents a share, compared with 25 cents previously, was announced by the First Bank Stock corporation of Minneapolis. C. T. Jaffray, board chairman, said first quarter earnings about equaled those for the like period last year, but further strengthening of reserve accounts of members was deemed advisable.

The Wisconsin Bank Shares corporation of Milwaukee declared a dividend of 4 cents, against 5 cents previously.

A dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock was declared by the Tidewater Oil company. The previous dividend was 15 cents in June, 1931. Practically all of the common stock is owned by the Tidewater Associated Oil company.

The Interstate Department Stores company announced that action on the quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the common stock due at this time would be deferred until after operating results for the first six months of 1932 are available. Lawyers Title and Guaranty company declared a dividend of $2 quarterly, reducing the annual rate from $12 to $8.

The Commerce Department Has Gone Far In Expenditures Since the War



PRICES OF BONDS SHOW RECOVERY CLOSE TO BILLION

Profit Taking Arises; Easily Absorbed.

New York, March 10.—(AP)—Improvement in the bond market over the last few weeks is reflected in figures issued by the New York Stock exchange showing the combined aggregate market values of listed bonds as of March 1. Their market value on this date of $39,347,050,100 showed an increase of $975,129,481 over Feb. 1 values.

The bond market, after climbing steadily upward for a number of weeks, hesitated slightly today and, after catching its breath, continued to plod forward.

Profit Taking Absorbed.

Considerable profit taking came into various sections after noon, but it was easily absorbed in most cases and fresh support was accorded the higher grade issues.

A large part of the realizing today came into secondary rail issues. Canadian National lines gave ground, but Canadian Pacific debenture 4s finished with a net gain of a point. Nickel Plate issues moved to new highs for the year and Louisville and Nashville 4½s advanced 11 points.

The industrials were given a good play. Loans of Armour & Co., California Petroleum, Chile Copper, Goodrich, International Paper, Shell Union Oil, and the Standard Oils moved higher. Most of the utilities were steady.

U. S. Issues Firm.

The United States government group held firm, registering a number of new highs for the year. A majority of these loans closed fractionally higher notwithstanding the profit takers.

The Argentines again led the foreign department with 9 new peak prices for 1932. Loans of Buenos Aires province, Cordoba City, Australia, Brisbane City, Copenhagen City, Finland, Kingdom of Hungary, New South Wales, Norway, and Poland registered substantial gains and a number of new highs for the movement. Japanese obligations rallied moderately, but those of Great Britain and Germany sagged. German government 7s and 5½s were especially heavy.

PENNSYLVANIA R. R. ASKING $55,000,000 FROM FINANCE CORP.

Washington, D. C., March 10.—(AP)—The Pennsylvania railroad today applied to the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the interstate commerce commission for a $55,000,000 loan to finance electrification of the line between New York and Washington and for terminal improvements in Baltimore, Philadelphia, and Newark, N. J.

The road said its budget for those activities called for a total outlay of $68,000,000, of which it would furnish $13,000,000. It allotted $47,000,000 for the electrification work which has already been begun. Unless the loan can be obtained, the line said, the work must be suspended. For terminal improvement work the Pennsylvania allotted $9,822,000 to Philadelphia, $2,000,000 to Newark, and $1,500,000 to Baltimore. The remainder of the $68,000,000 budgeted would be spent on miscellaneous projects.

The road called for payment of the loan to it as follows: $7,000,000 on May 1, $1,000,000 on June 1, $5,000,000 on July 1, $6,500,000 on Aug. 1, $3,000,000 on Oct. 1, $16,000,000 on Nov. 1, and $16,500,000 on Dec. 1.

The Denver and Rio Grande Western railroad has applied to the Reconstruction Finance corporation for a loan of $4,000,000 to take care of its financial needs in 1932.

Fairbanks-Morse Reports $5,168,054 Net Loss for '31

Fairbanks, Morse & Co.'s annual report, issued yesterday, shows an operating loss of $3,012,850 for 1931 and a net loss of $5,168,054 after inventory writedowns and other deductions. After dividends of $816,944 on the common and preferred stock the total reduction in surplus for the year was $5,984,999. This brought surplus on Dec. 31 to $6,827,473, as compared with $12,812,472 at the end of 1930. Total current assets on Dec. 31 were $14,836,212, against total current liabilities of $1,526,244. Continued decline in volume and prices during 1931 made the year a difficult one, President R. H. Morse said in his letter to stockholders.

Postal Telegraph Net Loss $1,764,031 for 1931

New York, March 10.—(AP)—The Postal Telegraph and Cable corporation today reported a net loss of $1,764,031 for 1931 after providing for bond interest. Gross earnings for the year were $34,187,241 as compared with $37,923,357 for 1930. Operating expenses were $33,363,262 as compared with $35,020,661 for 1930. Net income before deducting $2,533,510 for interest on the $50,670,209 collateral trust 5 per cent gold bonds and debenture stock, was $769,478. Net earnings for the early months of 1932 were reported to be showing a "gratifying increase" over the previous year.

Rail Time to Yellowstone Will Be Cut Third of Day

A third of a day will be cut from the running time to Yellowstone Park from Chicago by the Chicago and North Western railway this summer when the special service to West Yellowstone from Chicago goes in June 17, C. A. Cairns, passenger traffic manager of the road, announced yesterday. Seven hours and ten minutes will be sliced from the westbound schedule and an even eight hours cut from the eastbound running time.

First Ford V-8 Rolls Out of Detroit Factory

Detroit, Mich., March 10.—No. 1 of the Ford Motor company's new line of V-8s rolled off the assembly line in the River Rouge factory yesterday in a brief ceremony attended by Henry and Edsel Ford and Charles E. Sorenson, general manager of the Ford factory.

New Business of U. S. Steel Shrinks Again

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 10.—The United States Steel corporation, in its monthly statement on unfilled orders today, reported a further decrease of 102,521 tons in its backlog for February.

At the end of the month unfilled tonnage had been reduced to 2,545,629 tons, the smallest reserve orders on its books since the corporation began publishing the figures more than two decades ago.

Larger Drop Than Expected.

Wall street had been expecting another decline in unfilled orders, but the size of the drop was somewhat larger than had been anticipated generally. However, considering the stagnation of the steel trade last month, the shrinkage in the backlog was not surprising. With the automobile industry failing to step up its operations materially and other heavy industries showing no signs of revival, steel buying remained at low ebb for the depression.

Eleventh Monthly Decline.

It was the eleventh consecutive monthly decline in unfilled orders; the backlog has been cut about 1,450,000 tons from the end of March a year ago. In February, 1931, there also was a substantial decline in the backlog, while the same month for 1930 brought a moderate gain in unfilled tonnage. In January the decline amounted to 87,203 tons.

The current new low level for the tonnage figures compares with the all time high of 12,183,083 at the end of April, 1917, when the steel corporation was feeling the impact of heavy war orders.

Bookings at the end of February last year totaled 3,965,194 tons, a shrinkage of 167,157 tons from the 4,132,351 tons reported as of Jan. 31, 1931, which was the high for the year.

BRITONS CHEER AS BANK OF ENGLAND CUTS DISCOUNT RATE

LONDON, March 10.—(AP)—A jubilant shout of "four!" was raised by a great throng of financial men jamming the streets in the neighborhood of the Bank of England when it was announced today that the bank rate had been reduced from five to four per cent. Financial circles pointed out that industry now will have to pay only five per cent for its bank advances, instead of the almost prohibitive seven which prevailed until three weeks ago.

It was said prospects were materially improved for the chancellor of the exchequer to do something about the conversion of the £2,000,000,000 [normally about $9,700,000,000] 5½ per cent war loans—a step he is known to favor.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 10.—Bored traders kept their feet on the floor and refused to get excited today either over the bearish tonnage report of the United States Steel corporation or the bullish one per cent cut in the Bank of England's discount rate. The U. S. Steel report caused a mild flurry of selling, but the new bank rate, heralded as a fresh display of returning confidence, was utterly ignored.

Price tendencies continued gently downward. As on yesterday and the day before, however, there was no particular pressure in any direction and declines of more than a point were rare. Apparently the market is just sagging of its own weight.

Volume Is Smaller.

Volume was somewhat smaller than in the previous session, amounting to only about 1,000,000 shares.

Some diversion was created in the humdrum course of the day by the barter and sale of such shares as yielded readily to influence — mostly by floor traders. Gold mining stocks were made to look firmer and International Silver was pegged up to a new high for the year. Auburn Auto ran up some 5 points in the early dealings, but was unable to maintain the pace and fell back to 96¼, up 2⅛ points on the day.

Talk of impending "better prices" for meats was credited with a moderate display of activity in some of the packing shares.

Standard issues ranged generally lower.

Utilities Group Action.

In the utilities group, American and Foreign Power issues picked up following the setback they suffered yesterday on prospects of the passing of the dividends, the first preferred recovering more than 2 points.

Another strong spot was provided by Lorillard, which developed unusual activity reputedly through the backing of new interests among those sponsoring the stock marketwise. The company made an impressive showing last year and now with the removal of the threat of a further federal tax

MIDLAND UNITED ISSUES REPORT; MARKET DULL

Net Earnings Up, but Firm Has Deficit for Year.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Tickers idled as stocks on the Chicago exchange yesterday moved in a narrow price range on a reduced volume of operations. The trend was irregular with minor losses predominating in the closing price list. The news of the day had little apparent influence on the market one way or the other. What selling came into the market was handled in an orderly manner.

The earnings statement of the Midland United company issued during the day found little reflection in the market. The firm, which is a holding company for Insull utility properties in northern Indiana, Ohio, and adjacent territory, showed greater net earnings last year than in 1930, but had a deficit for the period after payment of dividends.

Deficit After Dividends.

Net income was $3,890,572, against $3,353,258 in 1930. After dividends of $1,520,298 on the preferred and $2,321,578 on the common there was a final deficit of $1,008,107, as compared with a surplus after dividends of $1,388,349 in the preceding year. The 1931 earnings were equivalent after preferred dividends to 30 cents a share on 4,333,302 shares outstanding, as against 90 cents a share on 3,584,528 in 1930.

Transactions of the company in its own shares during the year resulted in a realized and unrealized loss of $1,687,715, which is charged against capital surplus, bringing that figure to $23,860,571 at the close of the period.

The consolidated balance sheet of the company and subsidiaries at the close of the year reveals current assets of $14,533,465, compared with current liabilities of $22,707,268. Current assets included cash of $2,957,792. Notes payable totaled $10,502,292 and accounts payable amounted to $4,052,235.

Stocks Steady.

The company recently omitted the dividend on the common stock. The issue was quoted yesterday at 2¼ on transactions of 6,800 shares. Middle West hovered around the same price on a large trade. Commonwealth Edison was less active and a fraction lower at 94½.

Elsewhere in the list trading was quiet and price fluctuations small.

Beech-Nut Packing.

Please give me any information you may have on Beech-Nut Packing company. I am interested in this stock.—C. M.

Beech-Nut Packing company prepares and markets a diversified line of foodstuffs. Output includes cured meats, canned fruits, jellies, coffee, chewing gum, mints, candy drops, and other confections. Each is a specialty. Chewing gum and confections account for about half of total sales.

Operations as a whole have been successful. Sales increased steadily each year from 1921 through 1929 and net income has been fairly stable. Net sales for 1931 were $18,905,000, against $22,946,000 for 1930, $23,732,000 for 1929, $23,303,000 for 1928, and $22,274,000 for 1927.

Net income for 1931 was $2,085,000, or $4.75 per common share on 438,624 shares. For 1930 net was $2,465,000, or $5.52 per common share on 446,250 shares. Net for 1929 was $2,703,000, against $2,769,000 for 1928, $2,301,000 for 1927, and $2,012,000 for 1926.

The company has benefited by low prices for sugar and chicle. The latter was placed on the free list in the new tariff act.

Current position at the close of 1931 was strong. Current assets were $14,624,000 and current liabilities were $1,061,000. Cash assets were $5,651,000. Working capital was $13,564,000, against $12,533,000 the year before.

Patents and trademarks were carried at $242,000. Earned surplus was $7,883,000 and reserve for contingencies was $400,000.

The company had no funded debt. Capitalization consisted of $4,500 preferred stock and 446,250 shares of $20 par common, including treasury stock. Gold Dust corporation owns a substantial minority interest.

Cash disbursements on the common have been made uninterruptedly for more than 29 years. The stock at present pa.s 75 cents per quarter.

New York Steam Corp.

I wish to in t about $5,000. I need absolute safety of principal. As I cannot afford to lose, I ask your unbiased opinion. A salesman has offered me New York Steam 6s, due 1947, and 5s, due 1951.—D. L. M.

New York Steam corporation, a subsidiary of Consolidated Gas of New York, furnishes steam for heat and power in the financial and commercial district of New York City. Expansion since 1924 has been marked. gross having considerably more than doubled.

C s revenues for 1931 were $9,662,000, against $9,610,000 for 1930. Fixed charges in 1931 were $1,218,000, against $1,298,000 in 1930. They were earned 2.66 times in 1931, 2.31 times in 1930, and 2.15 times in 1929.

The first 6s, due 1947, and the first 5s, due 1951, are reasonably sound.

ITALY DICKERS WITH JUGO-SLAVS FOR TRADE PACT

Also Considers Treaty with Russians.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, March 10.—On the heels of the conclusion of new trade agreements with France, Germany, Austria, Hungary, and Spain, the Fascist government today began negotiations with Jugo-Slavia for renewal or revision of the commercial accord with that country. This would constitute the sixth trade pact reached since March 1.

At the same time it is now dickering with the official Russian delegation, which is here this week to negotiate a new trade agreement.

Objection by Germany.

Germany objected to Italy's 15 per cent surtax duty levied last fall, but in the accord signed, this matter was left pending. The agreement with Spain was largely to agree on another pact later on, while those with Austria and Hungary appear to be modified versions of commercial agreements which were signed a year ago.

It is suggested here, therefore, that the energy with which the whole batch was rushed through at the end of February was prompted by the growing necessity of arresting the dismaying shrinkage in Italian trade.

United Europe Plan.

It is also seen as Italy's gesture toward that united European front which is to feature the Lausanne reparations conference in June and about which Mussolini expressed himself with vigor in the family paper last January. European difficulty in reaching that united front and in setting its house in order preliminary to asking for a revision of the debt to America is reflected, however, in the diversified views about the plan for immediately coming to the aid of the Danubian countries. Mussolini's government newspaper two days ago took a cautious view of the French proposal for Danubian help.

Negotiations between the Fascists and Russians, which are about to begin, will deal specifically with the renewal or modification of the agreement last April in which the soviets agreed to buy $15,000,000 worth of Italian goods on a two year credit basis. Long term arrangement will not be forthcoming this time, however, for objections have been raised here that while the soviets are buying on credit from Italy, they are paying cash for purchases from other countries.

CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE STOCKS

Shares of the General American Tank Car company were admitted to listing on the Chicago Board of Trade. Dealings in the stock will begin today. Main plants of the corporation, a holding company for fourteen domestic and two European subsidiaries, are at East Chicago, Ind., and Sharon, Pa., a fleet of 50,000 cars is operated.

MARKET DRIFTS GENTLY LOWER; TRADING IDLES

Wall Street Ignores Both Good and Bad News.

on tobacco—for the time being at least—is coming into renewed favor as a speculative medium. The common rose a full point to score a new high for the year. The new pool behind the issue is reported to be headed by a big operator now vacationing in Florida.

Oil shares continued in the doldrums. Tidewater preferred rose 2 points on a single sale, but the common fell back almost as much on a similar turnover, making it a 50-50 affair. Other issues of the group did next to nothing.

Peoples Gas Regains Loss.

Peoples Gas found the market thin on an early morning outing and took a tumble for more than 3 points, but recovered its loss and went ahead fractionally later on. Norfolk and Western and Reading first preferred gave up 3 points apiece with little resistance.

United States Steel and most of the other issues of its division held fairly steady in face of the big corporation's report showing a further reduction of 102,521 tons in its backlog on the books at the close of February. Professional operators tried to capitalize the evident disappointment of the street over the report with a selling drive, but found interest lacking and reserved their exertions for future enterprise.

Railroad shares followed the trend of the market.

S. PACIFIC NEEDS MORE STOCK OF "COTTON BELT"

New York, March 10.—(AP)—An additional 101,000 shares of St. Louis Southwestern Railway company common and preferred stocks is needed by the Southern Pacific company to enable the latter to complete the "Cotton Belt" acquisition, as authorized by the interstate commerce commission.

Southern Pacific now holds, it is understood, 42,600 preferred shares and 87,200 common shares of the "Cotton Belt" system. In addition it has under option 24,700 common and 59,380 preferred shares, making a combined total of 213,880 shares.

Under the order of the commission the Southern Pacific is authorized to fulfill its plan for acquiring the "Cotton Belt" on the condition, among others, that it become the owner of 85 per cent of the latter's outstanding common and preferred stocks. To attain this percentage requires the deposit of the above amount of stock.

Southern Pacific is offering to exchange three of its common shares for each five "Cotton Belt" preferred shares and one share of its common for each three shares of "Cotton Belt" common.

LOSS OF $7,856,899 FOR '31 REPORTED BY TUBE MAKER

Youngstown, O., March 10.—(AP)—Youngstown Sheet and Tube company today reported net loss for 1931 of $7,856,899, after all charges and preferred dividends. The loss is equivalent to $6.55 per share of common stock. In 1930 Sheet and Tube reported net profit of $6,211,132, equal to $5.02 a share.

A net profit of $2,309,069, augmented by other income, was realized from operations. This was increased by other income to a total of $3,758,864. This sum, however, was insufficient to cover interest charges of $4,363,571 and depreciation of $6,437,806, resulting in the net loss. Surplus was reduced $11,700,899 to $40,281,501. The statement shows that net sales fell nearly 50 per cent from $111,057,927 in 1930 to $59,487,008 in 1931.

Current assets of $73,238,379, including $13,543,192 in cash and government securities, exceed current liabilities of $6,067,148 in a ratio of more than 12 to 1.

NEBRASKA POWER STOCK "WRITE UP" PUT AT $7,068,000

Washington, D. C., March 10.—(AP)—A "write-up," or appreciation, of listed stock value of $7,068,000 by the Nebraska Power company in 1917 was outlined to the federal trade commission today by its examiner, Walter Meleen. The appreciation occurred, he told the commission, in 1917 when the Nebraska utility bought the properties and securities of the Omaha Electric Light and Power company.

The Nebraska company is a direct subsidiary of the American Power and Light company and indirectly of the Electric Bond and Share company.

The price paid by the Nebraska company for the Omaha properties, Meleen testified, was $6,432,000. He added they were reformed and booked with a capital stock of $13,500,000. The difference between the write-up and the cost subtracted from the new capital value was made up of incidentals, Meleen said.

Plan for Reorganization of Cosden Oil Announced

New York, March 10.—(AP)—A committee headed by J. S. Cosden as chairman today announced a plan for the reorganization of the Cosden Oil company, which has been in receivership since November a year ago.

Holders of secured obligations, debts and claims, under the plan, will receive up to the principal amount and interest to Nov. 9, 1930, first mortgage 6 per cent serial bonds of the readjusted company, maturing one-fourth respectively, in two, three, four and five years. Holders of unsecured obligations will receive general lien 5 year 6 per cent bonds to the principal amount of their claims, with interest to Nov. 9, 1930.

The plan calls for holders of preferred stock to receive share for share of $100 par value 7 per cent preferred stock of the reorganized company, noncumulative for two years and cumulative thereafter at the rate of $7 per annum.

COPPER CHIEFS MAY DECIDE ON 20% FOR OUTPUT

Belgian, Britons Plan to Sail Today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 10.—It is expected that copper producers will decide to curtail production from the present rate of 26 per cent to approximately 20 per cent.

It is said they will be unable, however, to reach an accord on revision of rules governing sales of copper by Copper Exporters, Inc., the coöperative sales agency of the producers. The producers continued their conferences today in the hope of coming to a definite understanding before representatives of foreign copper companies leave for Europe tomorrow night on the Majestic.

Belgians and Britons to Sail.

Those scheduled to sail tomorrow night are F. Pisart, managing director of the Katanga Copper mines of Africa; Sir Auckland Geddes, chairman of the Rhokana corporation and the Rio Tinto company, and Arthur D. Storke, managing director of the Roan Antelope Copper mines of Africa.

The proposed cut to 20 per cent of capacity represents a compromise between those copper executives who favored a reduction to 17 per cent and others who offered objections to any further reduction. It has been possible to enlist the support of foreign producers on the compromise by fixing production at 20 per cent of capacity.

May Follow Old Rules.

The proposed cut, if accepted by all producers will entail a further decline of about 12,500 tons of copper a month output, it was estimated.

If the producers, as now appears likely, fail to agree on new rules, Copper Exporters, Inc., will continue to operate under the old rules, it was predicted in trade quarters today. Under those rules special sales of metal by custom smelters are permitted, with the result the latter are relieved of the necessity of storing copper.

Copper Prices Easier.

New York, March 10.—(AP)—Copper prices softened today. A limited tonnage of the metal was offered abroad at 6¼ cents a pound, a decline of ⅛ cent from previous sales. At the same time the "official" price of Copper Exporters, Inc., still stands at 6⅝ cents a pound. While the demand was light, copper for domestic shipment was available at 6 cents a pound in moderate tonnage, and some second hand spot was offered as low as 5¾ cents.

Bright Spots in the Day's News

General Motors corporation stockholders of record for the first quarter of this year numbered 345,194, a new high total. This compared with 313,117 in the final quarter of 1931 and 286,378 in the first quarter of 1931.

Shipments of the Leonard Refrigerator corporation, division of Kelvinator corporation, for February were 56 per cent greater than for January and 129 per cent ahead of February, 1931, it was announced by R. I. Petrie, general sales manager of the subsidiary.

* * *

A contract for the construction of a new postoffice and courthouse at Sacramento, Cal., was awarded to the N. P. Severin company of Chicago at $842,890, and must be completed in 500 days.

* * *

Nearly $75,000, which has been held by receiver O. A. James since the Marion Trust and Savings bank, Marion, Ill., closed two years ago, will be released at once and distributed among the tax funds of Williamson county. The courts have decided the money was a preferred claim over other deposits.

* * *

Seasonal and other influences have brought about moderate price advances this week in several items in the crude drug market. Quince seed and insect flowers have been particularly active, and some importers of the latter are said to have bought from competitors to build up deficient supplies.

* * *

Wengler & Mandell, Chicago cigar manufacturers, are looking forward to 1932 as the largest year in their business, and therefore have abolished their old method of selling through only one distributor. They have opened twenty jobber accounts in Chicago.

* * *

The American Hide and Leather company's production is currently larger than last year's at this time. Tannery operations are now about 60 per cent of capacity, compared with 45 per cent in January.

BRAZILIAN STATE PAYS WHAT IT CAN ON BOND INTEREST

New York, March 10.—(AP)—The state of Sao Paulo, rated as the richest in Brazil, today went on record as favoring the idea of paying what you can even if you can't pay off the whole amount due. The state did not have enough money available in New York to meet its March interest requirements on its 1926, 7 per cent secured water works loan of $7,000,000. However, it arranged through Speyer & Co. and the J. Henry Schroder Banking corporation, as its New York banking representatives, to pay most of the interest due.

The bankers announced today that as a result of this arrangement, they "would make a distribution to the holders of the March 1, 1932, coupons, as a part payment, at the rate of $29 for each $35 coupon and $14.50 for each $17.50 coupon."

CALLS REALTY THE BEST BUY OF A GENERATION

Realtors' Head Talks to Hamiltonians.

BY AL CHASE.

Real estate today presents the greatest opportunity of a generation for the wise buyer, J. Soule Waterfield, president of the Chicago Real Estate board, told several hundred members of the Hamilton club at a luncheon yesterday. He declared that losses in realty values were insignificant compared with those suffered by industrials, rails, utilities, bank stocks, and other securities. And he backed his advice on buying now with a glimpse back into real estate history, pointing out that enormous fortunes have been built up on land purchases made during depressions.

J. SOULE WARTERFIELD.
[Walinger Photo.]

He declared there were only three things which will determine the length of the last stage of our present depression: Restored public confidence, a solution of the tax muddle, and the cutting of public expenditures to a sane basis. Allan T. Gilbert, president of the Hamilton club, presented Mr. Waterfield.

Stands Ready to Lead.

"Real estate is the basis of all wealth and stands ready now to lead us out of our depression," said Mr. Waterfield. "With the loosening of credits and return toward normal conditions, real estate will furnish credits for much needed expansion in all lines. It was the only commodity which was not so liquid as to be thrown away in our recent panic to liquidate everything at all costs, and is still the best collateral the bank's clients have.

"Just as soon as we get restored confidence people will go back to work and the first thing they'll do will be to stop living with their 'in-laws.' Normal expansion in business then will come and we'll wake up some fine morning to find another acute housing shortage.

"It'll be just history repeating itself, that's all, and what is needed to start all this? Just restored confidence and constructive leadership. This is true all over the country, but especially true in Chicago, because the suspension of building in this city came before that in most large metropolitan centers, and has been more complete.

Problem Well in Hand.

"More than in most other large cities, we've washed up our sick properties—made sick by poor management or overfinancing, or both—and today we find most of these properties in the hands of competent committees and management, on their way to recovery.

"There are exceptions, of course, and I don't mean by any means that we should not militantly proceed to protect them against crooked politicians, bankers, lawyers, and real estate operators. But, by and large, this problem is well in hand."

Mr. Waterfield declared the only sane program for a solution of the present tax muddle was that submitted by the Chicago Real Estate board at Springfield. But, he added, "we're ready to scrap it overnight if some one will show us a better program."

SWEDISH GROUP TO RUN PERSIA'S STEEL INDUSTRY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 10.—THE TRIBUNE correspondent learns that the Swedish-Orient Vulcan group of financiers has received a concession to develop Persia's iron and steel industry in return for a payment of £7,000,000, about $23,000,000. Two million is to be devoted to the immediate building of railroads, roads, and bridges. The group takes over for 50 years the coal mines of Aliabad, the manganese mines of Khorashan, and the copper and iron deposits in the Elburz region. The Persian government is to receive a third of the profits.

Life Insurance Sales Larger at End of 1931

Life insurance sales in the United States increased sharply during the last quarter of 1931, according to the Business Outlook published by the Wells-Fargo Bank and Union Trust company of San Francisco.

Last year's low point in new insurance sales was reached in September, but in December sales were 1 per cent greater than in December of 1930. However, sales for the full year of 1931 were 13 per cent below those of 1930.

The same trend was noted in California. Sales of insurance in December approached within 2 per cent of the December, 1930, total. Sales for the full year were 17 per cent smaller than in 1930.

Fisk Reorganization Group Extends Subscription Date

New York, March 10.—(AP)—The Fisk Rubber company reorganization committee announced today the time limit for depositing bonds, notes, and claims and for exercising subscription privileges without penalty under the reorganization plan announced in January has been extended to April 1. The committee said more than 40 per cent of the company's first mortgage, 20 year, 8 per cent bonds and more than 47 per cent of the 5 year, 5½ per cent, sinking fund notes have been deposited.

Erie Changes Its Three Control Districts Into Two

The three operating districts of the Erie railroad have been consolidated into two districts, effective March 16. The headquarters of the eastern district will be at New York and that of the western district at Yaungstown.

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

There has been a fairly steady demand for North American wheat from abroad during the past few days and while the quantities taken have not been large, a persistent inquiry is indicated. Yesterday's sales in all positions were placed at 400,000 to 500,000 bu, including hard winter and Manitobas. Japan was a buyer of the latter at the Pacific coast while Germany took some on Wednesday. A moderate amount of American corn was sold to the United Kingdom from the gulf at 47c c. i. f. Liverpool, but the quantity was not given. Around 100,000 bu kaffir corn was sold at the gulf on Wednesday. A scattered business was claimed in Canadian rye, oats and barley.

Local handlers sold 8,000 bu wheat, 6,000 bu corn, 21,000 bu oats, and 2,000 bu barley. Purchases to arrive were 3,000 bu wheat, 36,000 bu corn and 2,000 bu oats.

Cash wheat was in fair demand in the local market with the basis steady to ¼c higher. No. 2 red was quoted at 2@2¾c under; No. 2 hard, 1½@2c under; No. 2 yellow hard, 2@2½c under and No. 2 mixed at 1¾@2½c under May.

Offerings of cash corn continue relatively light in the sample market and with a fair demand the basis was steady to ¼c higher. Discounts as compared with May follow: No. 2 mixed, 4@4½c; yellow, 3½@3¾c; white, 3¼@3½c; No. 3 mixed, 5@6c; yellow and white, 4½@5¾c; No. 4 mixed, 6¼@6¾c; yellow, 6@6½c; white, 6@6½c. No. 2 yellow on restricted billing sold at 4¾@5c under May.

Cash oats continue to sell readily with the basis steady to ¼c higher. No. 2 white was May price to ⅜c under and No. 3 white, ⅜@1¼c under May. No. 2 rye was May price to 2c under.

Official receipts of grain at Chicago Thursday: Wheat, 43 cars; corn, 94 cars; oats, 18 cars; barley, 3 cars.

BUTTER FUTURES STEADY

Butter and egg futures were about steady on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, butter closing unchanged to ⅛c higher, and eggs unchanged to ¼c lower. Support in March butter continued active, encouraged by cold weather and a better storage report. Profit taking was present on the advance, but the covering and new buying offset this pressure. Egg news continued fairly favorable. Receipts are sharply under last year, and a very much smaller inward movement has been reported by the storage centers, yesterday's reports showing 23,000 cases less. However, selling continued active. Sales: Butter, 53 cars; eggs, 27 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 1 car. Prices follow:

NEWS OF THE CROPS

Reports from Kansas City say that the winter wheat crop has been severely damaged by cold weather in the last ten days. There is apprehension over the entire winter wheat country as to damage as low temperatures have held several days longer than usual. The Oklahoma weekly weather crop report says winter grains were set back by the severe freeze, but wheat will not be permanently damaged. Early planted spring oats that were up were frozen to the ground and more or less damaged. All field work has been suspended.

Reports from South Dakota to J. E. Bennett & Co. were of dust storms with subzero temperatures, with winds blowing a gale from the north. Dust storms also extended into Minnesota. Their Kansas City correspondent said that reports from bankers, farmers, and county agents in twenty western Kansas counties indicate that the wheat crop will be below normal expectations. Reports from eighteen counties showed the condition of wheat ranging from 40 to 84. Comanche and Kiowa counties reported prospects near 100. Lack of subsoil moisture, abandonment of acreage, due to blowing and winter killing, worms and late freezing weather were given as reasons for the low conditions.

LARD MARKET STRONGER

A firmer undertone to the lard market was due to the advance in hogs with arrivals less than last week and last year. A fair business was on, with commission houses buying, while the selling came from hedgers. Liverpool lard was up sharply and export clearances were 609,275 lbs of lard. At the last lard futures were 2½@7½c, the largest gains being on the most active deliveries. A fair business was on in bellies, with net gains 7½@19c on the leading deliveries. Prices follow:

WORLD'S WHEAT CROP

World's wheat production in 1931 as given by the latest returns in foreign crops and markets was 3,594,952,000 bu in 42 countries, nearly 98 per cent of the 1930 production in the same countries. Acreage is estimated at 237,345,000 acres. Winter wheat acreage in 15 countries is slightly below that of last year, 137,551,000 acres against 108,814,000 acres sown in the fall of 1930. Rye sowings in nine countries total 35,264,000 acres for harvest in 1932, compared with 35,102,000 acres.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, March 10.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil today closed steady at one point decline, with sales of only two contracts, or 300 barrels. Scattered local selling was absorbed by trade buying, with the general market steady due to the general steadiness of the commodity group. Crude oil was nominal in Texas with sales at 3¼c in the southeast and the valley. Bleachable spot closed 4.00c; March, 4.30c; May, 4.25c; July, 4.50c; September, 4.60c. There were no sales in the prime summer yellow contract, with closing prices as follows: Spot and March, 4.00c; May, 4.20c; July, 4.32c; September, 4.42c.

NEW SALES FIRM FORMED HERE BY GEN. ELECTRIC CO.

Establishment of a new distributing organization in Chicago which is expected to eventually give employment to over 400 people was announced yesterday by H. J. Francis, manager of the home laundry equipment division of the General Electric company.

The new company, W. D. Hess Jr., Inc., will open offices in the Merchandise Mart, and will handle flat plate ironers and washing machines of General Electric. The set-up of the new organization will be similar to R. Cooper Jr., refrigerator distributors. Branches will be opened throughout the Chicago area and an intensive new business campaign will be carried on. With the additional facilities, General Electric expects to acquire over a million dollars worth of business in this district, officials said. Production of the laundry equipment factory is being tripled in anticipation of new business this year, it was stated.

Officers of the new company are W. D. Hess, president; Frank J. Saibert, treasurer, and R. J. Dalloch, sales manager.

Says Russian Wheat Does Not Menace U. S., Canada

SASKATOON, Sask., March 10.—(AP)—Russia as a serious menace to wheat producers of Canada and the United States does not loom significantly for some years to come, W. W. Swanson, professor of economics at the University of Saskatchewan, said today. Commenting on reports from Riga of near famine conditions and serious difficulties confronting wheat seeding operations in a large section of Russia, Dr. Swanson said they tended to support the view that wheat is moving into a stronger position and they would do a great deal to discount alarmist reports spread throughout western Canada that Russian competition would threaten the prairie wheat industry.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET·NEWS

Wheat traders claimed the action of the market in refusing to break yesterday on the government report on farm reserves indicated there was no scattered long interest of consequence outstanding at the present time. The general feeling in the trade is that the market will continue to fluctuate erratically within narrow limits until new and powerful influences make their appearance.

Buenos Aires wheat futures closed ⅛c lower yesterday, with May at 48⅜c. Corn dropped 1⅛@1¼c with March at 34¼c, and May 31⅝c at the last. The latter future was 9⅛c under the same delivery in Chicago.

Bearish sentiment in corn has been tempered the last few days by the reports of small lots of cash grain having been sold for export, but the domestic situation, as close observers see it, has not changed, and they feel that sooner or later prices will work irregularly lower.

Open interest in wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade at the close of business on March 9 aggregated 128,142,000 bu, the largest since Nov. 20. There has been an increase of around 16,000,000 bu in the open interest since early in February.

Unfavorable reports continue to be received from Russia regarding the food situation. According to press reports around 40,000,000 people will require relief this spring. However, cables indicate there is no chance of food being imported.

A factor in the general grain situation to which attention is being called by some interests is that supplies of flour, corn products and other foodstuffs in second hands are unusually light at the present time. To some extent it is claimed this is a factor in the slow demand which has prevailed for various commodities for some time past. This condition is regarded as world-wide.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Live hens advanced 1@1½c and Rock broilers 1c. Other poultry was unchanged. Receipts, 1 car and 15 trucks. Trading in potatoes remains slow with market nominally unchanged. Numerous cars received showing effect of the continued cold weather. Receipts, 63 cars with 297 cars on team track. Spot butter was unchanged to 1c higher. Receipts, 6,265 tubs. Fresh eggs were unchanged. Receipts, 10,780 cases.

WHEAT FUTURES, EXCEPT MARCH, RISE SLIGHTLY

British Market Higher; Italy Raises Quota.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Bearish news in the way of larger farm reserves of wheat than expected, as given by the government report issued late Wednesday, fell flat as a market influence yesterday.

There was scattered early selling which carried prices off fractionally from the close of the previous day, but the loss was recovered later and final trades were unchanged to ⅛c higher as compared with Wednesday, except on the March. The latter lost ¼c, closing at 57½c; May was 60⅞@61c; July, 62¾c, and September at 64¾c.

Wheat prices had a range of only ½c for the day, with the July delivery continuing to hover around the 63c level, having touched that figure 19 times out of the last 20 days' operations, while the May future has held within a range of 2⅞c for 23 days.

Wheat Market Shock Proof.

The traders paid as little attention to bullish news as they did to bearish, and an upturn of ¼@½c per bu in Liverpool wheat futures was almost without effect, although the English market gained sharply on Chicago, with May there closing at 60⅝c, or within ⅛c of the same delivery here. Taken as a whole, the general run of the news from abroad was of a character to encourage holders. Strength abroad was due in part to Italy raising the quota of foreign wheat which can be ground by mills in that country by 10 per cent, and there were unconfirmed reports suggesting that a sharp upward revision would be made in the German quota, and that France was also considering action along the same lines. Berlin wheat closed ½@1⅞c higher, while Paris was up 1⅜@1½c.

Europe Active Buyer.

Europe has become a persistent buyer of North American cash wheat of late, and there was an impression in the trade that the amount of American hard winters being sold abroad was well in excess of the quantities reported. According to seaboard reports hard winters are offered at a figure below Manitobas of the same quality. Total sales in all positions for the day were placed at 400,000 to 500,000 bu, with Japan taking some Manitobas.

Winnipeg wheat market again showed independent strength and was ⅜@½c higher at the last, with May at 67⅜c in Canadian funds, which were at 10¼ per cent discount. There were numerous reports from western Kansas indicating crop deterioration in that section. The Kansas state board of agriculture's weekly report, in commenting on the cold weather, said it was probable damage had been done in this area, as the warm temperatures of mid-February were followed by the extreme change.

"More than 5,000,000 acres in the western part of the state are susceptible to injury fom this cause," the report said.

More Corn for Export.

Further export sales of cash corn were reported yesterday, following the disposal of 120,000 bu at the Atlantic coast on Wednesday. The new business claimed was at the Gulf, and sold at 47c c. i. f. Liverpool, but the quantity was not given. It was understood to be a relatively small amount, but Memphis, Tenn., reported exporters inquiring for corn there to go to the Gulf for export. A fairly good business has developed in kaffir corn and milo maize at the Gulf of late, according to reports, and 100,000 bu kaffir were said to have been sold on Wednesday.

There was no material pressure on corn futures from the state, despite the bearish construction placed on the government farm reserve report, and prices held within a range of ¼@⅜c, closing ⅛c higher to ⅛c lower, with May at 40½c, July at 42¾c, and September 44c. Scarcity of old Argentine grain abroad is reported, which has turned attention to American kinds. The country sold 36,000 bu to arrive.

Oats were dull, with trade largely of a local character. Closing trades were unchanged to ⅛c higher, with May at 25¼@25⅜c, and July, 25⅞c. The Oklahoma weekly crop report confirmed damage to the newly seeded grain.

While rye advanced to a new high on the current movement, there was not the activity in the market so much in evidence of late. Pressure was lacking, however, and the close was ½@1⅛c higher, with May at 51⅛@51¼c, July 52⅜c, and September 53⅞c. There were intimations of further export business at the seaboard, but the quantities were not given. Russia cleared 425,000 bu for the week, against 17,000 bu last year.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, March 10.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was less active today, but the undertone was easy. All previous low records were broken with sales at 2.76c. Sales reported included 7,000 bags of Cuban from store at 2.78c, 15,000 bags for prompt shipment at 2.79c, 15,000 bags of Cuban at 2.79c to an outport refiner and 13,500 bags of Philippines at 2.76c. All previous low records were broken in the futures market when sales occurred in the May position at .79c, which was 4 points below the previous close. All other positions were at new lows for the season. Approximate sales, 45,750 tons. March closed .80c; May, .80c; July, .87c; September, .93c; December, .99c; January, 1.02c.

Commercial Credit Co. Retires Part of Stock

New York, March 10.—(AP)—Stockholders of the Commercial Credit company voted at a special meeting in Baltimore to reduce the corporation's capital by retiring 37,052 of its 1,037,052 shares of issued and outstanding common stock, and charging the cost, $737,576, to capital.

Philip Morris Consolidated, Inc., has announced plans for reducing authorized capital and cutting down the number of outstanding shares. Stockholders will be asked to exchange present common stock for new $10 par common on the basis of two no-par shares for one share of new common. The authorized 7 per cent class "A" stock will be reduced to 125,000 shares from 146,500 shares.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, March 10.—(AP)—Cotton goods sales continued light today in finished and unfinished lines, but mercerized yarns appeared to be in growing demand. Rayon yarns for lining purposes are selling more freely. Burlaps eased a trifle, following the movement of sterling closely. Wool goods for men's wear are quiet. Shipments on past orders of women's wear fabrics continue active.

BANKERS SEE BETTER SALES OF PUBLIC BONDS

Economy Efforts Called Helpful.

New York, March 10.—(AP)—For the first time in nearly a year, Wall street bankers who specialize in state and municipal financing are beginning to dust off long shelved financing projects to see if some of them might soon be offered for public investment subscription.

The public market for municipal bonds was strengthened materially this week. While the movement has not yet reached impressive proportions, it is said by bankers to be reassuring.

So far this week, the investment public has read of several brisk budget trimming parties. Typical of these have been the statements that the United States government has trimmed its proposed budget expenditures for the next fiscal year by $365,000,000, to which the house of representatives recommends a still further reduction of $112,000,000.

The city of New York, which because of the tremendous volume of its financing needs occupies a strategic position in the municipal market, has taken an ax to its budget this year whereby it expects to trim off $172,000,000 of costs which had already been approved. Many other governments, running the gamut from the United States government on down to the smallest political subdivisions, have likewise done some determined clipping.

These evidences, bankers say, have encouraged investors.

Follow These Rules:

1. Each day for 48 consecutive days (except Sunday) the Chicago Daily Tribune will print a United States Crossword Puzzle. The name of one of the 48 States in the United States will be in each puzzle. You are invited to solve the puzzle and name the State.

2. The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000.00 in Cash Prizes to persons who send in the nearest correctly solved complete sets of puzzles in accordance with these rules. Note: This means that you do not necessarily have to solve each of the 48 puzzles correctly to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest.

3. This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls—except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

4. Puzzles are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do NOT send in each puzzle separately. Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set of 48. Then send them to "Crosswords," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Puzzle No. 48 has been printed.

5. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Post Office Department. Make your entry simple and neat. Neatness will count.

6. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the puzzles and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

7. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

CATTLE—Bulk of sales yesterday	$5.25@7.00
One month ago	4.75@7.50
One year ago	7.50@9.00
Top yesterday, $8.15; average, $6.15.
SHEEP—Fed western lambs	$7.25@7.75
One month ago	5.50@6.10
One year ago	8.00@9.00
Top yesterday, $7.75; average, $7.15.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 2,000; hogs, 18,000; sheep, 11,000.

Another bulge in the hog market brought the top price to $5 yesterday, the highest since Nov. 5 and 90c above the low day early last month. The general average moved up 5c to $4.60 and compares with a low of $3.75 on Feb. 8. A buying wave came on the heels of a short lull in the forenoon, just before the $5 line was reached, and after that all interests bought freely. Closing sales were highest of the day with larger houses aggresive in butcher weights.

The available supply is below current demand and all buyers are eager for numbers lately. Purchases made by big houses were largest since March 1. Only small supplies are in sight for the next few days. This week's receipts at Chicago are expected to land around 11,000, the smallest since last September. The total at all leading markets is running below any corresponding period in more than 17 years.

Hog futures got very little attention yesterday. September light were offered at $6 and heavy grades at $6.25. The latter were bid $5.50. Some buyers were willing to pay $5 for 170@260 lb hogs delivered to them in May, but no offers to sell were made in that month.

Cattle Yards Buying.

Buying in the cattle yards yesterday converged in plainer grades of steers and in butcher stock. This pulled support from better classes and the latter dragged all day, finally closing a shade lower. Losses in best grades were partly offset by gains in lower priced stock. There seems to be a drive on to hold down initial costs, which makes it difficult to move anything valued alive at more than $7.

Stock selling at $6.50 and below got plenty of action yesterday, resulting in an abrupt narrowing of the price range. Steers sold within a range of $5.00@8.15, against $4.75@8.90 on the previous session. The lower list of top sales was attributed partly to quality, however. The failure of beef to respond as emphatically to light supplies as pork and lamb is rather inexplicable in view of the fact that prevailing quotations make beef, on the whole, relatively lower than other meat.

By way of comparisons, beef carcasses now are selling wholesale at 8@15c per lb, as against 7½@16½c a month ago. Pork loins, where the sharpest gains were made, sold yesterday at 11@15c and compare with 5½@8c a month ago, while lamb carcasses at 12@17c yesterday compare with 9@13c a month ago. In view of this, the 50@75c advance per cwt in beef since a week ago has been mild. Most live steers are still selling above last week's close. Common grades show advances of 50c for the week, while only the top classes have lost all of what was gained on earlier sessions.

Lambs Reach $7.75.

Lambs sold freely at strong to 25c higher prices yesterday, city butchers paying up to $7.75, the new top, while shippers bought at $7.60 and packers at $7.50. Prices were only 15c under the highest spot since last September. Buying gained momentum as the day progressed and closing sales were $1.25 above the low spot late last week and $2.40 above the low point of the winter, established last December when top lambs went down to $5.35.

Reports of $8.00 lambs at eastern points added zest to demand here. Sheep receipts this week are running second smallest since last August, barring one holiday week. Packers were buying for numbers yesterday and swung into matured stock when they ran short of lambs. Aged sheep closed fully 25c higher, with top ewes up to $4.50, equaling the highest since last May.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 2,000 cattle, 18,000 hogs and 11,000 sheep, against 1,336 cattle, 13,485 hogs and 6,847 sheep the previous Friday, and 1,700 cattle, 21,620 hogs and 13,909 sheep a year ago.

COTTON SENTIMENT BULLISH

Cotton traders as a whole regard the market situation as bullish, but in the absence of any decided buying or selling, prices held within extremely narrow limits with the finish on futures in Chicago 23 points higher, New Orleans up 1@2 points, and New York 2 points higher to 1 point net lower. Spots were unchanged in all markets, with New York 7.05c, New Orleans and Houston 6.95c, and Galveston 7c. Liverpool closed 9@10 points net higher, with sterling exchange 3.64½, a net loss of 4¾ points for the day.

Reports from southwest Texas said that 70 per cent of the cotton area had been planted, 60 per cent was up and that the ground was covered with snow necessitating replanting. Advices from the south in general, including the western sections as well as the middle belt of the coldest weather in two years which is believed to have materially damaged the boll weevil in hibernation. A moderate amount of southern and hedge selling was met by price fixing orders awaiting execution.

HIDE FUTURES

There was somewhat more activity in hide futures yesterday, sales on the New York Hide exchange aggregating 540,000 lbs, but there was no incentive for operators to take a decided stand on either side with the result prices held within narrow limits and closed unchanged to 1 point lower. Closing bids follow: March, 5.10c; May, 6.40c; June, 6.85c; September, 7.55c; December, 8.15c.

Commonwealth Customers—Pay LESS-for-LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

COMMONWEALTH'S rate on amounts above $100 is substantially lower than the lawful rate usually charged.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signatures of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

NO FEES. You get full amount of the loan and up to 25 months to repay. Interest at the Reduced Rate is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.

Why pay more than HOUSEHOLD'S LOW RATE

The nationally known HOUSEHOLD LOAN PLAN offers cash loans of $300 or less to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Loans above $100 and up to $300 are made at a rate less than the usual small loan rate.

Quick service. Strictly confidential. Husband and wife only need sign. No endorsers. Twenty months to repay.
